Queen Pins Cross on Gurkha

LONDON (AP) — The Queen today pinned the Victoria Cross —Britain's highest award for gallantry — on the chest of L.-Cpl. Rambahadur Limbu, a Gurkha soldier.

Looking on was the corporal's five - year - old son, Bhakta, flown from Nepal to London to see his father receive the honor.

Limbu is only the third man to receive the Victoria Cross from the Queen in 20 years.

His act of heroism took place last November in Sarawak, fighting Indonesian infiltrators.

After he left the palace with his smiling son, Limbu said:

"This has been a great day and one I'll remember forever. I hope that one day, after he finishes his education, my son will join the regiment." His wife died earlier this year.

The citation, read in the grand ballroom of Buckingham Palace by the Lord Chamberlain, Lord Cobbold, said the corporal rescued two comrades while under heavy fire.

Mrs. Gandhi in Moscow On Viet Peace Mission

Pressing Soviet To Resume Meet

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Prime Minister Gandhi of India was given a big welcome when she arrived here today for talks in which she will urge the Soviet Union to do something about peace in Viet Nam.

Fresh from visits to Cairo and Belgrade, Mrs. Gandhi intends to make Viet Nam a key topic during her five-day visit.

The influence of non-aligned powers in international affairs faces a test in the five days of official talks arranged for Mrs. Gandhi. She has the backing of two other non-aligned countries —Yugoslavia and the United Arab Republic—for her call for reconvening the 1954 Geneva conference on Indo-China.

Russia, co - chairman with Britain of the 1954 conference which ended the war in Indochina, is reluctant to resume the Geneva meeting unless the United States withdraws its troops from South Viet Nam and stops bombing the North.

Her appeal has already been rejected by China, which labelled it an attempt to sap the fighting will of the Vietnamese.

The U.S. view is that her plan is unlikely to prove of any value because of North Viet Nam's expressed disinterest in negotiations.

WILSON MAY HELP

However, Prime Minister Wilson of Britain begins a visit to Moscow Saturday, Mrs. Gandhi's last day here, and some observers said he might be able to add weight to her case.

Mrs. Gandhi Monday night completed two days of talks with Yugoslav President Tito in the president's Adriatic island hideaway. Tito was understood to have expressed full appreciation of her peace plan.

However a joint communique issued today did not specifically mention Viet Nam.

The communique expressed India's and Yugoslavia's deep concern over persistent use of force, interference and armed intevention "in some parts of the world" and said non-alignment represented the sole alternative to war in the current nuclear age.

It said both leaders were satisfied the planned three-party summit meeting among themselves and U.A.R. President Gamal Abdel Nasser in New Delhi, the Indian capital, in October would enable them to continue their friendly exchange of opinions.

Mrs. Gandhi's trip mainly concerns relations between India and the Soviet Union and the implementation of the Indo-Pakistan agreement reached last year at Tashkent, Soviet Central Asia, under Russian chairmanship.

'Munich Plot' Alleged

PEKING (Reuters)—The official New China news agency has lumped Canada with Britain, the Soviet Union, India and the U.S. in what it describes as a "new Munich plot" to bring about peace negotiations in Viet Nam.

"Working hand in glove with one another for the realization of the U.S. plot are the imperialists, the Soviet revisionist leaders and the Indian reactionaries," the agency said Monday.

It went on to list proposals for peace in Viet Nam emanating from Ottawa, Washington, New Delhi, Moscow and London.

It gave a summary of External Affairs Minister Paul Martin's announcement of discussions on peace in Viet Nam and Soviet cabinet minister Dmitri Polyansky's July 3 interview in Canada in which he urged Ottawa to take active steps to halt the Viet Nam war.

"All this shows that a new Munich plot in close co-ordination with the criminal war blackmail of the (U.S.) Johnson administration is in the making," the agency said.

It said that although the U.S. wants peace on the basis of the 1954 Geneva agreement on Viet Nam, "the Geneva agreements have long been torn to shreds by the war actions of the Johnson administration and no longer exist."

TWO MORE SEATS

Liberals Win Power in P.E.I.

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP)—The voters of rural Kings 1st, voting six weeks later than Prince Edward Islanders in 15 other ridings, ended seven years of Progressive Conservative administration Monday night and swept Liberal Alex B. Campbell, 32, into power as Canada's youngest premier.

The deferred balloting in the two - member constituency, brought about by the death of a Liberal candidate May 26, snapped a two-party stalemate and toppled the government of Premier Walter R. Shaw, 78, the nation's oldest provincial chief.

The standings—	1966	1962
Liberals	17	11
Conservatives	15	19
Total	32	30

"My reaction is one of disappointment," Mr. Shaw said after Liberals Daniel J. MacDonald and Bruce L. Stewart swept to victory by large majorities.

Mr. Shaw, who led his party to power in 1959 at an age when most people contemplate the ease of retirement, broke even with his young rival in the May 30 election.

The two parties, the only ones contesting the election, wound up in a 15-seat deadlock and consequently directed the political spotlight on the 2,411 eligible voters in Kings 1st.

More than 2,200 enfranchised residents of the fishing and farming constituency responded by giving Mr. MacDonald, Liberal councillor candidate, a 207-vote majority over Conservative Peter MacAulay and Mr. Stewart, a 158-vote margin over Conservative Keith MacKenzie in the race for the assemblyman's seat.

Mr. MacKenzie was the second public works and highways minister to suffer defeat within six weeks. He was appointed to the cabinet shortly after the defeat of J. Philip Matheson in Queens 2nd in the May 30 election.

QUESTIONS RAISED

The Liberal victory raised immediate questions.

When would Mr. Campbell announce his cabinet? "Within two or three weeks," was the reply.

When would Mr. Shaw and Mr. Campbell meet to discuss takeover plans? "Well, I think

TEST PILOT Milton A. Thompson sits in U.S. space agency's experimental space re-entry vehicle which was successfully tested today at Edwards Air Force Base in California. It is designed to ferry astronauts back to earth from a capsule or space station, landing on the ground. (AP Wirephoto)

NEW VEHICLE TESTED

'Flies Like a Brick' But Spacemen Pleased

By ROBERT C. COOKE

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A wingless metal capsule with a man inside dropped from beneath a bomber's wing today, manoeuvred as it plunged earthward, then flattened out and glided to a landing on a dry lake at California's Edwards Air Force Base.

U.S. Space Agency Pilot Milton O. Thompson lifted his plastic canopy and stepped out grinning and happy after the revolutionary future space ferry's first flight.

The 2½-ton craft looks like a bullet cut in half lengthwise, and to observers on the ground seemed to fly at first like a brick.

After dropping from 45,000 feet it fell rapidly. Still, using controls and the slight aerodynamic lift provided by its shape, Thompson was able to manoeuvre the weird M-2F2 through two 90-degree turns at 450 miles an hour. Then, nearing the ground, he pulled the nose up and skimmed to a landing at nearly 200 miles an hour.

The 22- by 10-foot craft, called a lifting body, is one of several shapes under study to ferry men and equipment down from large space satellites. Its rounded bottom provides just enough lift to keep it from falling like a stone. Small rudders at the rear enable the pilot to steer to a landing site—an advantage over the bullet - like trajectory of re-entering Mercury and Gemini space craft.

On today's flight, the M-2F2 was dropped within gliding distance of the air force base. Later it will be equipped with a rocket engine to drive it to 80,000 feet and 1,200 miles an hour to simulate re-entry from space.

Thompson previously had flown a lightweight plywood version, descending from a height of 12,000 feet after being pulled aloft by a plane.

Wings have been eliminated from shapes such as the M-2F2 because they would be torn off diving into the atmosphere at 18,000 mile - an - hour orbital speeds.

An upside-down version, the HL-10—which glides on the flat, instead of the rounded side, of the half-cone design—is scheduled for testing here later this year.

The B-52 plane which carried Thompson aloft today is the same type that takes the X-15 rocket plane up for launching on record-breaking flights. Thompson has flown the X-15 to 3,700 miles an hour and 214,000 feet.

Typhoid Fear Closes City In Germany

WUPPERTAL, West Germany (AP)—More than 3,000 residents of this Ruhr industrial city were ordered into quarantine today after an outbreak of typhoid at a school; health authorities reported.

A total of 21 cases of typhoid have been confirmed, officials said. Eighteen pupils of an elementary school, a teacher and the mother of one pupil and the father of another are in hospital with mild cases of typhoid.

Officials said they believe the disease came from ice cream eaten at a school camp at Fernsdorf. Several cases have been reported there and all swimming pools have been ordered closed.

Germ War Test Isle Infected for Century

GLASGOW (Reuters)—A tiny, uninhabited island, used by Britain for germ - war experiments in the Second World War, remains dangerous for human beings, possibly until the year 2066, government scientists reported.

Four scientists in protective clothing Monday revisited the "forbidden island" of Gruinard off the remote northwest coast of Scotland.

The island, ringed with "keep off" notices, has been contaminated for 25 years after scientists experimented there with anthrax, the disease that kills all livestock and causes severe fever in humans.

Dr. C. E. Gordon Smith, director of the defence ministry's microbiological research establishment at Porton, south England, said after Monday's annual check on Gruinard: "The island may remain infected for 100 years."

He said there is no danger of the contamination spreading to the Scottish mainland.

New TV Network Set for U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — Plans for a new nationwide U.S. television network were announced Monday by millionaire industrialist Daniel H. Overmyer.

Overmyer told a press conference the network, to be called the Overmyer Network, or "ON," will begin broadcasting with about 100 stations Sept. 11, 1967.

It would be the first major TV network since the American Broadcasting Company in 1948. One of ABC's former TV network presidents, Oliver Treyz, will be president of ON, Overmyer said.

Overmyer said he expects to provide the estimated $6,000,000 to $10,000,000 needed to launch the network and that he has a verbal commitment from 35 stations.

INSURANCE COMPANIES BILKED

Cheaters Crashed Cars for Profit

NEW YORK (UPI) — Too much of a good thing tripped up a ring that engineered auto accidents to fleece insurance companies out of at least $15,000 in claims, the Bronx district attorney's office said today.

Dist. Atty. Isidor Dollinger said at least eight insurance companies and 17 out-of-state trucking concerns were bilked by the group of seven men and a woman.

According to Dollinger, the group purposely set up auto accidents with their old model cars on a stretch of expressway by maneuvering their cars in front of out-of-state trucks, slowing them down to 15 miles per hour, and suddenly jamming on the brakes.

Usually, Dollinger said, the truck was too close to avoid a collision. Although the cars suffered little damage, the occupants were "shaken up" and would seek hospital treatment.

When the insurance investigator arrived, the "victim" would sign releases prohibiting court suits and accept cash settlements that ranged from $62.50 to $2,000, the district attorney said.

Dollinger explained out-of-state trucks were chosen because their insurers were more apt to offer quick cash settlements rather than become enmeshed in out-of-state lawsuits.

He said the ring was broken when insurance companies complained that an exorbitant number of accidents occurred in a repetitive pattern on the same stretch of highway. At least 17 accidents were confirmed.

All eight alleged ring members were charged with grand larceny. One male member was additionally charged with impairing the morals of a minor by enticing a 5-year-old boy to take an "accident" ride and become a "victim."

Two were under arrest today and the other six, including the woman, were being sought, Dollinger said.

54% OF AMERICANS BACK VIET BOMBINGS

WASHINGTON (CP)—The latest public opinion poll here says President Johnson's decision to bomb major petroleum dumps in North Viet Nam has "sharply reversed the trend of public dissatisfaction with his handling of the war . . ."

The poll by Louis Harris in the Washington Post says 54 per cent of the American public now supports the president on Viet Nam and this contrasts to a 17-month-low of 42 per cent recorded on the eve of the attacks begun June 29 against storage facilities on the outskirts of Hanoi and Haiphong.

Says the poll: "The dominant argument advanced by Americans who go along with the bombings is the hope that it will hasten an end to the war."

VIET WAR DEBATE

Opinions Vary In Commons

OTTAWA (CP)—The United States' position on Viet Nam, and to a lesser degree Canada's, drew a mixture of support and criticism in the Commons Monday.

Social Credit Leader Thompson strongly supported both governments and criticized those who found fault with U.S. military intervention and Canada's peace-making efforts in the Asian conflict.

It was the second day of debate on the Viet Nam war that began Friday during debate on interim supply of $1,662,000,000 needed to carry the government through to Oct. 31.

It was not the Americans who were escalating the war in Viet Nam, said Mr. Thompson, but the Communists by their "constant increase in the number of enemy troops" they were pouring into the fighting.

'TOO UNRELATED'

On the recent U.S. bombing of targets near Hanoi and Haiphong he said "oil depots are legitimate enemy targets."

The argument that cessation of U.S. bombings would lead to negotiations was "too unrelated to reality to deserve discussion."

The Communists could not win the war militarily. Their only hope was that "weariness" by the U.S. from pressure of opinion would finally achieve that end.

Terry Nugent (PC—Edmonton - Strathcona) said Mr. Thompson seemed "perfectly happy with atrocities" once one ide had committed some. Mr. Thompson had mentioned Communist atrocities during the 1956 Hungarian uprising.

Mr. Nugent wanted to hear MPs "stand up and explain by what right the United States has to be there." The answer seemed to be a U.S. feeling that "might is right."

There was nothing in Canada's present attitude to the war that would convince small nations that this country cared about them.

Canada was supporting the "very action that we hate and fear Communism for."

He asked what was the legality of the U.S. position in Viet Nam. The U.S. had "abandoned any pretence of using the United Nations" to settle the conflict.

The policy seemed to be to do "everything to convice everyone that democracy is hypocrisy." The U.S. was supporting a puppet government in South Viet Nam and this policy prevented the right of self determination for the South Vietnamese.

ESCALATION MUST STOP

Andrew Brewin (NDP—Toronto Greenwood) said it is time for Canada to say clearly and officially that escalation of the war must stop.

Colin Cameron (NDP — Nanaimo - Cowichan - The Islands) asked how many times "Canada must be kicked in the face" before realizing the U.S. was ignoring its role as negotiator.

He quoted an external affairs official recently returned from Viet Nam as estimating that 10 per cent of the people in South Viet Nam favored the Saigon government; another 10 per cent favored the Viet Cong. The remaining 80 per cent wanted the Americans to leave.

Canadian Uranium Interests Germans

OTTAWA (CP)—A nine-man delegation from West Germany will spend the next two days here investigating the possibility of uranium purchases from Canada.

But no immediate sales are likely, W. M. Gilchrist, president of the Crown-owned Eldorado Mining and Refining Ltd., said in an interview.

While in Canada, the Germans will meet Trade Minister Winters, officials of uranium firms and others connected with the mining industry.

"The visit is nothing new," Mr. Gilchrist said. There have been similar visits in the past and they will probably become more frequent in line with new developments in the nuclear power industry.

Persons in the nuclear industry have been predicting an increase in uranium demand for several years, he said, although the present pace is "maybe six months ahead of schedule."

The German team will discuss all phases of the uranium industry, including ore reserves, export regulations and requirements, type of materials available and the possibility of foreign - owned firms entering the uranium exploration field.

The United States and European countries will need uranium for future power sources, Mr. Gilchrist added, and will want all available information on supplies to work out long-term contracts.

While immediate needs are not great, he said, new nuclear reactors now are being planned. Reactors take about four or five years to build, but fuel supplies must be arranged two years before completion to allow time for mining and refining.

Hit-and-Run Youth Jailed For 30 Days

A youth who fled from police after an accident Sunday was jailed for 30 days when he appeared in central court today.

Besides the term for failing to remain at the scene of an accident, Garry Streeton, 20, of 415 Island Highway was sentenced to an additional seven days for driving without a licence.

The police chased Sunday began after the accused rammed the rear of a truck stopped for a red light. He and a companion bolted through the parking lot of the Empress Hotel with officers in pursuit. At one point a warning shot was fired by police but the pair kept running, police said.

Streeton was caught on Toronto Street and the other boy was found hiding in bushes at Beacon Hill Park.

Before being sentenced today, court was told the accused's criminal record included trespassing by night, obstructing police, theft and attempted theft convictions.

Doctors Renew Bargaining

Direct talks between longshoremen and employers resumed in Vancouver today.

New negotiations had been expected following the release from jail last Friday of 10 union leaders and a decision by federal Labor Minister Jack Nicholson not to appoint a conciliation board.

The three-year agreement between the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union and employers expired at the end of this month.

Heading the four-man union negotiating committee is Roy Smith, B.C. area president of the union, who was among the 10 who went to jail rather than pay fines for refusing to obey an injunction.

The union, seeking an extra 50 cents an hour in a one-year contract, represents 2,800 workers in B.C. Current base rate is $3.38 an hour.

NO QUICK END FOR VIET WAR

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. Defence Secretary McNamara said Monday he saw no sign of a "lack of will" on the part of North Viet Nam to continue the war in South Viet Nam.

He told a news conference he saw nothing which would lead him to hope for an early termination of the war.

While repeating that he was "cautiously optimistic," McNamara said he did not look for a short war. Although "we are gaining militarily," he said, he saw no sign that the Communists were ready to move to the negotiation table.

Asked what the Southeast Asia military commitments are costing the United States, McNamara repeated a figure he had previously given congress — about one billion dollars a month.

"No doubt this will continue to increase" as time goes on, he added.

Mr. Campbell, whose father Thane L. Campbell was Liberal premier from 1936 to 1943 and now is chief justice of the P.E.I. Supreme Court, was excited and at the same time deadly serious about his new post.

"On the one hand I am overjoyed with the results in First Kings today," he said. "On the other hand, forming a government means a tremendous responsibility."

In a television interview, the Liberal leader said it is time to get down to business of government after "a long and arduous campaign" and admonished Islanders "not to continue the election for the next four or or five years."

HINTS AT RETIREMENT

Mr. Shaw said he would be in evidence in the next session of the legislature as opposition leader and "would keep an eye on the new premier." However, he hinted at eventual retirement.

"I'd like to putter around my yard. I'd like to get home among my flowers, but take an active interest in public life."

Premier Louis J. Robichaud of New Brunswick had been the youngest premier in Canadian history, taking office July 12, 1960, a little more than four months before his 35th birthday on Oct. 21.

Premier Ernest Manning of Alberta took office June 1, 1943, about 3 months before his 35th birthday.

The boys' father, William, said Terry may have damaged some teeth in the accident but otherwise is recovering well.

LEADERS STILL CAUTIOUS

Chinese Mass Rallies Protest Bombing Raids

By VERGIL BERGER

PEKING (Reuters) — Chinese newspapers today devoted big front page headlines to mass demonstrations Monday in five major Chinese cities against the U.S. bombing of Hanoi and Haiphong in North Viet Nam.

The largest of these was in the central Chinese industrial centre of Wuhan where 100,000 persons paraded. It was the largest rally on Viet Nam reported in China since Peking's massive demonstrations marking the first United States air raids in February, 1965.

In Canton, Mayor Tseng Sheng told demonstrators the people of Kwangtung province were "ready at any time to go into action in support of the Vietnamese people's struggle. . . ."

The People's Daily reported demonstrations under a headline across its front page declaring "Chinese people armed with Mao Tse Tung's thought will give unreserved support to Vietnamese peoples anti - United States struggle despite any danger."

But observers noted that none of the speeches at various rallies took the question of China's response to the bombing any further than the tough weekend speeches here of Premier Chou En-lai and Forign Minister Chen Yi.

'FREE OF RESTRICTIONS'

The Chinese leaders said China now is freed from all restrictions and would take whatever action it considers necessary "in accordance with the interests and demands of the Vietnamese people."

Although Chen Yi declared "the Chinese people will under no circumstances tolerate the continued evildoing of United States imperialism" in Viet Nam, the Chinese have avoided committing themselves in advance to any specific countermoves.

Nor have they disclosed any details of Chinese aid to Vietnamese Communists.

At the same time as the Chinese press and radio was giving top publicity to the speeches of Chou En-lai and Chen Yi The People's Daily published an article repeating the Chinese Communists frequently-stated view that self-reliance is the key to success in any revolutionary people's war including that being waged in South Viet Nam and that outside aid is "only auxiliary."

(The North Vietnamese news agency, monitored in Hong Kong, today reported the reaffirmation of Chinese support but made no mention of The People's Daily self-reliance call.)

Communists Blamed

ATHENS (Reuters) — The Greek government Monday blamed Communists for organizing bloody clashes in Salonika Sunday between police and farmers, in which more than 100 persons were injured. Police knew in advance of Communist plans to exploit the peaceful demonstrations by farmers seeking an increase in government wheat prices.

CANADA REJECTS N-BID

'Let's Aim Lower' Burns Urges USSR

GENEVA, Switzerland (Reuters) — Canada rejected today a Soviet proposal for an international conference to sign a convention banning the use of nuclear weapons.

What is wanted are concrete measures that could be verified, not mere verbal undertakings, Gen. E. L. M. Burns, chief Canadian negotiator, told the 17-nation Geneva disarmament conference.

He commented on a suggestion Thursday by his Soviet counterpart, Alexei A. Roshchin, who said agreement on such a convention would be a "serious success" and might help to improve the international situation and make nuclear disarmament easier.

Burns recalled that Canada had not voted in favor of a 1961 United Nations General Assembly resolution proposing a conference to sign such a convention.

He said Canada does not lack sympathy for the objectives of the sponsors of the resolution, and shared abhorrence of means of mass destruction.

NEED 'BALANCE'

"But it is our considered view that the only responsible way to deal with the nuclear threat is through balanced measures of arms control leading to general and complete disarmament. . . .

"In the fear and fury which any war between great powers would unleash, such conventions would not for long halt the recourse to nuclear weapons by those countries which have them in their arsenals," Burns said.

Burns welcomed a suggestion by the United Arab Republic to set up a working group to examine the question of how to reduce nuclear weapons and their delivery vehicles in an equitable fashion.

A ban on underground nuclear tests was one of the measures most urgently needed to deal with the nuclear threat, but the conference might not be able to achieve this.

"Could we come to agreement on something less?" Burns asked.

(Negotiations on an underground test ban have been stalled for years by differences over the need for on-site inspections to check on suspicious underground upheavals.

(The West says that a limited number of inspections are necessary to make sure that these are earthquakes and not clandestine tests. But the Soviet Union says modern seismic instruments are sufficient).

CANADA WILLING

Burns said Canada is prepared to co-operate with other countries in seismic matters, recognizing that technical capabilities play an important role in identifying underground seismic events.

Burns suggested the conference should discuss an earlier Swedish proposal for "verification by challenge," under which a country could be challenged to prove that a suspicious underground event is not a test explosion.

Burns warned that the major powers now face the question of whether or not to produce and deploy an anti-ballistic missile system.

He said something concrete should be done to stop the arms race before it enters another enormously expensive stage, which might upset security existing in the present approximate balance of deterrence.

One way to do this, he said, would be for the great powers to agree not to increase nuclear weapon vehicles, offensive or defensive, in their arsenals, coupled with an agreement not to elaborate or further develop existing nuclear weapon vehicles or to create new ones.

COMPROMISE BLOCKED

Czechoslovak and Bulgarian delegates said a negative attitude by the west has thwarted communist efforts to reach a compromise solution on general and complete disarmament.

Karlo Lukanov of Bulgaria said the west has shown that it has no desire to engage in nuclear disarmament or to renounce nuclear weapons now or in the future.

FINE WEATHER HELPS

Stampede Crowd Sets Mark

CALGARY (CP) — First-day attendance at the Calgary Stampede Monday broke a seven-year record as 112,446 persons went to the exhibition in fine weather, compared with 98,707 on the same day last year.

Previous record for the first day was 110,220 in 1959. Stampede officials said the crowds boosted hopes of total attendance of at least 600,000. The record is 591,695 for the six days, set in 1959.

U.S. Senator Robert F. Kennedy opened the exhibition Monday night before leaving for Washington. The Canadian Petroleum Exposition opened on the Stampede grounds at the same time.

Tough judging and rough horses were credited with preventing many rodeo riders qualifying in early events. Only four of 15 saddle bronc riders earned points and only 11 of 24 bareback riders.

Alberta riders, spearheaded by Wayne Vold of DeWinton who carried 52 pints in the saddle bronc contest, took the lead in seven of eight infield events.

The Seigert Neilsen chuckwagon of Standard, Alta., took a split-second lead in daily racing.

100,000 ORANGEMEN MARCH IN BELFAST

'Union' With Rome Attacked

BELFAST (AP) — One hundred thousand Protestants marched through this Northern Ireland capital today to oppose church union with Rome and affirm their loyalty to the Queen.

The procession of the Loyal Orange Order, from which Roman Catholics are barred, was estimated to stretch between four and five miles.

It took three hours to pass any given point on its route.

Orange-collared lodge members with drawn swords provided color guards for gaudy banners, bearing slogans like "Remember 1670" (the Protestan victory at the Battle of the Boyne "I Will Maintain" (the Protestant faith), and "For Queen and Constitution."

On they came, lodges from Canada, Scotland, the Irish Republic, the United States, Australia and New Zealand.

It was possibly the biggest show of Protestant strength Northern Ireland has seen in years. Roman Catholics mostly kept off the streets, or watched solemnly from the back of the crowd.

This afternoon a resolution from the Grand Lodge of Ireland, attacking the Christian ecumenical movement was being submitted to Orange meetings throughout the country.

The resolution, which has already aroused the bitter opposition of a number of leading Protestant churchmen, reads:

"The Grand Lodge of Ireland views with the utmost concern the present trend towards one united church, involving the surrender of our distinctive Protestant witness, and the atmosphere created by the World Council of Churches to promote this goal.

"We deplore the compromising implications of the successive visits to the Vatican of church leaders, culminating in the recent visit of the Archbishop of Canterbury.

"During the past number of years there have been marked departures within the churches from the Protestant and reformed faith, and we firmly believe it now is time to call for the return in our Protestant churches to the principles of the 16th-century reformation.

"Members of the Orange Order are pledged to love, uphold and defend the Protestant religion, and are therefore called upon to resist any encroachment upon their heritage, regardless of the cost or consequences."

The resolution was being offered for the mass approval of about 100,000 Orangement attending today's meetings celebrating the Protestant victory at the 17th-century Battle of the Boyne.

GREAT BALLS OF FIRE THREATEN PHILIPPINES

MANILLA (UPI) — Fireballs boiled up to heights of 1,000 feet above Taal volcano Monday and authorities alerted nearby towns for evacuation.

The current eruption is the third since last September's blast, which killed some 200 persons and forced an estimated 50,000 others to flee their homes.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

A sophisticated fully independent suspension like Corvair's gives firm control in a hard corner. Each wheel can move up and down without disturbing the other.

Try it. And all the while remember that its air-cooled engine requires neither water nor antifreeze, has no radiator, water pump or water hoses and clamps to replace—which is one of the reasons for Corvair's low, low operating cost.

Then decide for yourself. More than 1,500,000 owners already have voted for Corvair by buying one. You'll find you agree with all of them. Especially when you see the kind of buy you can get on a Corvair from your Chevrolet dealer right now!

A Great Canadian

CANADIAN HISTORIANS IN the years to come—years removed from the heat of controversy which surrounded him so frequently in life—will make their detached assessments of the contribution made by General A. G. L. McNaughton to his country. Whatever their judgment, they will undoubtedly see in him a man devoted to Canada and the Canadian people.

They may count among his achievements splendid leadership as head of the National Research Council. In that realm his brilliant and inquiring mind, combined with high organizational talent to advance an institution vital to the country in the surging field of post-war scientific progress.

They may recall his able representation of Canada at the United Nations and, if they study artillery tactics of the First World War, they will appreciate his development of a new technique in the laying down of barrages.

In a lifetime of activity, high purpose and driving energy, these must be counted among his successes.

It was not the nature of politics in his time to crown the old soldier's achievements with glory in public life. Neither, it seems, were the political tides calculated to bear him on their flood to fortune in the troubled negotiations of Columbia River exploitation.

Yet, as a soldier, he earned the distinction accorded him in the First World War, and built the Canadian Army for the Second. As a popular figure he entered politics to become the victim of the late Prime Minister King's less creditable manoeuvrings. As an engineer and Canadian leader of the International Joint Commission he saw the promise and the potential of Canadian-American development of the Columbia possibly more clearly than any before him.

In each of the latter careers he encountered defeat. Having built up the Army, he was denied its leadership in battle. Having been used in the destruction of Col. Ralston in the King Cabinet, he was unable to win election and a voice in Parliament. Having pioneered international studies of the Columbia, he was pushed to the sidelines, his convictions and advice discounted, in the final treaty which he roundly condemned.

Greatness came to General McNaughton, but its finest fruits eluded him. A soldier, a man of frank statement, a person unready for the compromises demanded by politics, he gave unstintingly of his talents and energies to his country. They were used, but seldom accorded the influence they seemed to justify.

The McNaughton story, as it became enmeshed in the conscription issue, has been, and probably will continue to be, subject to widely varied interpretations. His work on the Columbia has received praise, though his specifications for the scheme's execution have been rejected—and wrongly in the minds of many who see the present pact as a blueprint for quick money and expediency rather than as the most efficient and valuable manner of developing one of Canada's great resources.

Today the nation pays its tributes to a great Canadian, a man of character, of unusual capacities, who, in different careers, met with triumph and disaster and proved his stature alike in each.

The Delicate Balance

OFFICIAL OTTAWA FIGURES along with a private survey of business expectations, conducted by The Financial Post, hold out hope that the strong inflationary pressures of the past year may be easing up. Through the second quarter of this year, for instance, wholesale prices generally held at the level of the first quarter. The same was true through a wide range of industrial materials which have a strong influence on the price structure of the economy.

At the same time, according to The Financial Post, more than 50 per cent of companies polled in its survey reported they expected to post no new price increases and the expectation is that the largest number of boosts have now been made.

While this will be welcome news—if the current situation holds up—it is obvious that the economy will only be settling down on a much higher price plateau than is generally considered satisfactory by the experts. The national accounts for the first quarter of 1966 show that the gross national product had increased to $55.7 billions on an annual basis, up 3.6 per cent from the same quarter last year. But the increase was shaved to 2.5 per cent by price increases, an increment which falls far short of the 5¼ per cent average net growth per year urged by the Economic Council of Canada's second annual report for the period 1965-1970.

If economic growth in the remaining three quarters of the year is to continue to show a strong gain, the GNP for the whole year might be expected to come closer to the economic council target. But there must be strong reservations about this hopeful expectation. For if inflationary pressures are to be held in check by restrictions on capital expenditure, it seems unlikely that the rate of growth in the economy will continue to increase at a faster pace than it did in the first quarter and it may well be slower.

Of course there are many bright spots in the economy; the employment level is high, exports are showing a stronger tone even without the stimulus of the Russian and Chinese wheat orders and consumer spending is holding up well despite the withdrawal of large sums for the national pension scheme. But the picture is not all rosy and the balance of growth versus inflationary pressures remains precarious.

Wings to Moscow

AIR CANADA'S PRESIDENT, Mr. G. R. McGregor, has indicated the imponderables of the arrangement—"We'll play it by ear" —but the significance of yesterday's signing of an agreement with Soviet authorities to provide direct flight service between Russia and this continent will be widely appreciated.

The service by the Canadian and the Russian state airlines to and from Montreal and Moscow marks, in the words of Prime Minister Pearson, "a practical expression of the co-operation between our two countries."

This follows other mutually valuable contacts. The importance of the wheat sales to the U.S.S.R. is generally recognized. So, also, are the contacts which have been made between men representing the resources of the two nations, parliamentarians who have visited the Soviet Union and their counterparts who have come to this country, and those pledged to joint effort in scientific fields devoted to the far north.

To the benefits in understanding that may be encouraged by trade between the two countries are to be added the easier and more direct interchange of people. The more they come to know of one another, the better the prospects of relationships on a friendly basis that should encourage continuation of the thaw.

How the service develops can be a matter of conjecture only at present. Should it prosper, however, there ought to be occasion to determine the feasibility of direct traffic from the West Coast of Canada to sections of Russia which are closer than Montreal is to Moscow.

FROM WASHINGTON — By WALTER LIPPMANN

'Black Power'—Cry of Futility

THE cry about "black power," which is dividing the Negro population so sharply, has occurred, we must note, as the bright hopes of last year have given way to a bleak realization that progress is stalled. The argument about "black power" is an argument about how the Negroes can restore the momentum of progress in obtaining better housing and better schools, which were the promises of 1965.

Lippmann

The Negro militants, who speak to the deep poverty and wretchedness of the ghettoes, are arguing that progress can be pushed along only by the use of Negro votes, boycotts and angry defiance. The Negro moderates stake their hopes on votes, persuasion and non-violent civil disobedience and demonstration.

The cruel fact of the matter is that neither tactic will work under present war conditions. The basic reality is that the 22 million Negroes, though a large number, are only about 10 per cent of the nation. Obviously, they cannot coerce the huge majority, and they have no power of any kind which, if exercised recklessly, will not bring on severe reprisals and repression. The Negro minority does not have the votes and does not have the economic resources to create a "black power" which will bring them the reforms which they need, which they deserve, which they have been promised.

Position Unique

The position of the American Negro is in important respects unique. Thus, unlike the [illegible] who followed Gandhi, the American Negroes are not a huge majority resisting a small alien group of rulers. All forms of partition, liberation, and independence which have been practised by other racial communities in Africa and Asia are unavailable for the American Negro.

In the end there is for black and white Americans alike no alternative to co-existence, and there is no basis for co-existence except a genuine and sustained progress towards better conditions of life. This progress is possible only if the great white majority supports the progressive reforms and approves of active collaboration between the races in carrying out the reforms.

In other words, there is in the deeply interrelated problems of urbanization and Negro progress no alternative to a politics of consensus. The great promise of the Johnson election of 1964 was that our most serious internal problems would be treated by persuasion and debate and peaceful argument, and that we would avoid racial and class warfare.

Financing Reforms

The hope that this highly rational and civilized way was possible rested not merely on the political skill of Mr. Johnson but on the prospect that with proper management, the expansion of the economy could continue. If it did continue, then there were in sight sufficiently large surpluses of tax revenue, more than enough to finance the reforms which were promised. These reforms, in housing, schools, hospitals, jobs, parks, playgrounds, were to provide a continual proof that the problems were soluble by consensus.

As we know, the tax surpluses which were to finance the internal progress do not exist. The war is consuming them. Although Negroes are benefitting from the tight labor market, the movement towards better housing, better schools, better hospitals and the like is slowed down or stalled. It is possible to show, as some progressive economists do, that by raising taxes consumer spending could be reduced and the reforms financed despite the war.

Higher Taxes Resisted

But this will not be done, the austere and unselfish policy will not be adopted. The crude truth is that the great majority of us, for the most part white, who are safely beyond the poverty line will resist higher taxes in order to help the poor, so many of them black. The Johnson consensus of 1965 was based on the economic calculation that the reforms could be financed by economic growth. The rich would not have less, they would have even more, but not quite so much more. This was the material foundation of the hope that a great society could be built by consensus.

War Casualty

The Indo-Chinese war (it is no longer merely a South Vietnamese war) has destroyed the material foundations of all the hopes that preceded it. The foundations of a progressive society will not soon or easily be rebuilt. For the president has never explained to the nation, and may not himself have fully appreciated, what are the commitments and the costs of the global crusade into which he has plunged us and of the forward strategy in the Pacific which he seems to countenance.

FROM LONDON — By E. CRANKSHAW and L. LEDERER

Tito Launching a New Epoch

TITO'S Yugoslavia is now fairly embarked on a process which, at best, will end in the radical liberalization of the regime and the gradual establishment of an entirely new kind of socialist state, at worst in catastrophe and the fragmentation of the Yugoslav Federation which it has been Tito's greatest achievement to hold together.

Against this background the sensational events of early July, important and far-reaching as these were, must be seen as details. The autonomy of the Security Police has been destroyed; the long-standing situation whereby the political head of the security police, Alexander Rankovich, could use his police apparatus to control the appointments to government and party posts, cannot, short of a coup d'etat, recur.

Since Rankovich and his nominees have not only been preventing the application (often even the discussion) of the economic reforms launched in 1965, but also provided the hard core of the opposition to the radical political reforms promulgated by the Congress of the Socialist Alliance in June, the first action had to be taken against these men.

Rankovich Men Out

The Central Committee meeting of just over a week ago which was intended to be used to inaugurate the political reforms (in principle, the separation of the Communist party from executive power) had to be devoted to that end. But with the hard core broken — and some 400 Rankovich men had been quietly deprived of their posts before Rankovich himself was dealt with and 800 have since been suspended — the reformers can now get down to the business of sorting out deeper problems.

As an example of what had been happening, one of the speakers at the Central Committee meeting declared that the Federal Secretary for Internal Affairs — the Yugoslav Minister of the Interior — has been utterly paralyzed by men with whom Rankovich and Stefanovich, the head of security, had surrounded him. He was powerless to do the job for which he had been appointed. There have been countless other instances of this kind of thing.

This will now cease. An important bridge has been crossed. It will soon be possible to see how much the opposition to economic and political reform has been due to the influence of the Rankovich network, how much to ground roots opposition from innumerable party functionaries, not particularly connected with the security police, who have seen their jobs threatened or who honestly think that Tito has gone mad — how much also to the rise of nationalism, never far below the surface, in the separate republics.

Traditional Feuds

The situation is still confused by this. Thus, for example, the fight between the liberalizers and reactionaries has been complicated by a more or less underground war between the Croats, supported by the Slovenes, and the Serbs — a strong echo of the traditional feuds between the Western Catholics and the Eastern Orthodox and the fratricidal strife between Croats and Serbs during the Second World War.

One of the issues which was coming to a head was some sort of an obscure deal in which Croatian liberalizers, grouped around a militant journal, Praxis, were to be suppressed on condition that Serbian extremists of a dogmatic kind would also be curbed. Feeling was running so high that one of the reasons why Tito hesitated to act sooner against the Serb, Rankovich, was fear of a Serbian revolt. Indeed, last week, while Tito was away in Brioni, the Serbian troops of the garrisons and of the Palace Guard in Belgrade were replaced by troops from Slovenia.

Breath of Relief

Now, while the nation breathes with relief at the action against the police in general, and in particular against Rankovich, a much disliked figure on whom Tito nevertheless depended, and to whom he entrusted almost unlimited power, Tito himself is going easy.

In his first public speech after the Central Committee meeting, he addressed a gathering of army veterans, many of whom occupy high positions solely because of their military services during the war — and during the Spanish Civil War. To them he gave the first very gentle hint not only that many of them were due for retirement under the new order — "and sooner or later we shall all retire" — but also that the army itself is to be streamlined and cut down in size.

Applying Brakes

He further took the opportunity to put the brakes on. There was a great deal of talk about liberalism, he said. But liberalism was negative. There could be no liberalism when it came to adopting Western ways, or when it was a question of coming down heavily on nationalism and separatism.

"We are creating a true democracy in which man is free. We cannot allow people to live in any fear." That was fine. But he went on to say that the only man who should be afraid is "the enemy of the construction of socialism and democracy." But who is to decide what is socialism and democracy but the Communist Party, of which Tito is head? And who is to instill fear in those who disagree with doctrines preached by the Communist party but a secret police with great powers — albeit responsible to the Central Committee as an active body? Many speeches by Central Committee members at Brioni indicated bluntly that in past years the committee has too often served as a rubber stamp for arbitrary decisions taken by Rankovich and other sacrosanct leaders.

This is the dilemma.

There is not the least doubt that Tito in his closing years is determined to broaden the base of government by esablishing a wide separation of powers and by installing in Belgrade a separate administration truly representative of the conflicting demands, not only of the separate republics, but also of many shades of public opinion.

Not Easy

But his way will not be easy. He seems to see a monolithic Communist party working in harness with a government apparatus manned by men of ability who may or may not be Communists. He asked for open discussion between all shades of opinion and all interests, so that the party and the managers, from the directors of factories to the highest administrators, can arrive at a consensus. On the face of it, he is demanding that the Communist Party must continue as a tightly-disciplined group working alongside non-party individuals who are allowed great latitude. It is hard to see how this can work.

There is to be an extraordinary party congress in the autumn. Meanwhile, two commissions are sitting, one to report more fully on the activities and composition of the police in general and the opponents of reform in particular, and the other to consider the immensely complicated political problems which have to be solved before a new relationship between party and government, involving on the part of the party the surrender of great powers, can be at all precisely formulated.

Serious Problems

These problems involve not only ideology and the working out of a chain of command, but also the republican and federal structure of a land in which advanced societies, as in Slovenia, must co-exist with backward ones, as in Macedonia, and with the society which is used to bossing the others — Serbia.

One thing is clear, the breaking of the Rankovich opposition has accelerated the movement, and will bring Tito more quickly than he had expected face to face with the real core of his problem: how a Communist Party can exist in a commanding position once freedom of expression is not only permitted but actually institutionalized.

He is committed to an experiment of extreme boldness, which goes with his character, the success or failure of which will not only make or break Yugoslavia, but also bear most sharply on the future of all Communist regimes in Europe. What is going on now in Yugoslavia, the attempt to strike a most delicate balance in a land where violence, obduracy and extremism are more traditional than delicacy, is therefore nothing less than epoch-making.

Looking Back

From The Times of July 12, 1906:

Paris — The Supreme Court today announced its decision annulling the condemnation of Captain Alfred Dreyfus without a retrial. He will be restored to his former rank in the army. He is completely vindicated. Member of a wealthy Hebrew Alsace family he had been arrested in 1894 on charges of communicating French military secrets to a foreign power. He was tried, degraded and deported to Devil's Island, French Guinea. His friends and lawyers worked tirelessly to prove his innocence.

We, the parents of the two boys involved in July 4 unfortunate boating accident at Brentwood Bay wish to express our thanks and appreciation to all those who assisted in their rescue and care.

We wish to thank Stan Radcliffe, local fisheries officer. His quick action without regard for his own personal safety was directly responsible for saving the boys from the burning boat.

We also wish to commend Jack Palmer of Brentwood who with Mr. Radcliffe brought the boys to safety. —Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Ladell and Mr. and Mrs. G. McWilliam, 7020 Brentwood.

No Schedule for Crises

When things go unsatisfactorily, blame the system!

The results of a recent poll suggested that perhaps a majority of Canadians would favor the idea of fixed four-year terms for parliament. Certainly the recent quick succession of elections has brought much dissatisfaction.

But a fixed term would not of itself restore the desirable two-party system. Nor would it ensure higher quality of leadership. Situations may develop within four years—such as the hairline majority in Britain recently—which require resolution at the earliest practicable moment. Crises calling for elections cannot be expected to appear on schedule.

There should be sufficient elasticity in any system for deciding election dates so that these may conform to the requirements of existing circumstances. The present rules—with possibly a few minor modifications, and if handled by men of stature and judgment—will bring elections when advisable, and will see them through expeditiously.—R. Morris Wilson, 235 Cook.

"Space Needle" Dismay

As a frequent and recent visitor to Victoria, I am astonished to hear of the proposal to construct a "space needle" in the harbor area. Having known and loved the Victoria of some 30 years ago and admired, generally, its present-day architecture, which has tended to enhance rather than derogate its old-world charm, I am somewhat dismayed at the thought of such a blot on the landscape.

I understand that the promoters of this project claim it would be a "tourist attraction". I myself cannot think of anything more unattractive or out of keeping with the Victoria I know.

I would say that the average tourist coming to Victoria is looking for that atmosphere for which you are already famous around the world. If he wants futuristic architecture and atmosphere, let him find it where it has already been established.—Mrs. Albert Mendel, P.O. Box 727, Apple Valley, Calif.

BUCHAREST — Rumania has contributed more than its share of great actors, jugglers and trapeze artists to the stages of the world but the nimble performance of its Communist government in the international arena is superior entertainment by any standards.

Even the Yugoslavs, with their intricate game of "active non-alignment," seem dull and heavy-handed compared with the gay, smooth style of Nicolae Ceausescu, Ion Gheorghe Maurer, Alexander Irladeanu and their colleagues.

It was, supposedly, a conference of seven nations — among whom Rumania ranks third in size and population, fifth in living standards, and sixth in industrial power.

In fact it was a pas de deux — the Soviet Union (225 million people) and Rumania (18 million). Time and again, Walter Ulbricht, Wladyslaw Gomulka, Antonin Novotny, Janos Kadar and Todor Zhivkov retired to their villas while Russia's Leonid Brezhnev bargained with Ceausescu in the conference hall.

Twiddling

Last month in Moscow, the five other foreign ministers had twiddled their thumbs for a fortnight while Russia's Andrei Gromyko pleaded with Rumania's Corneliu Manescu to permit the "summit" conference to take place at all.

How did the Rumanians rise to such eminence? Partly through traditional talent — Rumania is the only country which fought part of both world wars on the German side but ended up both a "victorious ally." Yet the main key to the Rumanians' success in recent years — or ever since they conned Russian troops out of the country in 1938 — has been a smoothly-executed switch on Lenin's old dictum that "The road to Paris lies through Peking." For the Rumanians, the road through Peking has led to the Ruhr.

Delicately playing the Chinese off against the Russians until Nikita Khrushchev lost his cool, the Rumanians registered themselves as "independent" in the Western book, and began winning grand new friends.

Blackmailed

For a time, the U.S. might have become one of them, but then (April, 1965) the Firestone Rubber Company, blackmailed by John Birchite competitors, reneged on a contract to build two synthetic-rubber plants in Rumania. Gheorghe Gaston-Marin, the planner who had naively accepted state department "guarantees" of the deal, was dropped from the cast, while his Rumanian colleagues moved on to more reliable customers — first and foremost, West Germany, where Gerhard Schroeder and his friends in the Ruhr were ready and all too willing.

Between 1959 and 1965, trade between Bonn and Bucharest has quadrupled — so that what Moscow calls the "revanchist" Federal Republic is now Rumania's second leading trade partner. At the rate things are going, it will not be too many years before Bonn is number one in Bucharest's order book, for Rumania's trade with every one of its Warsaw Pact "brothers" fell sharply last year and this year's East-to-West changeover is expected to be even more dramatic.

Sad Ideology

While economics is a gloomy science, and Marxist-Leninist ideology even sadder, the way the Rumanians gleefully combine the two is the essence of their art. They argued at this conference, for example, that the main danger to peace has shifted from Europe to Southeast Asia, that "American imperialism" is the only real problem, and that German "revanchism" was limited to "certain circles" in Bonn being egged on by the Americans.

The Rumanians achieved a useful (for them) compromise by combining tactful direction at the conference with masterful off-stage effects. Even before the conferences arrived, the Rumanians spiked the argument that they had "sold out to imperialism" by staging a 60-minute, 12-window demonstration at the U.S. embassy. Then Ceausescu, just to disprove the nasty rumor that the Rumanians hate the Russians and despise the East Germans, sat Brezhnev at his right and Ulbricht at his left in the royal box at the theatre.

The same day, though, the Rumanian delegation at the Geneva disarmament talks was urging the abolition of all blocs and pacts, including the one meeting in Bucharest.

Rebel Honored

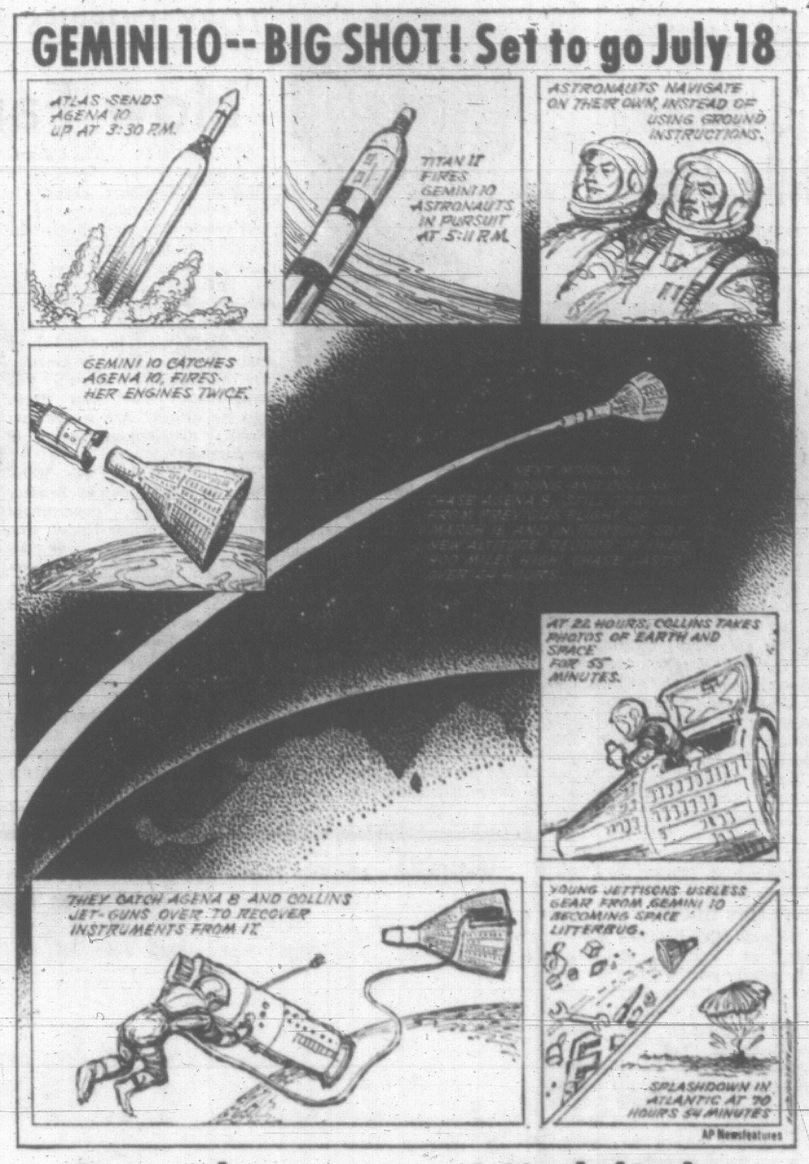
Another day, when the pact conferees were doubtless discussing "unity of action" in international communism, every paper in town decided to celebrate the 90th birthday of a certain Constantin Popovici — who, as it happened, had first begun to quarrel with the Communist international in 1921, and had actually split off and formed his own party in 1933.

And so it went — smiles here, needles there — until the final grand dinner out at Lake Shagov, when Ceausescu in a finely-phrased toast trimmed the pact communique and declaration to Rumanian scale ("useful exchange of views," "peace and friendship," etc.).

Ulbricht, of all people, was chosen to respond to the toast, when he said that the meeting had achieved "great success — and I am not saying this because of the wine," the smile on Ceausescu's face was positively beatific.

Afterwards, someone asked Manescu how the deference paid to Ulbricht would be explained to West German Economics Minister Kurt Schmuecker, who arrives here in September, and surely not empty-handed.

"Very simple," laughed the foreign minister, "we will simply draw attention to the fact that he (Ulbricht) was the dean of the diplomatic corps."



Rendezvous Highlight Of Exotic Space Flight

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. — "It will be rather an exotic flight — a rendezvous within a rendezvous and a couple of excursions into space by Mike Collins."

Gemini 10 Flight Director Glynn Lunney was describing the mission scheduled to start from Cape Kennedy July 18 with astronauts John W. Young and Michael Collins at the controls. Young and Collins will have a jam-packed schedule during their three days in space.

We're going to get the most out of their 71 hours of flight time," Lunney said. "We want to learn as much as possible on the three remaining Gemini flights so we can apply the knowledge to the Apollo manned lunar landing program."

Highlights of the Gemini 10 flight are a rendezvous and docking with an Agena satellite, with the astronauts making their own navigation calculations; the firing of the Agena engine to propel Gemini 10 up to perhaps a record altitude of more than 400 miles; a rendezvous with another Agena still flying around since March 16 from the Gemini 8 flight; two 55-minute work periods in space by Collins, and several photographic, scientific and engineering experiments.

Because of the position of the Gemini 8 Agena, Gemini 10 will be the first afternoon launching in the U.S. man-in-space program. An Atlas is to lift off at 3:30 p.m. (EST) July 18 to hurl the Gemini 10 Agena into a circular orbit 185 miles up. A Titan 2 is to hoist the astronauts upward at 5:11 p.m., aiming for a 100-to-168 mile elliptical orbit to start the pursuit.

On previous Gemini rendezvous journeys, spacecraft manoeuvres were calculated by computers on the ground and radioed to the pilots. But on Gemini 10, Navy Cmdr. Young and Air Force Maj. Collins will use star sightings and the spacecraft computer to figure their own moves. Ground calculations will serve as a backup.

Space First

During the fourth orbit, about six hours after launching, Gemini 10 is to link up with the 10 Agena. Then, in a space first, the astronauts are to fire up the powerful Agena engine twice in a 45-minute period to place Gemini 10 in a position to rendezvous with the Gemini 8 Agena two days later.

"It'll be tense when they light that rocket up under them," Lunney said. "To get themselves into position for the 8 Agena, they will go into an elliptical orbit ranging from 185 to as far as 460 miles. The high point will depend on just how far away the target is."

Three Russian cosmonauts hold the present altitude record of 307.5 miles. The Gemini 8 Agena will be in a circular orbit of 247 miles up.

The next morning, Young and Collins again are to fire their Agena engine to place themselves in a circular orbit seven miles below the path of the 8 Agena and about 2,000 miles behind it. In the lower orbit, they are to gain gradually on the target over the next 24 hours.

With this course established, they'll undock from their Agena and abandon it in space.

At 22 hours 45 minutes into the flight, Collins is to open his hatch and poke his head into space for a 55-minute period of photographing the earth, weather features and the zodiacal light.

"He'll be hooked to just enough hoses to permit him to stand on his seat," Lunney said. "He won't be able to get outside on this exercise."

On their second full day in space, the astronauts are to manoeuvre toward the Gemini 8 Agena. The manoeuvre will be difficult because the target's batteries and radar responder have long been dead. They will have to approach it using mainly optical means — as the Gemini 9 pilots practiced on one of their rendezvous manoeuvres that simulated loss of radar.

Young and Collins are to move to within a few feet of the target about 47 hours into their trip. After an hour manoeuvring around it, Collins is to step outside Gemini 10 on a 50-foot lifeline. Using a space gun that shoots jets of gas, he is to propel himself over to the 8 Agena and retrieve a micrometiorite recording package attached to its side.

During a 55-minute stroll, he'll also evaluate his ability to move about on the lifeline.

After returning to the cabin, Young is to open the hatch a third time — an hour later — to discard loose and unneeded equipment — qualifying as a space litterbug.

The astronauts are to devote most of the next morning to experiments and then prepare to return to earth. They are to fire their retro-rockets high above the Pacific in mid-afternoon, splashing into the Western Atlantic east of Florida after 70 hours 54 minutes in space.

Siberia's City of Scholars An Audacious Concept

By NESTA ROBERTS
The Manchester Guardian

In a clearing of a birch forest, nearer Manchuria than Moscow, a group of calculating children are starting to learn about electronics, and relativity, and the quantum theory at the age of 15.

On a campus, set in the heart of the plain of Western Siberia, where weekend sports include bear-hunting, 3,000 research workers are engaged on about 500 projects.

In a land whose population 50 years ago consisted almost entirely of peasants, there are today 46 members and corresponding members of the Soviet Academy of Sciences.

That in brief is a measure of what has already been accomplished at the "academie city" a few miles south of Novosibirsk, which the Soviet Union conjured out of the void less than ten years ago. It is, they hope, to be the key which will unlock the doors of Siberia's yet unpillaged El Dorado.

Archetype

Novosibirsk itself is sufficiently remarkable, the archetype of those frontier towns, yesterday dusty villages or drowsy provincial markets, today part of a still unwritten documentary entitled "How the East Was Won." It has a million inhabitants, it has parks, schools, hospitals. The factory which makes turbines and hydro-electric generators exports them to 37 countries. In this Dodge City of the Far East, one visits a beauty parlor before setting out for an evening at the ballet or the opera rather than the gambling saloon.

The city of scholars, with its 35,000 residents, of whom one in every three is an embryonic or actual scientist, its university, its 20 research institutes, and its mathematical schools for outstandingly gifted children, was brought into being eight years ago by a decision of the twentieth party congress with the aim of exploiting the wealth of Siberia. Whole departments were moved from Moscow to start work in a Klondike where the bulldozers still churned.

Now the fields of activity range from sociology to the development of cold-resisting varieties of fruit, vegetables, and corn, from the writings of a five-volume history of Siberia to the evolution of a device emitting a jet of water whose force will pierce rocks.

The mathematical school, with 230 pupils between 14 and 17 years old, is believed to be the only one of its kind in the world. Its raison d'etre is the belief of the directors of the Siberian Academy that mathematics is the basis of all sciences. But the principle of intensive specialized education was already well-established in the Soviet Union.

Apart from the obvious example of the Kirov and Bolshoi ballet schools, whose pupils take their vows young, the admirable accomplishments of the best Soviet interpreters is due to the foreign language schools which children enter at the age of seven. (The answer to the question about how it is known that a child of seven has a gift for languages in a country where compulsory schooling does not start until that age is that seven-year-olds have been closely observed during their years at kindergarten).

The young mathematicians necessarily start later, after a trial known as the "mathematical Olympics."

Best Selected

Candidates drawn from the whole of Siberia take a preliminary test at their own schools. Winners of this first round go on to the next stage, held at regional centres. From the second round 800 or so candidates are selected to spend a month at the university, and from that 800, the top performers are selected for the mathematical school.

The whole concept of the academic city is so audacious as to be inspiring. There seems to be no room for doubt of its future — scholars from all parts of the Soviet Union are eager to work in an institution where they can count on an unusual degree of autonomy.

But the exploitation of areas where the earth is permanently frozen, and in winter the thermometer drops to minus 74 degrees fahrenheit, demands more than fundamental research. Informed observers say that technology lags behind. If that is so, the Soviet Union is not the only country of which it is true. What is unquestionable is the absolute shortage of manpower to harvest the mineral yield of this land as big as a continent.

What would the future show if foreign capital and foreign labor were admitted to Siberia? And is it too wild a fantasy to entertain that 10 or 20 or 30 years might see this come about?

No Illusions About Future For Sihanouk

TOKYO — Prince Norodom Sihanouk, the Cambodian chief of state, predicts his country will be swallowed by communism in a letter published in Asia magazine, a Sunday supplement for English-language newspapers in Asia.

The prince comments on an article on Cambodia in a recent issue of the magazine, which he quotes as saying that one day communism will "impartially swallow up both Western client states and the Cambodian monarchy — Sihanouk with it."

He writes "I am perfectly aware of this," and adds he has no illusions about the fate that awaits him when the Communists triumph.

"At least until that day, my people will have known a peace and progress that those countries dragged into civil war by the 'free world,' could never have known.

"Whatever happens to me at that time, I will rejoice at having seen those renegade leaders who wished to hand Asia over to the West swept away, and at having seen our continent evacuated by those who so disdained it."

'Generic' Drug Supplier Appalled House Inquiry

By GERALD WARING

OTTAWA — A Commons committee last week looked into the operations of the generic or "package" drug manufacturers. One MP said he was "appalled."

Waring

These companies do little or no drug research. Instead, they import low-cost foreign drugs, or they get "compulsory licences" under the Patents Act to manufacture drugs discovered, developed, tested and promoted by the major pharmaceutical companies.

The big companies call them pirates and counterfeiters. But they do sell a good many drugs under generic or chemical names more cheaply than the big houses sell similar brand-name drugs. This intrigued members of the Special Committee on Drug Costs and Prices. So they had the little fellows in for a talk.

One of them was Dr. George F. Wright, who controls Empire Laboratories Ltd. of Toronto, the biggest of the generic houses with an annual turnover of more than $1 million.

★ ★ ★

Committee member Bruce Mackasey (Liberal—Verdun, Que.): "The amount of space you have allocated to the description of this drug (chloramphenacol) is 3½ inches (in the 'Vademecum' of the drug profession). The amount of space that Parke-Davis has allocated to the same description is 21½ inches. There are two significant chapters or paragraphs left out of yours. One is marked 'warning' and the other is marked 'side effects.' Why and how can you justify this?"

Dr. Wright: "If I would put in the customary warnings in here, then I would have something of questionable reliability. I don't think it's a good policy to do this with a drug unless you are sure. We are not that sure of our chloramphenacol."

Mr. Mackasey: "I suggest your solution could lead to a fatality!"

Mr. Mackasey asked sarcastically if doctors using Empire's product were supposed to look up Parke-Davis' warning on the branded "equivalent," chlormcetin. He strongly inferred that Empire was risking lives to save the $550 cost of advertising the warnings in the course on this bottle."

★ ★ ★

Dr. L. M. Brand (PC—Saskatoon): "Do you think money is more important than safety?"

Dr. Wright: "No."

Dr. Brand: "You don't consider the references to chloramphenacol to be reliable?"

Dr. Wright: "No. They're much too narrow. There are new things appearing about chloramphenacol . . ."

Dr. Brand: "Not only new things; there are old things very well-known about the drug and the potential danger of this drug as a killing drug . . ."

Dr. Wright: "That is correct."

Dr. Brand: "And for the life of me I can't understand your attitude that you don't think it's necessary to put it in (the Vademecum)."

Dr. Wright: "I certainly would believe in putting it on the bottle."

Dr. Brand: "On the bottle? You're trying to tell me your bottles are so large you can put all these 21½ inches of information on this drug?"

Dr. Wright: "I'm not teaching a medical course on this bottle."

Dr. W. D. Howe (NDP—Hamilton South): "How many doctors see the bottle they write the prescription for?"

Dr. Wright: "When we get our new Canadian Compendium I think we shall have much more information than here."

Dr. Brand: "What do we do in the meantime? Are you going to suspend selling your drugs until such time as it comes out? I am simply appalled."

Other MPs looked as though they were too.

Church Council Considers Its Social Responsibilities

By WILLIAM R. SENGEL

GENEVA — A Mozambique freedom fighter, an Indonesian general and the minister of commerce from Kenya herald a new kind of church conference which opened here today.

Gathering in the city where John Calvin sought to come to grips with the political and moral issues of his time, these men are among 400 Protestant churchmen called together by the World Council of Churches for its first conference on church and society in 30 years.

Never before have theologians been faced with so much genuine expertise on the problems confronting mankind. Two-thirds of the delegates are laymen: political leaders, businessmen, lawyers, economists, trade union officials, psychologists, psychiatrists, sociologists and educators.

Also for the first time in a modern ecumenical gathering, representation leans heavily toward Asia and Africa, revealing the constantly expanding influence of the younger churches.

A significant example will be an address by Dr. Eduardo Mondlane, leader of Frelimo, the Mozambique freedom fighters. Mondlane, an ethnologist, is a member of the Reformed Church of Tanzania.

All sessions will open with discussion of the theological issues involved in the debates. Conference planners are trying to ensure that all discussions are placed within the framework of Biblical concerns. They are eager to remind the world that theological and ethical issues can never be separated.

The delegates are to explore such topics as "Peace in a nuclear age," "The new scientific and technological revolutions," "Men and community in changing societies," "The challenge and relevance of theology to the social revolutions of our time" and "How can the church contribute to the transformation of society?"

Conference findings are to be incorporated in a document for discussion in the world's churches until 1968, when the fourth general assembly of the World Council of Churches will be held in Uppsala, Sweden.

BENNETT DEFENDS JET AS EXPENSE CUTTER

Premier Bennett Monday defended the lease-purchase of a six-passenger Lear jet as "a good deal for the province of B.C."

"The plane has not been purchased," he told reporters. "It has been leased at less than $6,000 a month."

Mr. Bennett praised Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi as the world's best who perhaps may have "baited" the press a little with a variety of reasons — including civil defence for cabinet ministers — for obtaining the plane.

But he staunchly maintained that there "have been a lot of erroneous statements made" about the aircraft.

He said the government was not buying the $700,000 craft, which Mr. Gaglardi said he could obtain for $480,000, but merely leasing it because it did not want to be stuck with a plane that was obsolete in a few years.

(At $6,000 a month, it would take about 10 years for the province to pay off the purchase price and finance charges even at Mr. Gaglardi's figure.)

"This is a splendid arrangement," said Premier Bennett. "It will save that $6,000 over many times, each and every month."

The premier said it was not a large luxury craft and could land on small fields, but has a fast rate of climb and was the only pressurized airplane in the government fleet "and I would think this would make it a safer plane for getting above the clouds and mountains."

(When asked how many airplanes the B.C. government operates, the premier said: "I don't know." Highways Minister Gaglardi, whose department maintains all government aircraft, has said vaguely the fleet has "eight or nine planes.")

Mr. Bennett said he himself has not flown in the Lear jet or any other government airplane at any time.

"I'm a great believer in keeping my feet on the ground," he laughed.

Later, he said he only flew on commercial aircraft.

SALUTE TO GOLD RUSH DAYS

B.C. Brawls Recalled in Talks

The brawls of B.C.'s gold-rush days and the joys of gracious living a century ago will be recalled in a lecture series this summer at the University of Victoria.

Three noted visitors to the campus will speak on aspects of the Confederation background that are generally ignored in history books.

The lectures, sponsored by the university's department of history, are open to the public without charge. They will be held July 15 and 28 and Aug. 4, at 8:30 p.m. in the Student Union Building, Gordon Head.

On July 15, Professor Gordon Batho of the University of Sheffield will speak on the Cariboo Trail, opened by prospectors toiling up the Fraser Canyon towards the goldfields of 1858. Professor Batho, a specialist in the history of Elizabethan England, became interested in the parallel story of Canadian trail-breaking when he first lectured in this country three years ago.

Dr. Maurice Careless, head of the department of history at the University of Toronto, will speak July 28 on The Sociable Side of Confederation. He is giving a course in Canadian history at the university summer session.

Dr. Careless is a well-known speaker and writer on historical subjects and received the Governor-General's Medal in 1954 for his study, Canada, a Story of Challenge. The challenges he will describe in his lecture involved holding out to the last of many courses in a banquet of the 1860s, or staying in the swing to the end of a gruelling Confederation Ball.

On Aug. 4, the title will be B.C. — Blundering Confusion and the speaker is Willard E. Ireland, provincial libraran and archivist. Mr. Ireland will deal mainly with the events leading to the union of Vancouver Island with the mainland colony in 1866.

THREE LECTURES

The three lectures will be the university's first offerings in its centennial program, which carries through B.C.'s hundredth anniversary and next year's national celebrations.

Another special event this month will be an exhibit on the history of printing in the province. Starting with the presses and publications of more than a century ago, the exhibit brings history to life by presenting newspaper editions dealing with celebrated events over the years. It opens July 18 at the McPherson Library and runs to Aug. 8.

Sea Tunnel To Labrador Nfld. Plan

GANDER, Nfld. (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson arrived here Monday night shortly after a two-mile cavalcade of cars and floats rolled into town en route to a monument Mr. Pearson was to unveil today to mark the official opening of Newfoundland's section of the Trans-Canada Highway.

The monument unveiling, at a site 10 miles west of Grand Falls in central Newfoundland, is the highlight of three days of festivities during which the caravan will journey the entire 565-mile length of the highway from St. John's to Port aux Basques.

Premier Smallwood, leading a host of provincial officials at the head of the parade, spoke briefly at several communities on the way Monday, promising in each place that the next big project was to extend the highway to Labrador City in western Labrador near the Quebec border.

Mr. Smallwood said at Whitbourne, Clarenville, Port Blandford, Glovertown and his birthplace of Gambo that the highway to Labrador would incorporate a tunnel under the Strait of Belle Isle.

EXPLAINS ROUTE

He said the highway would start at Forteau and run "diagonally northwest to Happy Valley and Goose Bay, Twin Falls, Churchill Falls, Wabush and Labrador City." The premier did not give any indication when the highway would be built but said it would be the "next big project."

Mr. Smallwood, in each of the communities where he spoke, said the Trans-Canada Highway alone justified Confederation. He also said it would have been impossible to build the highway within the next half-century except within Confederation.

"It would have taken too long to find the more than $100,000,000 out of our own pockets."

The cavalcade rolled into Gander for an overnight stop and was scheduled to spend tonight at Corner Brook before the final day's drive to Port aux Basques.

PROMOTION and appointment of Air Commodore Richard C. Stovel, 45, of Winnipeg, came today from forces headquarters. Now director-general of organization and manpower control at Ottawa, he becomes air vice-marshal and commander of armed forces training command at Winnipeg.

TORY QUERIES PENSION BILL

'How Far Are We Going?'

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canada Assistance Plan sparked a vigorous, 95-minute debate in the Senate Monday before it was referred to a committee for further detailed study.

Senator Grattan O'Leary (PC — Ontario) said he would accept the bill "with a great many misgivings."

"I don't wish to stand here and cry havoc, but just how far are we going with all this expenditure? Just how much can we afford? Are we in fact putting distribution ahead of production?"

The welfare bill was introduced in the Senate by Senator J. J. Connolly, government leader in the Upper House, who said the legislation was designed to seek a better coordination and integration between federal and provincial welfare service.

"I have been informed that about 1,000,000,000 people stand to be helped in one way or another."

Senator John Michael Macdonald (PC — Nova Scotia) disagreed with Senator O'Leary's grim picture of the welfare state.

He said he was not impressed with arguments that Canadian welfare expenditures take up too high a proportion of the gross national product.

"If there is a danger in this bill it is this: That in the administration by the provinces, there will be too narrow a concept followed about what welfare is."

There would be very few able-bodied men found who would go on welfare rather than work.

TERRIFYING VOYAGE

'Missing' Trawler Involves Intrigue

GRIMSBY, England (Reuters)—A British trawler which "vanished" at sea for 29 hours returned to port today, its interior partly wrecked as a result of an incident near the West German coast.

Captain Ernest Durrant of the 212-ton trawler Loveden told reporters that some men aboard had confined others to their quarters during the vessel's voyage last weekend.

He said as they approached the German coast, five men lowered the small boat and rowed toward shore. "After contacting the owners through a pilot cutter I sailed to Grimsby with the remainder of the crew," he said.

Cook Geoge Pepper, 57, said: "It was terrifying."

Concern arose about the Loveden after a radio message while it was in the North Sea. The trawler sent an S O S signal saying "they are taking down our radio aerials," and then went off the air.

HELD BY GERMANS

Five men are being held by West German police after trying to get ashore from near the lightship at Emden.

Detectives from Grimsby went out to meet the trawler to take statements from the skipper and his four remaining crew members when they sailed back here from Emden.

The trawler ended up near Emden Sunday after sending the dramatic distress signal.

A police photographer today took shots of damage aboard the trawler, including furniture and fittings and broken windows in the crew's quarters.

SOVIET MOONSHIP TO BE RETRIEVED

TOKYO (UPI) — Russia will land an unmanned space vehicle on the moon and bring it back to earth before trying a manned flight, visiting Soviet cosmonaut Lt.-Col. Vladimir Komarow said in a statement published Monday.

Komarov, quoted by the Asahi Evening News, said the unmanned expedition would be followed by a space dog to the moon. He added he was certain a Russian would still be the first man on the moon.

Komarov, who is heading a 107-member Russian delegation to the 2nd Russo-Japanese youth festival at Lake Yamanaka, was captain of the three-man Soviet space Voskhod I.

His statement was the first explicit indication the Soviets plan to retrieve an instruments ship from the moon. Speaking at Yamanakako Junior High School Sunday, Komarov said: "The problem now is how to bring back to earth an exploring machine which has been soft-landed on the moon.

"In case of a trip to the moon by man, a guarantee is needed that he can return safely to earth, and the Soviet Union will check this technology soon with an unmanned moon exploring machine."

ISLAND ROUNDUP

Fine Hike Eyed For Vandalism

DUNCAN—City council decided Monday to launch a campaign to have provcincial legislation amended to allow stiffer penalties for vandals.

A resolution will be prepared for the Union of B.C. Municipalities' convention in September.

Meantime council will confer with local RCMP officers to find an answer to vandalism around town.

Council heard of damage to the concession stand at Pioneer Park; bottles littering the streets after "booze parties" on the civic parking lot and on a service station lot at the corner of Coronation Avenue and the highway.

Ald. Robert Mason called for the police to revert to old-fashioned foot patrols.

Ald. James Saunders said: "If the court fines kept pace with the cost of living this sort of thing would stop overnight."

Mayor Jack Dobson said council will also seek police action to stop teen-agers drag racing on Trunk Road.

Alistair McDonald, lawyer, speaking from the public benches, said: "These punks laugh at the present penalties. And the penalties can only be changed by government legislation."

★ ★ ★

PORT ALBERNI — Mayor Les Hammer told city council Monday night he was "shocked" to learn that the provincial water pollution board employs "only five or six people." He urged the B.C. government to increase the staff.

★ ★ ★

NANAIMO — A marine barge service station, the first of its kind in Nanaimo Harbor, may be installed in waters off the Malaspina Hotel.

City council gave its approval Monday and the project now awaits the approval of the Harbor Commission.

★ ★ ★

LADYSMITH — City council here may engage the services of Barry Guildbride, Harbormaster at Chemainus.

A decision will be made next week.

Monday night council learned the department of transport accepted the need for a harbormaster at Ladysmith.

The department had been approached by council after complaints had been received about floating debris posing a navigation threat in the harbor.

They referred this problem to the provincial forest service.

LOGGER DIES IN ACCIDENT

UCLUELET—A logger was killed Monday at the Kennedy Lake operation of MacMillan Bloedel Ltd.

The man, a faller, was believed crushed between two logs.

He was taken to Tofino Hospital but was dead on arrival.

The man's name was not released.

Nurserymen Still Await Nematode Aid

Most southern Vancouver Island nurserymen have not yet been compensated by the federal government for losses resulting from an outbreak of golden nematode in Saanich.

G. M. Owen, president of the Vancouver Island Nurserymen's and Allied Trades, said Monday only two members of the association's 40 members have received payment.

He said the organization is pressing the government to make good its promise of compensation for nursery operators who could not export plants during last year's ban.

The plant ban was imposed to prevent the spread of nematodes — a microscopic worm which attacks the roots of potatoes and tomatoes. The ban applied to the mainland and the United States.

CLAIM DELAY

Mr. Owen said nurserymen are suffering financial hardships over the delay in settling claims.

"In addition to not getting the payments we expected, we have to contend with the tight money problem," he said. "This is a very real hardship because growers often rely on their credit to tide themselves over the unproductive seasons."

Paving Program

NANAIMO—City engineer Art Leynard said Monday tenders have been called for the first phase of the 1966 road paving program.

TAX FUNDS INVESTED

PORT ALBERNI—City council Monday approved a 30-day investment of $1,000,000 in tax funds.

"We made the investment to bring in a few extra dollars for the benefit of our citizens," said clerk-comptroller Dennis Thain.

"Almost everyone pays taxes at the end of June. As a result we have funds we will not be using for a few weeks," he explained.

Amateur Logger Gets Chance

There's gold at the PNE for amateur loggers.

The Pacific National Exhibition's first-ever festival of logging will offer $15,000 in prize money for loggers from throughout British Columbia.

The competitions and the prize money are for amateurs only.

Daily top competitors in the various logging events will win prizes of $100, $50 or $20. Second place daily winners will pocket $50, $25 and $10.

Loggers from Ladysmith, Squamish, Kamloops, Mission and other centres have already signified they will enter the competitions.

Spanking by Mayor Disturbs Alderman

DUNCAN—City aldermen were "ticked off" by Mayor Jack Dobson Monday for non-attendance at public events.

He said at a council meeting: "Public relations is one of our chief functions."

Mayor Dobson criticized the fact no member of council turned out to support the city's July 1 celebrations.

He said: "I was committed to attend Dominion Day celebrations at Chemainus but put in as much time here as I could."

Mayor Dobson said: "Council should support these efforts but some aldermen are making no effort."

Ald. Barney Cocks said he did not appreciate the "public spanking" and said council members' attendance at public events should be discussed beforehand in committee.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids...and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Satisfaction or your money refunded.

Woman Studies Water Supply

DUNCAN—A study is being made of the Cowichan Valley's water resources.

The work is being done on behalf of the provincial water rights branch by Miss—Susan Arnell, a geography graduate working toward her Masters degree.

The report she will make to the water rights branch will also be her thesis to be presented to the University of Alberta.

Miss Arnell is an Ottawa native spending the summer working for the water rights branch in Victoria.

'Give Elderly a Break'

DUNCAN — Jack Hindmarch told city council Monday night it is ridiculous local launderettes pay less for water than the eight-unit Kiwanis Village.

He said: "Let's give the old people a break."

Mr. Hindmarch, secretary of the Duncan Kiwanis Village Society, was asking council to relieve the village from water taxes.

At present the society pays $27 a month for the village water supply.

Mr. Hindmarch said launderettes are operating 24 hours a day for $17.60 a month.

RENT INCREASE

He said Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation stated a rent increase is inevitable unless there is a tax concession from the city.

Tenants are limited to an annual income of $2,480 a couple.

Duncan tenants pay $36.75 a month rent, including water, but pay for their own light and heat.

Mr. Hindmarch said the society would have to raise the rents in order to pay the city's sewer and garbage rates.

Cities like Victoria, Nanaimo and Penticton do not charge Kiwanis Villages any sewer rate.

Mr. Hindmarch said if the society had not held back last year's tax payment of $144 it would have been in the red.

Even with 100 per cent occupancy the society is not putting money in the maintenance fund.

The Village Society is subsidised to the extent of $500 a year by the Kiwanis Club.

Ald. James Saunders said there is a danger in starting such a tax concession.

If council remitted the village water rates every old age pensioner in the city would want the same.

"And why not?" he said.

Mr. Saunders added: "Everything else is going up and you would not be in financial trouble if you increased the rents to $40 a month. I'm sure the villagers wouldn't object."

Mr. Hindmarch said: "It is us who are objecting. Why can we not help the old people. I don't think anyone in town would squawk one little bit if the village water rate was cut."

Mayor Jack Dobson referred the matter to committee.

But said: "My recommendation is that we try to give some relief."

PORT ALBERNI — The twin Vancouver Island cities of Port Alberni and Alberni have taken another step toward amalgamation. Port Alberni city council appointed H. D. Thain city manager and S. J. Sawyer, Alberni city manager, will become assistant city manager when amalgamation takes place in October, 1967.

POLL PLANNED

Holiday Asked During Carnival

DUNCAN — Ald. Tommy Kilpatrick undertook Monday to find out how local merchants react to closing the city for a public holiday Saturday, Aug. 13.

It is the date of the Cowichan Timber Carnival being planned by the Centennial Celebrations Committee.

Ald. Kilpatrick said in council Monday: "I think it would be a wonderful gesture and the merchants would not suffer too much.

"People intend to overbuy when there is a public holiday."

Mayor Jack Dobson suggested closing down for the period of the parade.

He said: "Otherwise local people might not stay around for the rest of the celebrations."

Ald. Kilpatrick will discuss the idea today with Bob Berry and Hugh Jackson, Jaycee co-chairmen of the Celebrations Committee.

The Timber Carnival Committee visited the All-Sooke Day events Saturday to get ideas.

Jubiel Wickheim, champion log birler from Sooke, has agreed to take part in the Duncan events.

Duncan Local 1-80 of the IWA is to make a cash donation to the carnival and donate a trophy for the "best all-round logger."

SOVIET'S POLYANSKY IMPRESSED DURING VISIT

Relationships 'Improving All Long Line'

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Relationships between the U.S.S.R. and Canada are "improving all along the line," Soviet first deputy chairman of the council of ministers Dmitri Polyansky said here Monday. He spoke at a government luncheon tenderd by Trade Minister Robert Winters.

Mr. Winters disclosed that his department was receiving more and more enquiries from Canadian businessmen as to how they should go about buying Russian goods and materials. He said that all of the guests at the government luncheon were anxious to strengthen Canada's relations with the Soviet Union.

There was a cross section of the business leaders of Canada at the luncheon, in addition to senior members of the Canadian civil service and representatives of the Russian embassy. It was a "goodby" luncheon for Soviet visitor who returns to Russia today convinced that there is no anti-Soviet campaign underway in this country. He came, he saw, heard and was convinced.

Mr. Polyansky said he had been impressed by what he had seen and heard during his cross-Canada tour. He had found that the majority of Canadians he talked to favored the development of trade with Russia. He said that he and Mr. Winters — who recently visited Russia — were just laying the groundwork with their speeches.

Smiling Mr. Polyansky said he would like to suggest to Canadians in respect to trade with Russia, in the words of the Duke of Edinburgh, "It is time to pull the fingers out." He spoke through an interpreter. He quipped, told jokes, poked fun at his host and at politicians in general and charmed the luncheon guests. George Hees, former trade minister, told him jokingly that if he ran for a constituency in Canada he should have no trouble winning it.

Mr. Polyansky, through Mr. Winters, said he wished to thank Canadians for their hospitality.

He singled out the members of the press for attention. He said some, he had found, wrote light pieces about how members of the Russian delegation drank soft drinks and other such inconsequential items, whereas other newspapermen in Canada wrote about the serious implications of the tour of the Russian parliamentarians. He preferred the latter type of reporting. But he laughed appreciatively when one newsman said that during such hot humid weather some readers would prefer "light" reading.

Mr. Winters said that during his visit to Russia he had found among the Russian people a genuine desire for friendship and for peace in the world.

"They mean this sincerely. They want friendship and peace. The visit of Mr. Polyansky and the Russian parliamentarians has helped emphasize their desire for friendly relations between our two countries," said Mr. Winters.

Two British Car Companies Merge

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain's "mini-car" makers joined forces with the luxury Jaguar cars Monday night in a merger aimed at strengthening their bid for vital export sales.

The giant British Motor Corporation (BMC)—which makes two-fifths of Britain's cars, including the revolutionary tiny Mini Austin series and its higher-powered variants — said the merger had been decided upon "rather than fight against each other in the export market."

Jaguar—producers of luxurious sedans and the glamorous E-type 160-m.p.h. sports car—said the merger would be "a very valuable partnership."

Jaguar cars will remain a separate entity, with its present chairman, Sir William Lyons, retaining his post. The chairman of BMC—makers of Morris, Austin, Wolseley, Riley and MG—is Sir George Harriman.

The combination was expected to put the two companies on a better competitive footing against the American "big three." European alliances like Fiat and Volkswagen-Mercedes Benz, and the Japanese amalgamation of Nissan and Prinz.

Of the other major British car producers, British Ford and Vauxhall are wholly American-owned, while Rootes is affiliated with Chrysler.

After BMC, Jaguar was the biggest independent left.

The combination will handle 44 per cent of the British car market and earn nearly $380,000,000 from American car sales.

The merger closes a colorful era in the independent history of Jaguar, a firm built up by Lyons, who at 65 is the last of the great pioneers of the British motor industry. The firm began humbly in 1922 when 21-year-old Bill Lyons formed the Swallow Sidecar Co. in Blackpool. His early successes in a long line of fast, sleek sports cars came a decade later with the SS Jaguar.

The postwar era brought a big rise in the fortunes of the firm, under the name of Jaguar Car Co. Its fantastic series of engines won the 24-hour sports car classic at Le Mans, France, three years in succession beginning in 1955.

After Volkswagen, the new group will be the largest vehicle manufacturers in the world outside the United States.

Bricklayers Get Vancouver Parity

Bricklayers on southern Vancouver Island have gained parity with Vancouver workers in a new two-year contract.

Members of Local 2, Bricklayers International Union, accepted a contractors' offer Monday night. The 72-cent package includes an extra 49 cents in wages.

The old rate of $3.51 an hour rises to $3.66 immediately, $3.80 at Oct. 1 and $4 Oct. 1, 1967.

The union, representing 54 bricklayers, had served 48-hour strike notice on nine contractors. They were seeking 50 cents over two years.

Talks with Local 1093, Construction and General Laborers Union, are expected later this week. The union served strike notice last week to back its demand for parity with other union members in B.C.

$11 Million Tied Up In Hotel Adventure

TORONTO (CP)—Atlantic Acceptance Corp., which went bankrupt last year, might have stayed alive had it not been for an $11,000,000 'adventure in the Bahamas," a royal commission was told Monday.

The commission, set up to investigate the collapse of Atlantic which went into receivership in June, 19 when it couldn't meet a $5,000,000 debt, was told the finance company had more than $11,000,000 tied up in the luxurious Lucayan Beach Hotel in the Bahamas.

Albert Shepherd, commission counsel, said had the investment been more liquid Atlantic may have been able to meet the $5,000,000 debt.

The Lucayan Beach Hotel was financed largely by Atlantic Acceptance funds and run by Canadians.

John M. Burn, a chartered accountant who investigated Atlantic's Bahamian investments for the royal commission, said the Lucayan Beach Hotel sold 10,000,000 shares to the public beginning in 1963.

Mr. Burn said Atlantic had put up about 80 per cent of the money to buy these shares, but ended up with only 33 per cent.

Investigation of the Bahamian deals was hampered by the fact that the commission was dealing with companies dealing in foreign jurisdictions.

A company which owed Atlantic more than $7,000,000 at one time had apparently kept no books after the first three months of its 21-month existence, Mr. Shepherd said.

Coronation Profit Down

VANCOUVER (CP) — Net income of Coronation Credit Corp. fell to $429,676 in the nine months ended April 30 compared with $668,392 in the same period a year ago.

Share earnings were 16 cents compared with 33 cents.

Preferred dividends paid in the period totalled $221,474 compared with $231,419.

Shipments Of Grain Show Gain

VANCOUVER (CP) — Grain shipments in June from Vancouver were almost double those of the same month in 1965, the merchant's exchange has reported.

Shipping in June, 1966, totalled 19,800,000 bushels. The 1965 figure was 10,800,000.

An exchange spokesman said shipments for last month were above average and the 1965 figure was low because of a grain handlers' strike.

Total shipments for B.C. ports from Aug. 1, 1965, to the end of June were 221,200,000 bushels against the previous season's figure of 184,600,000.

Prairie Winery Planned

Growers' Wine Ltd. is looking for Saskatchewan farmers to raise raspberries for a new prairie winery.

Its subsidiary company, Growers' Wine (Saskatchewan) Ltd., has notified the Saskatchwan department of industry and commerce that a pilot project at Moose Jaw would be successful.

Additional land is being acquired for further development as work proceeds at a crash pace to have the first winery unit built by September.

Meanwhile, the company is investigating a $100,000 a year raspberry growing business.

LONG AGREEMENT

Field manager Herbert Bickfor said he is looking for 10-year agreements with five or six farmers interested in planting about 30 acres with raspberry canes.

He said the minimum price they could expect to receive would be 22 cents a pound on a harvesting cost of three cents a pound.

The Saskatchewan subsidiary was formed in October 1964. Its first stage of construction is valued at $750,000, including an administration block that is expected to be finished in October.

Recognition By Aircraft Industry

The aircraft industry will recognize graduates of B.C. vocational programs with pay and time benefits, Education Minister Leslie Peterson said Monday.

"The plan has been endorsed by most of the larger aircraft firms which have a learner training program," he said in a press release.

Learners spend four years, during which they receive eight pay increments, to qualify for an aircraft maintenance engineer's licence.

Graduates of the one-year aircraft maintenance course at the provincial vocational school in Burnaby will be given 1½ years credit toward the licence and will start at the appropriate pay increment scale when enrolled in an industrial learner program.

High school graduates who complete either the mechanical or electrical specialty in the school industrial program will be given a six-months credit toward the licence.

Mr. Peterson said the aircraft industry's move is a concrete example of the value of the new vocationally-oriented programs in grades 11 and 12 which will produce their first graduates in 1967.

"It is a most encouraging move on the part of the industry," he said.

"The secondary schools also have programs in commerce and service industries and I am confident that as they become better known employers in those fields will recognize their value too."

Industrial Employment Shows Gain

OTTAWA (CP) — Industrial employment rose in February with gains in manufacturing, construction, transportation and the utilities.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics said today a composite index of employment based on 1961 levels as 100, rose from January. The index was 6.8 per cent higher than in February of 1964.

Calculated as a seasonal adjustment, the month's index was 119.8, higher by .8 per cent than January.

Employment rose in all larger manufacturing industries except tobacco and food and beverages. Hiring of engineers led the construction improvement.

All regions of Canada contributed to the gains, although in the Atlantic provinces a major improvement in Newfoundland was needed to offset declines in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

Railways Revenue Boosted

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's railways showed an 11.6 per cent improvement in revenues during March, 1966, over the previous March, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

Total revenues for the month were $129,731,335 for 23 reporting railways. Of this total the Canadian National Railways accounted for $68,242,652 and the Canadian Pacific Railway for $48,709,131.

Operating expenses for all the lines rose 9.2 per cent to $118,364,845 for the same month, resulting in a net operating income of $11,355,845. The net income for March, 1964, was about $7,900,000.

CNR net income for the month was $4,498,974, CPR $5,692,557.

February's figures, latest available on passenger totals, showed an 18 per cent increase in commuter travel over the same month of 1964. Non-commuter traffic was down 11.7 per cent and the total number of passengers during the month was 2,000,000, an increase over the previous year of 73,000.

EMERGENCY SERVICE SET UP IN QUEBEC

Hospitals Strike 'Certain'

MONTREAL (CP) —Marcel Pepin, president of the Quebec-based Confederation of National Trade Unions (CNTU), said Monday a committee to help provide medical treatment for sick persons at home will be set up by the CNTU should 32,000 non - medical employees go on strike Thursday.

The union service would be free of charge, he added.

Mr. Pepin told a press conference that a strike against 139 hospitals in Quebec seems "practically inevitable."

Union officials have said they would postpone the strike on a day-to-day basis if negotiations were going well but a union spokesman declined to say Monday night whether this was still the position.

Mr. Pepin said the unions, who "made every effort to continue negotiations, would take every possible measure to ensure that the population does not suffer from the irresponsibility of those to whom the well-being of the public is entrusted."

Hospitals across the province have been bracing for the probable strike by gradually reducing the number of patients.

ASK PATIENTS TO LEAVE

Patients able to leave hospital ing asked to do so and those having had an operation are being discharged as quickly as medical men feel it is safe.

It was reported Monday that at some hospitals, wards are only half filled.

Dr. J. Gilbert Turner, vice-chairman of the Quebec Hospital Association's labor relations committee, said Monday night admissions are being rigorously controlled.

He said only those requiring urgent treatment are being given beds, maternity cases included. Persons able to postpone operations were being asked to do so.

Paul Dalpe, president of the National Federation of Services (CNTU), said officials of his union, which represents the workers, have been meeting with management but that these meetings did not constitute negotiations.

SEEK $8 INCREASE

The hospitals have been reported by union officials to be offering the employees pay increases ranging from $1.50 to $3.30 on their weekly salaries while the union was asking for $8. Management spokesmen have mentioned an offer of "up to $6 weekly" as having been made to the union.

The union is seeking a two-year agreement, which would be its first province-wide agreement with hospitals.

Weekly pay for the workers concerned is in the $60-$65 range with higher rates for tradesmen and those with special qualifications.

Mr. Pepin said a study of his union shows a family's wage earner needs $90.40 a week for essentials.

The union leader said the CNTU would meet with the Quebec cabinet in a final effort to avoid a walkout, if the cabinet agreed.

There are more than 4,000 nurses among the employees represented by the CNTU affiliate.

Many hospital nurses in Quebec negotiate separately.

'Nobody Wins or Loses' In World Cup Nightmare

Safety-First Tactics Bore Crowd and Queen

LONDON (CP)—If the soccer stars of England and Uruguay have set the pattern for the 1966 World Cup tournament, it could smash all records for lack of goals.

If the 14 other national teams play the same safe defensive tactics, it's a glum lookout for thousands of addicts hoping for a supreme spectacle of soccer during the next three weeks.

England and Uruguay played to a goalless draw Monday night in the opening match of the World Cup tournament at London's Wembley Stadium. The only match played on opening day, it was a safety-first game that sparked little excitement and left 75,000 fans booing in frustration.

The Queen, who had just opened the tournament with a prediction of some "fine football" to come, looked as bored as most of the other spectators.

Everything seemed to point to the outcome that some spoil-sport soccer pundits had forecast: Solid defences blocking off the net and stifling scoring chances on the basis that "if we can't win, we don't want to lose."

One British soccer official said: "I woke up screaming with a nightmare that the World Cup may produce no goals at all. Nobody wins and nobody loses.

"I keep dreading that we might end up with all 16 teams winning the championship because none of them scored a goal."

Did Traffic Holdups Deter 25,000?

One big mystery surrounded the England - Uruguay match. What happened to 25,000 missing spectators who were supposed to be there?

Wembley Stadium officials announced at first that a sellout crowd of 100,000 paid to see the game. Afterwards, they checked the gates and found that only 75,000 went through the turnstiles.

"I can only assume that thousands who bought tickets didn't trouble to use them because they were deterred by traffic holdups on the road to the stadium," a ticket office inspector said.

In tonight's matches, West Germany plays Switzerland, Bulgaria meets Brazil, the defending champion, and the Soviet Union plays North Korea. Everyone hopes a goal or two may be scored.

West Germany's dark horse team faces Switzerland in Sheffield and starts its World Cup bid along a road that was carefully planned five months ago. The two countries of Group II are scheduled to meet at Hillsborough Stadium, home of the English First Division team Sheffield Wednesday.

Germans Plan Every Minute Detail

The Germans, champions in 1954, are staying in a country retreat 40 miles from Sheffield.

They worked out their route to Sheffield in February, when manager Helmut Schoen visited England and planned his team's World Cup campaign. He rode over the route to Sheffield and chose an inn where the players could stop for coffee and stretch their legs.

"So we will travel for 45 minutes, have a stroll, and then go on for another 45 minutes to Sheffield," Schoen said. "This is typical of the thoroughness which makes West Germany feared by many teams in the tournament."

The Germans are favored to win their group over Spain, Argentina and Switzerland.

The 16 teams are divided into four groups of four. The top two in each group after a round-robin competition will advance to the quarter - finals, from which point the rest of the tournament proceeds on a straight knockout basis until the two survivors clash in the sudden-death final July 30.

The home crowd booed their own team at the end of Monday's match.

Four of the England players walked off before the closing ceremony. There were only seven English players on the field although the Uruguayans, obviously jubilant, were at full strength as the national anthems were played.

England's team had about 75 per cent of the play—but they could never overcome the defensive tactics of the Uruguayans.

Uruguayan goalkeeper Mazurkieviez was a brilliant man in the last line of his team's defence.

Once he saved a shot from England forward Bobby Charlton that looked a winner all the way as the Uruguayan goalkeeper appeared unsighted. Then he made an equally fine save from English forward Jimmy Greaves.

WANTS TO MEET . . . . . LIGHTWEIGHT CHAMP

Grandpa Bobo Is Aiming High

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Grandfather Carl (Bobo) Olson of San Francisco now wants another chance at light-heavyweight champion Jose Torres after defeating European titlist Piero Del Papa.

Olson, former middleweight champion, won a split 10-round decision Monday night over the Italian from Pisa.

There were no knockdowns but Del Papa staggered Olson in the fourth round with a right uppercut to the chin.

"I got careless in the fourth but I wasn't hurt," said Olson, who was celebrating his 38th birthday.

In the other dressing room, Del Papa, 27, was getting three stitches over the left eyebrow from a cut he got in the second round. He said it was caused by a head butt.

The judges voted for Olson, Johnny Lotsey calling it 6 to 3 and Vern Bybee 5 to 2. Referee Jack Downey saw it 6 to 4 for Del Papa in his first fight in the United States.

Olson's record now is 94-16-2. Del Papa is 28-3-3.

SPORTS

DOUG PEDEN, Sports Editor

Hal Malone LOOKS AT SPORTS

I would like to sit down with the world's fishing experts some day and have them explain to me why I cannot catch a fish.

This would be a long sitting. Both sides would have to bring sandwiches and sleeping bags and a lot of cool ones. The history of my frustration at the end of a fishing pole goes back a few hundred years.

What I could tell those experts about not catching a fish they wouldn't believe. I mean I can cash a ticket on a horse occasionally and I know how to change a light bulb without taking on 90,000 volts through the pant legs. I'm not much on plumbing or carpentry or floor-sanding but who needs them anyway? In summer you can live outside. It is summer isn't it? Would you believe "warm winter?"

Until two weeks ago I hadn't thought much about fishing. I missed the camaraderie, of course. When you go out with anglers (?) like Stan Williams and George Crombie, you don't have to worry about anything. They always bring the main ingredients, the lies and the ice and the opener.

Oh to Be an Angler, Just Once . . .

Some guides put fishing above all else, but Crombie and Williams aren't like that, thank God. I think if anybody in their boat had the indecency to hook a big one just as a good yarn was reaching its climax, they would gaff the fisherman before the story-teller.

That's what makes angling the delightful pastime, the retreat from reality, it is. Just the same, just once, I would like to break the spell. I would like to hook and struggle with and boat a //*%' "%&" fish.

Two weeks ago while gathering fresh air and a few light logs at Island View Beach, our party suddenly grew quiet. This is a rather significant feat within the clan, generally accomplished by dire threats ("no ice cream" or "I'll take your Batman cards").

Up the beach, walking slowly but with those grins that make non-fishermen positively bilious, came these two citizens. One carried the rods and tackle box. The other pulled across the sand a ")%!$*"// spring salmon that didn't go an ounce under 20 pounds.

"What store did you patronize?" I inquired smiling.

"No problems," came the reply. "A little luck, a little patience, a little walk. That's all." Looking over his shoulder—"Just off The Spit, maybe a mile from here."

Good Ol' Cal Spilled the Beans . . .

All very casual. You ever hear a successful angler talk in any other terms? "You just go down to the water, throw your line in and brace yourself, buddy, because when they charge you . . . ."

The fisherman finally dragged his prize away after lingering long enough to draw appropriate "ooohs" and "aaahhhs" from the clan. They would have been silent sooner if I had been able to find large enough pieces of driftwood to accidentally drop on their ankles.

My resolve not to be lured into fishing for fishing's sake was not weakened by this shameful fish exhibition.

But last Saturday at Elk Lake while supervising the drowning of several tads, I had the misfortune to meet a neighbor, Cal Jorgensen.

Mr. Jorgensen likes fishing. Fish like him. Every time he goes out he brings them home. Some guys bring flowers or chocolates but he brings fish.

"Fishing's sure been good," he said. "Coho all over."

"Shshhhh," I said. "You want all my mob to hear?"

"Even for you," he said, "fishing can't be a problem. The other day at sea (Mr. Jorgensen helps to keep the navy afloat) we ran into a school of salmon. Long as this"—arms wide apart. "Measured them. Mile and a quarter by 2½ miles. Fantastic. Could have walked on them."

They Don't Eat Much, Just Often

Naturally, big ears on little people overheard. No longer could I hide behind a facade of indifference to Izaak Walton's game. You may wonder why I didn't belt Mr. Jorgenson in the mouth for his helpful remarks. I will tell you. Mr. Jorgenson is built like the entire left side of the B.C. Lions' defensive line. There, and don't ask any more stupid questions.

On Sunday I considered sneaking out to The Spit, bagging a whopper and sprinting home with the evidence. I was going to drive by Jorgenson's place, even if it was 4 a.m., and blow my horn flat out.

But oh no. People wanted to get in on the act. Four to be exact. One is big enough to go bear huntin' with a switch; one is a spinster with a monstrous appetite and two were male neophyte sportsmen.

This meant provisions (watermelon, potato chips and chocolate bars) and more tackle than the Russian fleet.

We hiked and hiked along the beach, in sand to our knees, sliding on seaweed and rocks, having a jolly time.

Great Way to Broaden Vocabulary

At a rock outcropping we threw our lines out. No bites. About 9½ pounds of seaweed. We moved along and tried again. By this time the wind was something.

"I wanna go home," said a fishing friend.

"I wanna eat," said another. "Where's the bathroom?"

Another one took my tackle and threw it over James Island. You see how much fun fishing can be . . . under the proper circumstances?

Actually the exercise is what counts, physical and mental. "Fishing" in this context has one other benefit. It enables a man to broaden his vocabulary. I seriously doubt whether my vocabulary would be what it is without the benefit of non-fishing fishing safaris.

I'm not saying in which specific area it has been broadened. But maybe you can guess.

Russia May Be Barred From Mexico Olympics

NEW YORK ((AP)—U.S. officials warned today that the Soviet Union might be barred from the 1968 Olympic Games in Mexico City because of its "shocking and incredible" action in pulling out of its dual track meet with the United States.

The Soviet cancellation of its participation in the meet, scheduled for July 23-24 in Los Angeles, came without warning Monday from Moscow. The Soviet news agency Tass reported the cancellation was in protest of American participation in the Viet Nam war.

Col. Don Hull, executive director of the Amateur Athletic Union, said in Frankfurt, Germany, he plans to fly to Moscow to see whether he can still work things out.

'SHOCKING NEWS'

Hull talked by telephone with Glenn Davis, director of the Los Angeles meet. "Col. Hull told me," Davis said, "that he could not believe the Soviet sports people would jeopardize their standing with the International Amateur Athletic Federation by failing to complete their contract to compete in Los Angeles."

"This news is shocking and incredible," Clifford H. Buck, president of the AAU, said in Denver, Colo. "We are particularly distressed because this puts the entire amateur sports exchange with the Soviet Union in jeopardy."

Tass said the U.S.-Russian basketball series of games, scheduled to start in Moscow July 25, also have been cancelled, but that the swimming competition between the United States and the Soviets, scheduled for Moscow Saturday and Sunday, was not affected because three other nations were entered.

Following the Soviet lead, Polish officials today cancelled their track and field team's trip to Berkley, Calif., next weekend to compete against a U.S. team. An official of the Polish sports ministry said the Polish Track and Field Association decided to cancel the meet because of the Viet Nam war.

FOY BLAMES GOVERNMENT

In Moscow today U.S. Ambassador Foy D. Kohler protested the Soviet action and told Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko Washington did not accept the report that the athletes themselves decided to cancel the meet. He said the Soviet government was responsible for the athletes' action.

News of the Soviet team's refusal to compete against the United States had not been made public in Poland today. It was believed it would be announced simultaneously with the Polish decision.

A U.S. embassy spokesman said Kohler got the impression from his talk with Gromyko that the Kremlin had not yet taken a definite decision to cancel future sports events.

ONLY SORE AT YANKS

Fifteen American swimmers were expected in Moscow later today to participate in a five-nation meet this weekend.

A Soviet chess federation spokesman said world chess champion Tigran Petrosian and runner-up Boris Spassky, both Soviet citizens, would fly Wednesday to Los Angeles for a chess tournament.

A Soviet sports expert said Monday the athletes' decision involved only Soviet-American meets, not general international competitions.

NO OFFICIAL WORD

Buck said he regrets that "politics has been permitted to interfere with amateur athletic competition." He and Capt. Steve Archer, secretary of the AAU, as well as the state department in Washington and the U.S. embassy in Moscow, said they had received no official word from the Soviet government.

"Since this is a Tass release, I can only assume that it is official," Buck said.

The AAU said this is the second time this year Russia has withdrawn its athletes from a track meet in the United States. Archer said a touring group of Russian athletes abruptly was ordered to return to Moscow just before the national AAU indoor championships at Albuquerque, N.M., last March.

Tass reported that the resolution adopted by the Russian athletes which led to the latest cancellation, read: "Our hatred for the American military who are perpetrating atrocities in Viet Nam and our solidarity with the people of Viet Nam, who are fighting for their freedom and independence, does not permit us to take part in a match with sportsmen of a country from which this aggression comes."

Canadian Victory Places Littler In World Series

TORONTO (CP)—Gene Littler of San Diego, the defending Canadian Open champion, could turn last year's victory into an extra $50,000 this year.

Littler has been named — on the strength of his 1965 Canadian Open win — to the foursome which will play the World Series of Golf at Akron, Ohio, on Saturday, Sept. 10.

First prize is $50,000 with the other three $15,000, $10,000 and $5,000.

It happened this way: Eligible for the World Series are the winners of the U.S. Masters, U.S. Open, British Open and Professional Golfers Association championship.

First alternate is the winner of the Western Open, with the winner of the Canadian Open second alternate.

Jack Nicklaus qualified for the series by winning the Masters in April. When he won the British Open this month he left the door open for the first alternate to make the squad.

The first alternate was Bill Casper, who won the Western Open. But Billy had qualified by winning the U.S. Open last month.

Littler, second alternate by virtue of his Canadian Open title last year was in.

Adding to the coincidence is the fact that the Canadian Open is held much later than usual this year — Sept. 29-Oct. 2 at Vancouver.

Normally, the Canadian Open is held well before the World Series of Golf, which ordinarily would make the current year's champion the second alternate.

EMILE CINCH SAYS MANAGER

NEW YORK (AP) — The odds-on middleweight champion Emile Griffith have dropped from 7 to 5 favorite to even money but the champ's handlers feel he is a cinch to beat challenger Joey Archer in their title fight Wednesday night here.

"I'll make the prediction for Emile," Gil Clancy, trainer and co-manager, said Monday night. "He's going to knock out Archer in an early round.

"Emile hits harder, although Archer is heavier. If it goes the distance Emile still will win."

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP)—Armbro Flight, Canada's winner of the $100,000 Roosevelt International trot, was listed Monday as a starter in the $25,000 gold division of the Challenge Cup trot at Roosevelt Raceway Saturday night.

A definite decision is expected Wednesday from Joe O'Brien of Alberton, P.E.I., trainer of the Canadian mare owned by the Armstrong brothers of Brampton, Ont.

WAKEFORD, FRED POST SHARING . . .

. . . VSIAA-TIMES EVENT CHAIRMANSHIP

Big Fish, Best-Ever Salmon Derby Taffy's Ambitions

"Taffy" Wakeford is a man with two ambitions — one old and one new.

For many years Taffy has been trying to catch a salmon of 30 pounds or more in Saanich Inlet in order to earn one of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association's silver buttons.

He once boated a 42-pounder at Comox and he once came within a few ounces of his silver target by hauling a 29-pound, 13-ounce salmon out of Saanich Inlet.

Wakeford is still planning to snag the silver button salmon but he admits his chances are reduced this summer because of his newest ambition.

He hopes to see the total proceeds from the annual Handicapped Children's Salmon Derby climb to $95,000.

Since it was started in 1946 as the Solarium Derby, the event, co-sponsored by the VSIAA and The Daily Times, has produced almost $90,000 to assist handicapped youngsters.

Other charity derbies staged by the anglers in past years have added another $18,000 to the amount, making it more than $100,000 the anglers have collected for organizations working with children.

However, in the past few years, the VSIAA members, partly in the interests of conservation and partly in order to make only one charity appeal each year, have combined all their fund-raising energies into one derby — the Handicapped Children's event.

This one — Vancouver Island's biggest and most popular one-day fishing derby — is the one that is keeping Taffy busy these days and cutting down on his fishing time.

In his hope to see the event raise more than $5,000 this year, Wakeford is joined by Fred Post. The fishing pals are serving as co-chairmen of this year's derby committee.

Derby date at Saanich Inlet this year is Aug. 21, with fishing from dawn until 2 p.m. All committee members work on a voluntary basis and all proceeds will again be divided between the Queen Alexandra Solarium, the Cerebral Palsy Association and the Handicapped Children's Clinic.

Post and Wakeford have acquired a top derby prize that should please any outdoor enthusiast. It is a 14½-foot fiberglas boat, equipped with a 35-horsepower outboard motor, trailer and water skis.

This one may be won by anybody who purchases a $1 derby ticket. It is not necessary to fish in the derby to win the main prize.

Also on the list are a flock of prizes for the people who haul salmon out of the Inlet on August 21.

Wakeford, employed by the department of national defence and a member of the VSIAA for seven years, doesn't mind missing some fishing time this summer as long as he feels he is helping the handicapped youngsters.

"You have to visit the Solarium or a children's hospital only once," says the 45-year-old Wakeford, "When you see the work being done for the children, you know you want to do your best to help."

Post, like many men who have grown up in Victoria, has been a fisherman as long as he can remember. Fred, 45, has been a VSIAA member for 10 years and last year he was chairman of the annual derby.

Fred also has a big-fish ambition, but it is somewhat more modest than Taffy's target. He is still looking for a 20-pounder in Saanich Inlet in order to win one of the VSIAA's bronze buttons.

His derby ambitions, however, are just as great.

"We can't do too much to make our derby more successful," he says. "There is a tremendous satisfaction in knowing you have helped some youngsters toward a happier life."

For most people, the helping is quick and simple. It merely consists of buying a derby ticket, which are available from VSIAA members, most sporting goods stores and Saanich Inlet boathouses.

And for one of the ticket purchasers will come a fine reward — that boat, motor and trailer for fun in the sun.

JAMBOREE TONIGHT

Gates the Rage On Boxla Front

No matter how you look at it, "Gates" are in the lacrosse news.

Through the gates at Memorial Arena tonight is expected to pass a fair throng for the Victoria Minor Lacrosse Association's annual jamboree.

Advance ticket sale stood at 2,000 early today.

The jamboree, fund-raising promotion for the association, will offer five games, starting at 6:30. Admission makes spectators eligible for one of a dozen door prizes.

The other Gates is Michael. Coquitlam Adanacs have him and the other teams in the Inter-City League would like to tie him down somewhere.

Gates scored five goals and assisted on nine others last week in double victories over Vancouver. His 14-point effort coincidentally reflects his margin over all others in the individual scoring derby.

PARNELL SECOND

Paul Parnell of Westminster is second with 51 points (30 goals, 21 assists), followed by Coquitlam's Fred Usselman, 49.

On a ratio of points to games played, Gates has a slight edge over Victoria's Ranjit Dillon, eighth with 55.

Dillon has played only 10 games (to Gates' 19) and could close much of the gap in Victoria's last 11 games.

The first of these brings Coquitlam to Memorial Arena Wednesday night at 8.

Shamrocks will definitely be without Tom Collett, one goal shy of his 100th in ICLL play. He has been in St. Joseph's Hospital 10 days for treatment to his neck. Defenceman Ted Liebech, hurting with a damaged knee cartilage, is listed as a probable starter.

Rocks have no hope of catching Coquitlam whom they play Saturday on the mainland. But a double victory over the Adanacs, on top of their 16-11 lacing of New Westminster last week, could give them a good shot at the third and final playoff berth.

Canadians Well Placed In Shooting at Bisley

BROOKWOOD, England (CP)—Thirteen competitors, including one Canadian, had perfect scores of 50 Monday in The Times competition at the National Rifle Association's Bisley meet.

Maj. Richard W. Hampton of Toronto, who has been on 16 Bisley teams and has been Canadian Armed Services rifle champion three times, was one of the sharpshooters making a perfect score on 10 shots over 200 yards.

The group will shoot off for the trophy Thursday and each man will receive a medal for his high score.

Canadians placed well throughout Monday's competition and six others came through The Times shoot with scores of 49. They were N. G. Lewis of Ottawa; R. D. Clerk, Royal Montreal Regiment; LAC Ernest Roger, Esquimalt, B.C.; Sgt. Victor Heron, Moose Jaw, Sask.; Maj. Colin M. Brown, an Ancaster, Ont., native now serving with the British Army as an exchange officer; and Dominion of Canada Rifle Association commandant Lt.-Col. William J. Strachan, now retired from the army in Ottawa.

SHOOT-OFF WINNER

In a shoot-off for the Century challenge trophy R. L. Gray of Newcastle - on - Tyne, put three shots into the bull to win.

LAC Jim Hennock of Toronto and British marksman R. N. Britton both scored 14 with two bulls and an inner each. In a two-shot effort to break that tie, Britton finished with two bulls to a bull and an inner for the Canadian.

A tie-shoot is scheduled Wednesday between 11 men who scored a perfect 50 in The Daily Mail challenge cup match.

No Canadians were among the perfect scores but at next best with 49 were Nicholas Beckessy, Montreal; Frank Whittle, Hodgeville, Sask.; Dale Gibson, Moncton, N.B.; and Derek Daines, Calgary.

VICTORIAN AT 48

At 48 were Sgt. John Watt, Victoria, B.C.; Sgt. Alfred O'Brien, RCAF, Toronto; FO Dave Rumbold, Ottawa; Ralph Grant, Dartmouth, N.S.; Sgt. Joe Daigle, Moncton; and privately-entered A. J. Morley, Guelph, Ont.

The tyro prize went to Cpl. R. J. Standen of Calgary with a 47.

Another perfect score was made by the Royal Navy's Lieut. Pat Ramsay who put all 10 shots into the bull at 900 yards for 50 in the Cambridge trophy. Among those scoring 49s was LAC Roger, good enough for ninth place out of 900 marksmen.

TYRO PRIZES

Canadian Cadet Lieut. A. R. Betts of Shanty Bay, Ont., placed 13th with 48 and Don Sewell of Winnipeg was 16th, also with 48. Cadet Warrant Officer Bill Johnson of Vancouver was 17th with 47.

Rumbold had 46, Arnold Park, Winnipeg, Earl Brown, Calgary and Arne Sorenson, Calgary, each had 45. Lewis and Sgt. Jack Riches, Oliver, B.C., took tyro prizes with 43.

Britons C. F. O'Sullivan and A. W. Cannon will shoot off for the Clementi-Smith aggregate trophy, each having an aggregate record of 148.

Best Canadian was Sorenson with 144 out of a possible 150. Beckessy, Brown and Hennock tied at 143. Grant, Sewell and Standen shot 142s and LAC John Castleman of Montreal had 139.

WOMAN SELLS BLOOD, LOSES HER CHILDREN

MIAMI (UPI) — Mrs. Graldine Luke left three of her children waiting in her car Monday when she visited a medical supply house to give a pint of blood for which she was paid $10.

Three hours later when she returned to the car, her children—James 4, Barbara 3, and Joseph 1½—were dead.

Police said the children died of either suffocation or heat stroke in the closed car. A medical examiner estimated that in the 90-degree heat, temperature in the car reached 130 degrees.

Exchange Visits Set By Birthday Planners

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (CP)—The centennial committees of British Columbia, the Yukon and Alaska agreed Monday to a series of cultural, athletic and student exchanges in 1966 and 1967.

Representatives of the province, the territory and the state agreed to sponsor trips of such groups as British Columbia's Barkerville troupe.

Athletes from all three areas will participate in events, and students will spend several days in the areas on trips.

L. J. Wallace, chairman of the B.C. centennial committee, said the student exchange between the province and Alaska will involve several visits in October and November of 1966 and 1967.

B.C. is celebrating this year the centennial of the union of the crown colonies of Vancouver Island and the mainland. In 1967, B.C. and the Yukon will celebrate the Canadian centennial, while Alaska will celebrate the anniversary of the American purchase of the northern state.

The Yukon and Alaska agreed at Monday's meeting to join with British Columbia in a 1967 celebration of the silver jubilee of the Alaska highway.

Details will be worked out later.

This was the second such conference, the first having been held at Prince Rupert.

B.C. Centennial committee members are Victorians Willard Ireland, C. J. Cox and R. H. Gillespie, and E. F. Fox, T. C. Orr and G. C. Hacker.

Alaska was purchased from Russia for $7,200,000 in 1867.

Lonesome Lake Farm Sold by Lone Farmer

STUIE, B.C. (CP)—Ralph Edwards, the lone farmer of remote Lonesome Lake, B.C., is selling his farm and giving up flying his airplane at the age of 70.

The sale of the isolated farm was reported by Mrs. Pauline Fisher, one of five summer residents here and one of Mr. Edwards' nearest neighbors. The Edwards' farm is 20 miles from here.

Edwards started his farm in 1912 and has cared for a flock of trumpeter swans since 1936 when their normal food supply was cut off by a slide into the lake.

Mrs. Fisher said Edwards has sold his farm to an unidentified couple in San Francisco.

Edwards' daughter Trudy and her husband, Jack Turner, have been feeding the swans for the past several years and will carry on with the assistance of the Canadian Wild Life Service.

Edwards' farm is at the south end of Tweedsmuir Provincial Park, 240 miles northeast of Vancouver. He has full selling rights because he was there before the area was designated a park.

Mrs. Fisher said Edwards, who purchased his own airplane and learned to fly when he was 62, decided to sell because he plans to give up flying—his only access to the outside world—and now is seeking a more accessible property.

Line Grants With Strings Not Wanted

Premier Bennett Monday said he did not want federal help with financing long-distance hydro-power transmission lines if it had strings.

He was commenting on a statement by federal Resources Minister Pepin that B.C. could have the same deal given Manitoba under which Ottawa will put up the money for a long transmission line but will control it until the cost is repaid.

Asked if he would like a similar loan, the premier replied to reporters: "Not on that basis — no federal strings, please."

The premier, who is borrowing money to meet current construction bills on the two-river power projects and will need to finance a long-distance transmission line for the Peace River project soon, said he is interested in a low-interest loan from Ottawa on a normal basis.

Pays $30 Fine For Poor Timing

Poor timing cost John Cran of 1318 Moorgren Place $350 in central court Monday.

A week ago Saturday, Cran tried to make a left turn from Balmoral on to Cook Street.

"I thought I could beat the other car but I hit him," he told officers at the scene.

Damage to the two cars amounted to $450.

He was fined $350 and had his licence suspended for six months except for business purposes.

Roadblock Catches Minor With Beer

A police roadblock on Esquimalt Road June 23 uncovered two full bottles of beer in the car of Bruce Kinnell, 19, of HMCS Mackenzie.

He was fined $35 in central court Monday for being a minor in possession of liquor.

Andrew McKeand, 18, of 2069 Marion Street, was similarly fined for having six full capped bottles of beer in his car as he drove along Estevan late on the evening of June 25.

VICTORIA, B.C., TUESDAY, JULY 12, 1966—PAGE 17

Arthur Mayse

Out along Metchosin Road just about as far as you can go stands a large, weather-tested community hall. It has a country air; it should have horses and buggies outside and perhaps a surrey with a fringe on top.

Instead, you will find trucks and cars, and if the Saturday night happens to be one on which the Wagon Wheel Round-Up is in session, parking space will be hard to find.

That's how it was last Saturday. The Round-Up was set to begin lifting the community hall roof at 8 o'clock and the deep-country folk of Metchosin and neighboring points including Victoria began to arrive well ahead of the appointed time.

What they came for and what they would get was the grass-roots music of North America. Western music, country music, it makes up in solid beat and hearty volume what it may lack in sophistication. Its humor is as broad as its bathos.

By all the rules it should have been long ago drowned out, chased off into a few lost corners of the continent.

But country music is sturdy stuff and today it probably keeps more devotees strumming, humming, singing and listening than pure folk and rock-and-roll together.

★

On the inside, Metchosin community hall is lined from floor to rooftree with knotty cedar.

Up front is an elevated stage of generous size, with 'Metchosin' in large white letters above. A red curtain is drawn across the stage and from behind it emerge promising testings and tunings . . . a lightfoot patter of chords from a fast banjo, a volley of grunts cuffed from the midriff of a bass viol and a high flight from an electric guitar.

Those who turn out for Metchosin's home-grown Wagon Wheel Round-Up range in age from grandparents who can remember when the hall, was built to boys of the district's champion Little League Redwings, stuffing themselves with potato chips on two benches close under the stage.

Everybody seems to know everyone else. There is a rising hum of conversation, which continues until the twin amplifiers come to life.

The curtain parts, the music cuts loose and the applause is terrific.

The male Wagon Wheelers, like all good purveyors of Western music, are dazzlingly costumed. Their red vests or black, pearl-buttoned shirts are decked with enough silver to out-glitter a Mexican saddle. By contrast, the show's three women members are almost prim in navy shirts, white blouses and green ties. They, by the way, are the wife and two daughters of producer Keith Potts, who launched the Round-up about 11 years ago.

Except for a ten-minute intermission, the singing and the music that paces it never let up.

Some of the songs ('Tears on My Pillow', 'A Wound Time Can't Erase',) are real heartbusters; in fact Western music leans heavy on love unrequited or blasted by evil circumstances.

★

New songs in the old tradition are being written all the time. Mr. Potts, who looks forward to the day when he can become a fully professional composer and singer, contributed three to the last-Saturday show. He sang two of these with his family and one solo. His songs were well-received, especially a number called 'Echo in the Valley'.

Eventually, Mr. Potts may realize this ambition and I expect that Ken Stolz, a young man with a guitar and a better-than-average voice, will move on to larger fields.

Meanwhile, along with the other 14 members of the Round-Up bunch, they are very warmly regarded in their district.

It seems to me remarkable that so sound and briskly bright a show should originate in one not very heavily populated area.

You may have heard the Wagon Wheel Round-Up in Centennial Square last week.

If not—and if you like country music—Keith Potts and his Westerners will be putting on another show in Metchosin community hall next month.

Be It Ever So Crumble, It Was Home

By BOB DONAHUE

It is a dirty red brick on the outside and dirty grey brick and blackened walls on the inside of the building in the 1800 block Government Street.

The building, built as a hotel in 1909, was condemned by city council June 23.

One block from city hall you can step through a street-level doorway to the stairs leading to second and third-storey apartments and be in another world.

DARK AT TOP

From the bottom it looks a long way up and it's dark at the top of the stairs.

Halfway up the worn, narrow staircase, in the dark and the dirt of the building at 1810 Government, is the front door of the place that Wong Gee and his six children call home.

Knock on the door.

Joseph Wong, age 15, will open it. He speaks English and is the eldest son. Younger, laughing faces gather around the doorway.

"Yes, we know we have to move. But we can't. I don't know where we are going to go. We're going to ask for help," says Joseph whose face is not smiling.

He says the family has been living there for two years and the rent is $35 a month. His father "works in a kitchen."

RED BRICK

There are other long, dark stairways in the same red brick building on Government Street. And there are other doorways hidden in the shadows and in the dust on the walls.

There is some confusion as to whether anyone else is living behind these doors other than Wong Gee and his six children.

The owners and agents for the building, B.C. Land Insurance Agency, are not sure of th enumber of tenants.

"We lost about a dozen tenants because of bad publicity," said manager W. O. Cameron.

TOO BUSY

"I don't know how many people are living there right now — you don't know about these Chinese.

"I'm too busy to talk about it."

The bad publicity Mr. Cameron referred to was a city council health committee recommendation in which the building was said to be "unfit for habitation."

But the company was never informed officially because of a departmental scramble at city hall.

The matter was being resolved today.

The recommendation did not affect the business premises on the ground floor.

On June 23 a city council meeting approved the committee's recommendation.

But someone else had found all these same conditions in the building in 1961.

At the top of one of these dark, musty stairwells a religious pamphlet was jammed into a doorway marked 203, the former residence of one named Lok Wah.

He last paid his rent in September, 1961, a receipt pinned to the wall indicated.

For $33 a month Lok Wah rented the apartment and divided it into 10 cubicles. For 10 persons, or perhaps 10 families.

Sometime after Lok Wah left the third floor of the building at 1800 Government someone jammed a pamphlet into the door which asked: "Live forever in happiness? Yes, God has made this possible for you."

Urban Renewal Plan Crosses Major Hurdle

The Rose-Blanshard urban renewal scheme crossed its first major hurdle this morning when it won tacit agreement for the project from J. Everett Brown, housing commissioner for B.C.

ON MONDAY

Following a 1½-hour meeting with Mayor A. W. Toone, and officials of the Canadian Mortgage and Housing Corporation, Mr. Brown said he would take his recommendation to Premier Bennett next Monday.

He said he viewed the project and the premier's possible response "optimistically."

The $2 million project must receive provincial blessings before CMHC officially enters the three-way agreement.

OPTIMISTIC

Mayor Toone said this morning's talk went "extremely well" and added that he is optimistic that "within a month we should be able to get down to things."

If the premier gives the green light Monday it will mean the federal government will pay $793,000 towards the total cost while the province and the city pay $396,000 each.

$350,000 ALLOCATED

The city already has $350,000 allocated towards the project in the capital budget.

The scheme, second in Victoria's major urban renewal program (Bastion Square was the first) will see a complete modernization of the Rose-Blanshard area, a new North Ward School with adequate playing fields and the construction of a low-rental housing estate.

"Things are going ahead well now," Mayor Toone said. "I hope that very soon we shall be able to make real progress."

Gas Blows Out Killing Seaman

Fire Extinguisher Death Is Puzzle

RCMP today are investigating the puzzling death of a naval rating aboard a flying boat at Pat Bay Airport on Monday.

The man was instantly killed when pressure blew in a fire extinguisher he was holding close to his body.

Police said the dead man and a friend had no authority to be aboard the giant Martin Mars plane when the accident occurred.

Dead is Leading Seaman Roy John Masales, 24, of 10 Greenridge Trailer Court, Halifax. He was married and the father of one child.

•

The extinguisher was an old model that carried about 2,000 pounds pressure to release 15 pounds of carbon dioxide.

Police were called by LS Earle McDonald, who had accompanied Masales aboard the aircraft, which was bought for conversion to a water-bomber. Masales was found lying dead on the floor of the cockpit.

A navy spokesman said both sailors were attached to the naval air squadron that is based at Sheerwater, near Halifax. The squadron was moved temporarily to the Pacific Coast and has been taking part here in naval exercises.

While here, the squadron has been based at Pat Bay Airport.

Police said both men were off duty at the time of the accident at 2:30 p.m. Monday. They had left the RCN base and wandered on to DOT property.

Police said they apparently climbed aboard the Martin Mars, one of four flying boats bought for forest fire fighting by Forest Industries Flying Tankers Ltd., a subsidiary of MacMillan-Bloedel and Powell River.

•

It was while they were looking over the water-bomber that the accident occurred.

Police said the extinguisher did not explode. It was in one piece after the accident.

A spokesman for Duff-MacKay Equipment Ltd., a company which deals in fire-fighting equipment, said today if the cylinder suddenly released its pressure "it would take off like a missile and shoot all over the place."

(He said most extinguishers are equipped with a safety valve which will "blow" under extreme pressure.)

An autopsy to determine the exact cause of death was held this morning. Coroner D. G. Ashby later today was to announce when an inquest will be held.

RCMP said they have had to chase people away from the aircraft in the past. It was not locked. The plane was damaged in 1961 when blown over in a windstorm.

BASTION OPENING PUT BACK

The official opening of Bastion Square has been delayed until Monday, July 25.

Originally scheduled for Friday the 10-day delay has been ordered to enable Labor Minister Jack Nicholson to participate.

The federal government contributed roughly half the costs of the project, Victoria's first full-scale venture into urban renewal.

Mayor A. W. Toone said Monday the ceremonies will start at 2:30 p.m.

Lei Queen To Spread Goodwill

Hawaii's Narcissus Queen will receive a royal welcome on her goodwill visit to Victoria on Wednesday.

Queen Lynanne Moo arrives at 1:20 p.m. at Pat Bay airport with a tour party of 40, including her two princesses, Jacquelyn Chun and Carolyn Hong.

They will be officially greeted by Mayor A. W. Toone and by Jack Lee, president of the Chinese Consolidated Benevolent Association, at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in Centennial Square.

Princess Jacquelyn Chun, who was also named Miss Chinatown, U.S.A., will perform an Oriental dance, and other members of the tour party will present a program of music and dancing.

Victoria Chinatown Lions Drum and Bell Corps and majorettes will also perform.

A reception for guests and dignitaries at the Chinese Consolidated Benevolent Association Hall will follow.

Once-Lowly B.C. Cougars May Win Big-Game Status

Hunters may have to pay big game trophy fees in future to bag cougars and wolves, Recreation and Conservation Minister Kenneth Kiernan indicated today.

A change in philosphy that is sweeping the continent is behind the elevation of the once-lowly animals to the status of prized big game which has to be sought with the rules of "fair chase" and protected from indiscriminate slaughter.

"There are no trophy fees established for them in B.C. at the moment but it is not beyond the realm of possibility that there will be in the future," he said.

Mr. Kiernan was commenting on recent action by the Boone and Crockett Club, recognized by hunters as the arbiter of North American big game records, to upgrade the status of the much-maligned cougars from predators to big game animals.

As of last Friday, the club's records committee will not recognize any cougars entered in its big game competitions roll that are shot in a province or state which offers a bounty on the cats.

Mr. Kiernan said B.C. hunters don't have to worry about the ruling because the province withdrew its cougar bounty several years ago and the new Wildlife Act passed by this year's legislature gives cougars, wolves and coyotes big game animal status.

"That means they cannot be shot on sight but have to be taken in a hunt as are other game animals," he said.

The new measure resulted not so much from any decline in number of the animals but a shift in conservation philosophy.

NOT OUTLAWS

"We felt that they shouldn't be characterized as outlaws and simply exterminated just because they exist because in most cases they are off by themselves and inconveniencing no one."

He said in cases where a cougar is preying on livestock or disturbing a community, the department still can authorize its killing under the Predator Control Act but this seldom is required.

Waterfront Apartment Going Up

Construction of a controversial Oak Bay waterfront apartment by a Victoria development firm is scheduled to start by the end of this month.

Diversified Management and Development Co. president David Hummel said an announcement is expected in two or three weeks.

The tiered building on Beach Drive was planned to extend toward the water's edge adjoining Oak Bay Beach Hotel, on former Merston estate property.

Plans aroused a storm of protest by area residents objecting to concentrated apartment construction between the scenic drive and seafront.

PARK USE

The controversy dragged on three years, some persons calling for the municipality to buy the land for park use.

Re-zoning by the municipal council was challenged, reversed and upheld when the matter went to court hearings.

Meanwhile, Mr. Hummel said the firm is about to start a $1 million 74-suite Royal Arms apartment on Yates at Fernwood.

Three storeys and a ground floor will be of frame-stucco construction and include an enclosed sunroom and garden on its roof.

Rents for studio, one-bedroom and two-bedroom suites will range between $70 and $145 a month, Mr. Hummel said.

Inquest Set Wednesday

An inquest into the death of traffic victim Mrs. Sarah Forryan, 2110 Windsor, will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Thompson and Irving Funeral Home, 1621 Quadra.

Mrs. Forryan, 83, was killed Saturday when the car in which she was a passenger collided with another auto on the Pat Bay Highway at Sayward Road.

Vandals Knock Plaster Down, Sentenced to Clean It Up

Three youngsters who damaged a house under construction at Mars and Finlayson will have to clean up the mess they left.

Police officers who investigated the vandalism after it was reported Monday said plaster had been knocked from the walls, pipes broken off and the structure left in a "general mess."

After consulting the parents of the 14-year-old, 10-year-old and nine-year-old responsible, it was agreed the three boys would be made to clean up the damage.

In another case of vandalism, police discovered two boys, aged 9 and 10, caused $168 damage to a bus and its contents over the weekend.

The pair entered a bus parked at the rear of Burns and Dutton Construction (1962) Ltd, 1321 Gladstone, let the vehicle back down a slope when it hit a pole, causing $90 damage.

The boys then threw the contents of a first aid kit about the company yard, spilled five gallons of detergent and emptied a fire extinguisher.

Parents Here For Service

Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Walton travelled from their home in Santa Barbara, Calif., to attend the recent wedding of their daughter, Barbara Browning Walton, and Robert Howard Taylor in St. George the Martyr Church, recently. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Taylor, 3557 Kelsey Place, Victoria.

Dr. N. S. Noel officiated at the service and Mr. Walton gave his daughter in marriage. A coat of silk peau d'ange topped the bride's floor-length gown of similar fabric. The embossed velvet bodice was styled with belled sleeves. Pink roses were in her bouquet.

Matching floor-length gowns in powder-blue tones were worn by maid of honor Miss Cheryl Stephen and bridesmaids, the Misses Elizabeth Taylor, and Sally Jameson, Bremerton, Wash. Their blue-veiled hats matched the gowns and they carried bouquets of white carnations and gladioli.

Best man was Michael Bassett and guests were ushered by Terry Murphy and Richard Sparks.

R. J. Baird proposed the toast to his niece at the garden reception which followed at the Bairds' Mileva Lane home.

The couple will make their home in Vancouver, following a honeymoon trip to Calgary. The new Mrs. Taylor chose a navy blue silk suit for travelling. She completed the outfit with a matching straw hat and white accessories.

WHY GROW OLD?

If You Can't Tolerate Sun, Use Lotion to Copy Suntan

Today I bring you a few helpful hints. If you are one of those who can't tolerate much direct exposure to the sun, you are probably tired by now of having a lily-white complexion while your friends enhance summer pastels with a chic, good-looking suntan. It makes a gal feel like something dug up from ages past. I know because I am one of you.

Lowman

If I try to get a suntan, all I really get is a rash or blisters. There is cosmetic help for those of us who wish "to belong" to the suntan set without penalizing our sensitive complexions.

There are excellent suntan lotions for the face, body and legs. With this you can copy a lovely suntan from head to toe. You can also use this liquid to cover white strap marks from a previous bathing suit or when you wish to wear a strapless costume.

This is also helpful when you tan the rest of yourself with the sun but keep your neck and face in the shade. With this cosmetic you can match your face and neck to your legs and arms. It does not come off until you remove it with cream or wash it off with soap and water.

If you have an in-between complexion which can take some tan but must be treated with care, for a good suntan, use one of the screening lotions or creams. Be sure that it not only has the screening agents but moisturizes to keep the skin soft.

A new crop of freckles or a darkening of those already present are often the result of summer fun. If you have the kind of skin which freckles, you really can't avoid them unless you stay away from the sunlight. However, it will help if you use one of the products I have described and indulge in your outdoor life either early in the morning or late in the afternoon. Also wear a big hat and long sleeves whenever feasible.

If you would like to lose weight by holding your carbohydrate grams to 60 a day instead of counting calories, you may want my "Carbohydrate Gram Counter" booklet. This also gives you a couple of days' sample menus. If so send 15 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

CENTENNIAL COOKBOOK

MONTREAL (CP) — A cookbook containing recipes of historic and ethnic interest is being compiled by the Canadian Home Economics Association as a centennial project, Wanda Young, the organization's president-elect, said Monday.

"Home economists from across Canada have submitted the recipes and they have been tested by the Toronto branch," said the Regina woman, who is here to attend the July 11-14 meeting of the association.

"We hope to start taking orders in November so that the cookbooks can be given as Christmas presents."

DEAR ABBY ...

Psychiatrist—Only Answer for Child

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter is 13, and everyone who meets her tells us how lucky we are to have such a sweet, well-mannered, intelligent child. The truth is, she's deceitful, cruel, and a real problem. We can't even keep a pet for fear she'll torture it to death. (She's already done away with a kitten and a full-grown poodle.) She cannot be trusted and is such a clever little liar she worries us.

Outside the home she puts on a goody-goody act that could fool anybody. Her ambition is to be an actress, and she would make a good one. How can we straighten her out? She's not dumb. In fact, she's too smart for her own good. Don't suggest a psychiatrist. She could turn on the charm and have him eating out of her hand in no time.

"SARAH BERNHARDT'S" MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: A psychiatrist is exactly what she needs. And don't worry about his eating out of her hand. More likely it will be the other way around. And more important, he'll be able to tell you whether she is just "going through a stage" or is ON one.

DEAR ABBY: A woman I see quite often but do not know very well came right out and asked me if I had ever had my face lifted! I never have and that is what I told her, but I could tell by the way she looked at me that she didn't quite believe me.

Later I heard that she asked a friend of mine the same question about me. What would you make of such a person?

INSULTED.

DEAR INSULTED: A stranger.

DEAR ABBY: My 10-year-old son is a Little Leaguer. The position he holds is "bench-warmer." He and several other boys attend practice every night. Last night he announced that he didn't want to go to any more games, because it was boring just sitting in the dugout. But he said he wanted to continue going to practice because at least everybody got to play then.

Now I know this isn't an earth-shaking problem, but it seems to me the managers and coaches place too much emphasis on winning. I think it is only fair that each boy gets a chance to play, no matter how poor he is. It would be interesting to hear from some of the managers and coaches out there.

BENCH-WARMER'S MOM.

DEAR ABBY: I chuckled when I read the letter from the "Hurt Grandmother," who had bought so many lovely little dresses for her granddaughters, but saw them only in mismatched jeans and blouses. I was reminded of a trick I once played on my mother, who also used to buy my daughters gorgeous dresses on every occasion.

When I knew mother was coming, I quickly washed two of the lovely fancy dresses she had given my girls. As usual, mother asked if she could "do anything" while I prepared dinner. I told her she could iron the two dresses. Abby, it took her exactly one hour and five minutes to iron those two dresses! Not one word was spoken, but after that she bought the girls darling little slack outfits. Of the drip-dry variety.

'Red Hot' Tip on Chair That Baby Can't Tip

By Penny Saver

I was looking after my young niece one afternoon, giving my sister the liberty of a day "on the town." The youngster, at the "age of innocence", was having the time of her life, chattering and singing. A true "a-go-go" girl in the making, she began tapping her high-chair with her spoon to the tune of her song. No "pop-time" singer can possibly complete a melody without swinging the body in rhythm with the song. As her song grew in intensity, her whole high-chair was literally swinging back and forth.

It was a wonder that the whole chair didn't suddenly capsize. However, when my sister returned from her shopping spree, she brought a new type of high-chair that is impossible for a youngster to tip while sitting in it.

Made completely of beechwood, this chair has specially designed legs that curve outward from the seat. Thus, if there was a base at the bottom of the chair, that base would be much larger in circumference than the seat.

These chairs are real safety measures, and will protect your child from a hazardous spill. They sell for $32.

An item that your baby, or any stuffed-animal lover, will adore is a "creature" that sells for $1.95. Call it what you wish —it is simply a ball of fur with two round eyes. It has legs of felt-covered wire, and an extra-long tail made of the same wire. Hang it carelessly from a light cord, or set it on your child's dressing table. They come in assorted, charming colors.

There is nothing more frustrating than picking up a novel that you haven't quite finished, and being unable to find the place that you left off. This always happens to me when I am at the most exciting part of the book. I found a novel bookmarker that has helped considerably. This is a long, leather cord with a wooden cat at one end, and a mouse at the other. Priced at 90 cents, they're perfect as a child's book mark as well.

Give Penny a call at 382-3131. She'll tell you where she found these items.

Announcement

The forthcoming marriage is announced of Miss Beverley Anne Russell, daughter of Mrs. Marjorie Anne Russell, to Mr. Richard Isagawa of Hawaii, son of Mrs. Haruko Isagawa. 'SELLS' SERVICE

'Product' Spurs Women To Help Themselves

By DINA STEWART

Edna Hazen is a unique type of saleswoman.

Her "territory" is not restricted by city boundaries — it takes in northwestern Canada and the United States.

Her "customers" are far-sighted women who recognize the need for improvement for the community and their sex.

Her product is service.

Mrs. Hazen is field representative for Altrusa International, advising and helping local branches and promoting the cause of "helping women to help themselves," the Altrusa Club's purpose, throughout the west.

Mrs. Hazen is the ideal representative. She's energetic — since September, she's travelled through most of her territory, not only helping clubs, as she's doing in Victoria, but organizing new ones in Kamloops and Olympia, Wash.

"Membership in Altrusa," says Mrs. Hazen, "is by invitation only and nominees must hold an executive or managing position in their profession — this gives a membership which is trained in leadership and responsibility — and it is limited to only one representative from a particular profession or business. This gives diversification of membership."

When Mrs. Hazen began laying the groundwork for the Kamloops club, the mayor of the interior city wondered if it would be possible to form the club in a city of that size with such membership restrictions.

"I certainly surprised him when he attended the organizational dinner, with all 22 members present. He didn't think it could be done!"

Looking for members Mrs. Hazen combed through the city to discover shop owners, store managers, nursing home administrators and others who realized the benefit such a group would bring to the women of the area.

"Such benefits include the two major projects of the clubs," says Mrs. Hazen. "The first is the Founders Fund Vocational Aid, where through monetary awards, women can rehabilitate or help themselves. Such funds enable women to train themselves for employment or retrain to gain a higher position in their work or meet increased requirements in a changing labor world.

HANDICAPPED AID

"In other cases, women who are not able to leave their home through physical handicaps or family problems, deserted wives with children, are given material aid to begin their own businesses, such as sewing machines or typewriters.

"We also help the mentally handicapped by supplying materials to nursing homes for handicrafts to keep them active.

"Every woman who is interested in helping herself is eligible," continues Mrs. Hazen. "We find applicants through churches, Parent-Teacher Associations and schools."

Altrusa also branches out to the educational aspect of women, too. Says Mrs. Hazen: "This is the second major fund, the Grants-In-Aid Project. It's offered to graduate women who are attending a college in a country other than their own who, due to lack of funds, have to drop out. The recipient must go back to her country to exercise her knowledge, however.

"The grants are available to women from most countries, except those in continental Europe — they have so many universities there, so many educational advantages already.

"Women are gradually becoming aware of their importance in today's world, the need to think about women who are now coming to the front. The Altrusa Clubs are trying to help women to see this new world and to have them work to improve themselves.

"There is no reason why women can't do the work of the men."

Edna Hazen, when not "on the road," still continues the life of service she has made for herself since she retired as corporate director and secretary-treasurer of a well-known chemical manufacturer in California. At home in Altadena, Calif., she spends her spare time working voluntarily with the Cancer Society and the Red Cross in Pasadena, a few miles away. She will be in Victoria until the end of the week.

'SOMETHING OLD' FOR MARTHA JEAN DAYSMITH

BRACELET BRIDAL TOKEN

Her maternal grandmother's amethyst bracelet fulfilled the tradition of "something old" for Martha Jean Daysmith when she became the bride of Samuel Russell Baker, Seattle, in Metropolitan United Church.

The bracelet was the only jewelry accent to the bride's gown of white organza, trimmed with lace. The skirt was styled on A-lines and the fitted bodice featured a lace-trimmed Bertha collar. A full train swept back from the waistline. Her bouffant shoulder-length veil misted softly from a petalled bandeau, and she carried a bouquet of lily of the valley and gardenias.

Floral arrangements of blue and white decorated the church when Rev. Albert E. King heard vows exchanged between the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Alan Daysmith, 2150 Lansdowne Road, and the son of Dr. and Mrs. Joel Wilson Baker of Seattle, Wash. Dr. Daysmith gave his daughter in marriage, and during the ceremony, soloist Miss Nancy Tidman sang "The Wedding Prayer" and "The Twenty-Third Psalm."

Empire-line gowns of apple green Swiss cotton shantung were worn by the bride's attendants; her sister Miss Alison Daysmith, Mrs. Carl Jepsen, Coronado, Calif.; the Misses Susan Lort, New York; and Judith Carr, England.

They accented their ensembles with wedding ring headpieces of shantung, trimmed with veils, and carried contoured bouquets of anemones, shaded from blue to mauve.

Lieut. John Baillie Baker was best man for his brother. Ushering the guests were Martin W. Baker, Chapin Henry III, William Reed Jr. and Craig Calvert, all of Seattle. The couple used the groom's maternal grandfather's dirk, studded with cairngorm, to cut their three-tier wedding cake at the reception following the Oak Bay Golf Club. John R. Meredith proposed the toast to the bride.

A dressmaker suit of lime green wool was worn by the new Mrs. Baker for travelling on honeymoon. She accented the outfit with a burnt-straw Breton hat with floral crown, and straw-toned and green accessories.

The couple will make their home in Hanover, N.H., where the groom is taking his medical internship.

FOR PAKISTAN SCHOOLS

Segregation Rules Set

LAHORE (Reuters) — Schools for girls in West Pakistan have been given a new code of conduct by the provincial government, which has banned dancing and music lessons for them. It has also ordered segregation of the sexes in school plays in co-educational schools.

The new rules were decided at a cabinet meeting under provincial governor Malik Amir Mohammed Khan, and announced in the West Pakistan assembly here by Law Minister Ghulam Nabi Memon.

The minister told the House that "dancing in any form, even before female audiences, will not be allowed."

In co-educational institutions boys and girls will not be allowed to take part in plays together. Institutions for girls must not allow press photographers to attend their functions "and take photographs for the press, which provoke criticism."

Another rule for girls announced by the law minister states that when they are playing games they must not "wear immodest dresses which expose parts of their body."

School plays and cultural programs must not be shown to mixed audiences, he added.

Women Too Expensive

JERUSALEM (AP) — A price ceiling on brides?

That's the proposal of young bachelors of the Druse community in Israel. Druses broke away from Islam in the 11th century.

The Druse bachelors complain that the mohar, or bride price, is too high. Some Druse girls cost as much as £15,000 Israeli ($5,300). The Druse bachelors believe £2,000 would be more in line.

Speaking for the single men of his community, Mohammed Mursal suggested religious leaders fix a reasonable mohar ceiling. He said bachelors can only afford to marry now if they borrow money and go into debt or move to the big cities and work for years.

There are about 27,000 Druses living in 18 villages in northern Israel.

BOWEN-MACKAY VOWS EXCHANGED IN OAK BAY UNITED

Newlyweds Travel East to Make New Home

Following their recent wedding in Oak Bay United Church, newlyweds Sub-Lt. Barry Douglas Bowen, RCN, and Mrs. Bowen left for a honeymoon trip travelling east to Halifax and Dartmouth, N.S., where they will be making their new home. Before travelling east, the couple spent a week on Gabriola Island.

The bride, the former Mary Maureen MacKay, is the daughter of Mrs. James Malcolm MacKay, 2126 Granite Street, and the late Mr. MacKay, and the groom is the son of Mrs. Edna Bowen, 1407 Fort Street.

Arrangements of roses, snapdragons, foxgloves and syringa decorated the church for the service at which Rev. Alex Calder officiated. During the signing of the register Martin Chambers sang "The Lord's Prayer", accompanied by organist M. Kroeger.

Given in marriage by her uncle, George T. Duncan, the bride wore a floor-length gown of ice-blue duchesse satin. She accented the outfit with a matching veil, which misted softly from a satin floral headpiece, and she carried a bouquet of pink orchids and stephanotis.

As the couple left the church, the groom's fellow officers of the Royal Canadian Air Command formed a guard of honor.

Empire-line gowns of Paisley-printed silk were worn by the two matrons of honor, Mrs. Robert Cameron, San Francisco, Calif.; and Mrs. Stan Cameron, Victoria. Their headpieces were of peach and orchid gladioli and they carried similar flowers in their bouquets.

Best man was Louis de Macedo. Ushering the guests were the bride's brother, I. MacKay and Stan Cameron.

Robert Cameron proposed the toast to his sister-in-law at the reception which followed in the home of the bride's mother. For travelling on honeymoon, the new Mrs. Bowen donned a two-piece linen suit in rose tones, which she complemented with white accessories.

Pink and White

A corsage of carnations in pink and white tones was presented to bride-elect Miss Sally Mantell when she was feted at a shower in the Haro Road home of Mrs. William Russell. Mother of the honor guest, Mrs. F. W. Mantell, received white carnations and the groom-elect's mother, pink carnations. An umbrella, decorated in the color theme of pink and white, concealed the gifts presented by Mrs. F. Shore, Mrs. A. D. Waterman, Mrs. W. Elford, Mrs. J. Whitwell, Mrs R. Oswald, Mrs. M. Campbell, Mrs. R. McMicking, Mrs. C. Finnigan, Mrs. K. Rogers, Mrs. D. Caldwell, Mrs. R. Walker, Mrs. P. H. L. Mantell, the Misses Barbara Fuller, C. Couves, Pauline Hurry, Elizabeth Wells, Libby Mowat, Evelyn Gill, Kathy Shore, Ann Turyk and Elaine Brown.

RIVALS SINATRA HIT

'Strangers' Waxed By Mighty Mrs. M.

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Watch out, Frank Sinatra, here comes Mrs. Miller with her version of Strangers in the Night.

Capitol Records is rushing a version by Elva Miller onto the market, and the Sinatra hit song may never be the same. But then, the whole record business hasn't been quite the same since Mrs. Miller came on the scene.

Her album, Mrs. Miller's Greatest Hits, already has sold 150,000 copies, a highly respectable figure. Her style? It has defied description. Suffice to say she sings teen-age record hits in a mature contralto. She also whistles.

Mrs. Miller, 58, has no illusions about her achievement.

"I'll go along with it as long as it lasts," she remarked. "It would be foolish at my age to become starry eyed. If all this comes to an end, I still have my home and my many interests. And I will have had a lot of fun."

STARTED AS GAG

It all started because Mrs. Miller, an amateur singer of Claremont, Calif., made regular visits to a Hollywood studio to record songs, mostly of a sacred nature, for her own pleasure. On one occasion, her accompanist, Fred Bock, slipped some rock-'n'-roll numbers among her hymns.

MRS. MILLER
. . . sings?

"I think you're having fun with Mrs. Miller," she said, but she went along with him. It happened that Capitol had been searching for an operatic voice to render Beatle-type hits. Mrs. Miller seemed an ideal choice.

Mrs. Miller, who had done no real performing since her high school days in Dodge City, Kan., now finds herself in show business. She has appeared on the television programs of Ed Sullivan, Merv Griffin, Mike Douglas and Art Linkletter.

Her husband, a retired rancher, John Miller, is sympathetic with her career.

"He knows I am mature enough to realize thinks like this run their course," said Mrs. Miller.

Life Magazine Sued By Millionaire's Wife

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The wife of the millionaire industrial heir, Russel A. Firestone Jr., has filed suit for $6,000,000 against Time Inc. over a story that appeared in Life magazine. Mary Alice Firestone, whose suit was filed Monday in circuit court, alleges that "injurious photographs and quotations" were published in a Life story on snooping by private detectives. Mrs. Firestone is suing her husband for separate maintenance and child custody.

Lunch-time Verse Drama Canadian Hit

LONDON (CP) — A verse drama by a young Canadian actor-playwright is the latest attraction in a venture launched five months ago by an enterprising theatre club to put on lunch - time plays for office workers and students in central London.

The Prisoners, a 25-minute one-act by Antony Ruth of Waterloo, Ont., opened Monday to a small but appreciative audience in the Little Theatre Club, in Garrick Yard, a narrow alley in the heart of theatreland between Covent Garden and Shaftesbury Avenue.

"They actually liked it," said producer Brian King with evident surprise and relief. Although the club specializes in avant-garde drama, drawing on the works of Eugene Ionesco, Harold Pinter and Edward Albee, the play by the 23-year-old Canadian was apparently expected to be an acquired taste.

NTSC GRAD

Ruth, a graduate of the National Theatre School of Canada who came to Britain three months ago to gain acting experience, says he has been greatly influenced by the Spanish dramatist, Federico Garcia Lorca, in his playwriting.

The Prisoners, the first new play to be put on by the Little Theatre Club, is described by producer King as a cross between Lorca's Blood Wedding and W. B. Yeats' elegiac Riders to The Sea.

Ruth said in an interview he had been enchanted by the Yeats play and had nurtured an ambition to emulate the Irish poet as well as the works of Lorca.

Lunch-time threatre is a novelty in Britain, though it has been long established in Australia.

The club has 600 members and gives two performances each day. Award-winning actress Vanessa Redgrave and comedian Peter Sellers are patrons.

BARITONE, MUSICIAN TALENT HUNT WINNERS

For the first time in Victoria a live stereo radio broadcast was made Monday night from the stage of the McPherson Playhouse.

It was the Vancouver Island regional final of the Centennial Search for Canadian Talent.

A capacity audience heard 12 finalists representing Victoria, Nanaimo, Duncan and Port Alberni.

Two top winners who received the $100 and $50 cash prize awards respectively were lyric baritone Martin Chambers and young French horn player, Corinne Dunn.

These two will advance to the provincial semi-finals in Vancouver and a chance at the top grand prize of $1,000, second of $500 and third of $250.

Third place, and a prize of $25 went Monday, to pop vocalist Dena Noble.

DANCERS

Others participating were the Bunny McIntyre Dancers (for television only), Rino Elverhoy, tenor (Nanaimo), Bob Hall (Victoria), singing a Canadian folk song, accordionists Mike Ward and Lee York (Victoria), operatic soprano Sylvia Furneaux (Duncan), lieder singer Irene Boese (Victoria), pianist Stuart Calder (Victoria), folk singing trio Wee Three (Nanaimo) and vocalist Dick Henneberry (Port Alberni).

The show was backed by Bobby Herriot and the Centennial Search Showtime Orchestra. Prizes were awarded by executive producer for B.C., Rai Purdy.

'TV Slump' Causes Ailments

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Two physical therapists think "television slump" is responsible for a great deal of physical unfitness among young americans entering college.

The two, George Sullivan of Nebraska and William Newell of Purdue University, Indiana, said that at best, five per cent of young Americans are physically fit. Most of the them suffer from obesity and poor posture — caused by slumping while they watch TV.

Sullivan and Newell told the American Physical Therapy Assn. at the Biltmore hotel Monday that young negroes are in better shape than whites.

"Very few negroes are suffering from too much prosperity," Newell said. "You see them going to the gym every Saturday with their shoes over their shoulders while the other kidst are slumped on the divan watching television."

'Vindictive' Moves By Ouimet Scored

OTTAWA (CP) — David Lewis of the New Deomocratic Party Monday called on the government to step into the Seven Days controversy and tell CBC President J. Alphonse Ouimet and his associates to stop their "vindictive" behavior.

Mr. Lewis, member for York South, said management's "insane, vindictive behavior" must be stopped because otherwise its recklessness would leave the Crown-owned corporation without any talent.

He said management's handling of the controversy over the program This Hour Has Seven Days has resulted in 11 people leaving the CBC and the death of the show.

Although all parties to the dispute agree there has been a breakdown in communications between management and producers, Mr. Ouimet continues to ignore reports on the CBC and "remains durable."

The latest crisis over the program came last week when the CBC board of directors announced that Douglas Leiterman would be rehired as executive producer of the show only if he signed a guarantee to abide by management's policies and directives.

Mr. Leiterman refused to sign a contract on these terms and he and several others of the Seven Days crew are leaving.

L. R. Sherman (PC — Winnipeg South) said he deplores the threats of rebellion and possible anarchy which have arisen in the past few days even though he was not defending management's "botching" of its job.

Mr. Sherman had no sympathy for the "tempermental rebels" of the CBC who are pouting on the sidelines this week." Irresponsible producers had been allowed their heads for too long by a management that seemed hamstrung.

Some Seven Days' interviews had amounted to "verbal assault and battery." The problem had been the "loose rein" in management's hands. The producers who resigned last week should be allowed to remain resigned.

Men Against The Sea Sail Tall Ships

LONDON (Reuters) — The leaders of a fleet of 28 sailing ships were reported well into the Dover Straits Monday as they heeled under a fresh breeze on their way to Denmark in the annual tall ships race.

DAINTY ESCORTS

Reports from the British destroyer Dainty, which is escorting the fleet, placed the 1,920-ton Norwegian windjammer Stratsraad Lehmkuhl, largest of the competing ships, off Dover.

Other placings put the windjammers Danmark (Danish) and Sorlandet (Norwegian) off Dungeness.

MAKE FOUR KNOTS

The Norwegian windjammer Christian Radich was 10 miles west of Boulogne and the Georg Stag (Danish) smallest of the windjammers, was off Rye.

The 299-ton British schooner Sir Winston Churchill was 17 miles north of Dunkerque. Even farther north were the Swedish schooners Falken and Gladan and The Netherlands schooner Urania. A spokesman said in London that the ships were "well up to schedule" and were probably making about four knots before a changeable breeze.

Thousands of sightseers lined the clifftops around Falmouth Saturday as the fleet set sail in the 800-mile race to the northern tip of Denmark.

SINCE 1956

The race has been held every year since 1956.

The Dainty is carrying 17 prizes which will be awarded to the winners by King Frederik of Denmark.

All the ships are expected to reach the finish by July 18.

Yachtsmen Unfurl Tablecloths

There'll be more eating than sailing done by Royal Victoria Yacht Club members this weekend.

On Saturday it's the annual berry tea served by the club's ladies' association.

With strawberry crops hit by the bad weather, raspberries will be order of the day, served with Devonshire cream. The tea, costing 50 cents, will run from 3:30 to 5 p.m.

On Sunday it's off to Strong Tide Island for the annual club picnic.

Meals will be more substantial than the ladies' tea, with barbecued salmon and baked beans on the menu.

There will also be a treasure hunt, nature walks and community singing.

Hypnotized Wife Hurries Up Baby

ADELAIDE (Reuters) — A 21-year-old Australian housewife said today her husband hypnotized her into having her baby a week ahead of time to suit their domestic arrangements.

Mrs. Bernice Coonan said the husband delivered the baby girl without help Saturday night. Three minutes after the birth she sat up, watched television and drank coffee. Less than seven hours afterward, she was doing housework.

Her husband, Robert, a painter, said the baby was not due until Saturday but they decided they would like it a week earlier.

"I was at home and had nothing to do so we decided to have the baby this weekend as I might have had to work next weekend," Coonan said.

"At 3 p.m. I hypnotized Bernice and told her what time she would have the baby. I said it would be born at 11 p.m.

"At exactly 11 p.m. the baby was born."

Mrs. Coonan said she was fully conscious to watch the birth.

Coonan said he taught himself hypnotism. The couple have one other child, a son.

Mother and Baby Plunge Into Sea

VANCOUVVER (CP) — A 21-year-old Vancouver mother and her infant son are feared to have died Monday in a 200-foot plunge into Vancouver Harbor from the Lions Gate Bridge.

Missing is Mrs. Cornells Van Dijk and her eight-day-old son, Robert Cornells.

The woman's car was found abandoned near the centre of the bridge.

Mrs. Gertrud Kowalke, mother of the missing woman, who lives at the same house, told police her daughter got up about 3 a.m. and complained her baby was being "fussy."

No one saw Mrs. Van Dijk leave the house.

Provincial Aid Sought for Road

Lansdowne Route in Potholes: Grants Eyed as Uvic Access

Lansdowne Road in Oak Bay is going to potholes.

Leading discussion on a consultant's report on the condition of Oak Bay's thoroughfares at a meeting of Oak Bay "B" Committee Monday, the municipality's engineer, G. O. White said parts of Lansdowne Road would last just "a year or so."

"We can keep it going," he said, "but the money will be wasted."

"Fifty per cent of it is gone now."

A memo to the committee said that a consultant testing the road bases of parts of Lansdowne, Midland, Uplands and Foul Bay and Henderson Roads found that repair work was urgently needed.

"The sting of this thing," said Mr. White, "is that we have to reconstruct some roads."

FIVE TIMES

He said that the some of them built for residential area traffic, were carrying five times the weight expected.

Chairman of the traffic section of "B" Committee J. D. Watts suggested the cause of the premature wearing of the roads was due to university traffic, both student and construction supply trucks.

"The university is in itself a good thing," said councillor Watts, "but it has proved a severe burden to Oak Bay taxpayers."

He proposed that the district council apply to the provincial government for reclassification of roads affected as secondary highways.

As such, costs of construction on them would be paid in part by the government.

ON THE CHEAP

After engineer White commented that many of the roads now endangered had been built "on the cheap," Councillor Watts said "We can't go on fooling about with this."

He pointed out that the provincial government had built a road from Simon Fraser University to the city of Vancouver as well as roads surrounding U.B.C.

Mr. White said that even without widening reconstruction cost of Lansdowne Road alone would be $50,000 to $60,000.

It was agreed that the "B" committee recommend to council that application of reclassification of the roads involved as secondary roads be made.

In other business the committee:

- Agreed to recommend to council that a bylaw limiting traffic speed on Oak Bay lanes to 15 m.p.h. be drafted;
- Moved that, on recommendation of Police Chief John Green, No Parking signs prohibiting parking on the south side of Harlow Drive from Eastdowne to Cadboro Bay Road between 1 p.m. and 9 p.m. be erected;
- Referred to the police department a petition signed by 22 residents of the 2600 block Thompson Avenue requesting traffic control signals on Thompson near Topp;
- Moved that a yellow curb line be painted on the north side of Oak Bay Avenue between Prospect Place and York Place and that a No Parking sign prohibiting parking at the east and of Bowker Avenue between 11 p.m. and 6 a.m. be erected;
- Moved that a seat for bus passengers be placed at the northeast corner of Central and St. Patrick;
- Moved that guard rails made of logs at the foot of Dalhousie St. be replaced by a concrete curb;
- Agreed to recommend that services for Frederick Norris housing development be installed before services for lots on Ripon north of Lansdowne;
- Moved that street lighting on Cedar Hill Cross Road be improved using the present B.C. Hydro poles.

LOCAL CLINICS AWAITING BLOOD DONORS

The need for blood never takes a summer holiday.

Two clinics will be held in Saanich Friday: one from 10 a.m. to noon and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. at the Saanich Fire Hall, 760 Vernon, and the other from 10 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. to 2 p.m. in the Students' Union Building at the University of Victoria, Gordon Head campus.

Man Bugged, Wife Hit

His wife had been "bugging" him all day so he belted her.

Michael Emerson, 501 Gorge Road, appeared in central court Monday to face the consequences of his assault upon his wife Marjorie.

The court was told she was draped over a car bleeding from face cuts when the police arrived.

But it would take more than a punch in the face to damage a marriage of 36 years, Mrs. Emerson told the court.

Her husband is "a fine person who just lost his temper," she said.

"Conduct yourself as a grandmother should," Magistrate Ostler told her in letting Emerson off with a $50 fine.

Chief Inspector Tops in Class

The chief inspector of services in Saanich, David Smith, has topped his class in an administration course sponsored by the University of B.C. and the municipal affairs department.

He will be presented with an award from the department for leading the class of 14 in the four-year course.

Earlier, he won the first and third-year awards.

The final prize will be presented by the department at the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention in September.

HOME GARDEN

Garden-Grown Fruit Last Quality Source

By HILDA BEASTALL

Today, the home garden is the only sure source of tree or bush ripened fruit. The privilege of enjoying the added flavor is probably the chief reason for more people each year returning to gardening.

Hilda

Yet it is not uncommon to come across a gardener who gathers all his various fruits before ripening and keeps them days or weeks until he thinks the moment has arrived to eat them.

This procedure may have had its origin in garden books written in England, where a very different climate enabled the large estate gardeners to grow specimens of fruit superb in appearance but requiring ripening under artificial conditions.

PRICE VS QUALITY

We read of wrapping fruits in tissue paper and putting them away in a dark warm place; of placing the stem end of a bunch of grapes in a jar of sugared water to aid in sweetening the fruit; and who of us has not ripened at least the tail-end of the tomato crop in October by putting the fruits into a cardboard box?

Here on the coast, with so many fruits doing well in our average seasons, this is only done as a last resort for normally we are able to enjoy them sun ripened, at the peak of perfection.

This well-worn phrase means, to me, that the home gardener can pick the fruit when it is fully ripe and savor its delicious freshness while it is still warm from the sun's rays.

All summer ripening fruits, the strawberries, raspberries, cherries, the early peaches and apricots, can be left on the plants to ripen before gathering.

ARTIFICIAL RIPENING

It is only when they must be shipped commercially in wholesale quantities that these fruits are picked before ripening.

As far as work and garden space is concerned, it may be cheaper to buy the fruit needed, but where quality, as determined by flavor and food value, is held higher than outlay of labor, the home gardener wins out.

Fruit can be gathered from the garden over a longer period than it is available from the supermarkets. A row of raspberries for instance, will ripen gradually over a month or more according to variety, and picking can be done twice weekly of all the fruit which is fully ripened at those times.

The food values of fruits in terms of vitamins were worked out many years ago on the basis of sun-ripened specimens, with no revisions (to my knowledge) made to cope with the advent of cooling units during long transportation and marketing under fluorescent lights.

Dog Ban, Glass Control Urged for Willows Beach

Oak Bay's Willows Beach may mean sunshine and health for thousands but it's a big headache for the few.

Monday Oak Bay's "B" committee, discussing the beach area's problems, dealt with dogs, broken glass, noise and traffic.

In response to complaints from local residents, tribulations of the police department and bathers, the committee agreed to look into the absolute prohibition of dogs on the beach in the summer months and to investigate the possibility of a control on glass pop bottles that often end up in splinters.

The committee endorsed the idea that plastic containers replace those made of glass.

Chief Green said that implementation of parallel parking on the Esplanade had relieved congestion of the area. He moved that the new parking policy be referred to council for official approval.

The committee also agreed to recommend to council that a white line be painted down the centre of the Esplanade as far as the turnabout.

Studies as to the feasibility of increased parking on Cattle Point and the possible closure of the Esplanade to traffic are also under consideration, it was learned.

VISITORS KILL MORE

The average moose hunting success rate in Ontario was 24.5 per cent for residents and 50.9 per cent for visitors in 1964.

In other business the committee decided to recommend to council that the municipality's works department phase out of the practise of selling garbage cans to Oak Bay residents but that it continue rebottoming the cans for a fee.

Municipal Engineer G. O. White said the municipality had been selling standard cans to taxpayers for $11.50 each but that the price had risen to $15 plus $2.94 for a lid.

It was agreed the new price was too high.

It seems people are buying cheaper plastic models anyway.

The works department will still put a new bottom on a can for $5.16.

Police Chief John Green said his standard Oak Bay garbage can had lasted 15 years.

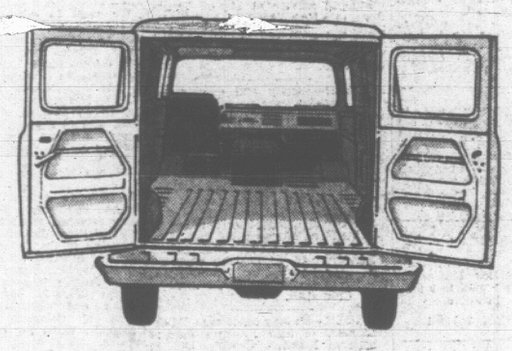
4 pointed questions to ask when you buy a new van...

1. Who's got the biggest Six?

ECONOLINE has. You'll get instant response from the new Big 150 HP 240 cu. in. six cylinder engine in the '66 Econolines, whatever load you've got aboard—it's the Six that performs like an Eight, with power for speedy acceleration in town, and plenty for highway cruising speeds. The new Econoline Big Six is a big reason for going Econoline!

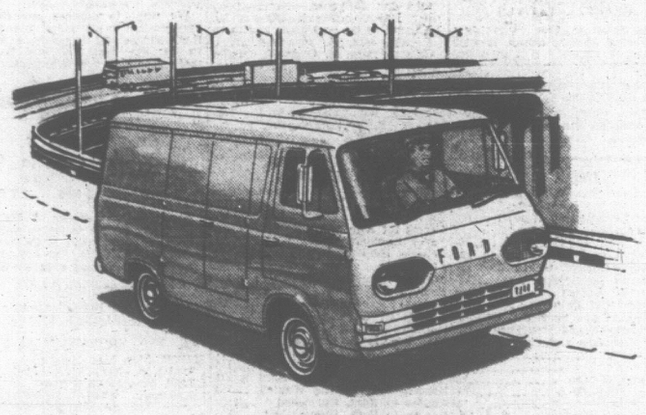
2. Who's got the biggest loadspace?

ECONOLINE has. Econoline SuperVan has a big 23% more loadspace . . . that's 52 cubic feet more than the standard Econoline Van. In Econoline SuperVan you can stow long loads of up to 14 ft. without having to hang out the red flag. Econoline SuperVan size starts where most other vans end!



3. What's the latest in handling?

ECONOLINE's sweet new ride and road hugging stability, that's what! The completely new rear suspension system means steady road holding and added passenger car comfort. And Econoline has an incredibly tight turning diameter—32 feet. That's just part of the outstanding way this great van handles. To find out the rest, try it for yourself!



4. What's new in durability?

ECONOLINE. The one that offers the most; new reinforced underbody members, zinc-plated to resist corrosion. And a one-ton payload package that includes heavy duty rear brakes, shock absorbers, rear axle and stabilizer bar. Everything adds up to a tougher Econoline, and a better buy for you.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

Football buffs, with newly-acquired color television sets, probably went out of their minds following the first full-color telecast of a game this season.

Stephen

The weekend encounter pitted college players who will soon move into pro ranks in the sixth annual Coaches' All-America Game.

It was a game played under the massive floodlights of the new Atlanta, Ga., stadium. In other words, the lighting of the football field set was controlled. It gave the fan at home a perfect picture of the vivid uniform and helmet colors worn by the opponents, plus the strikingly bright color outfits of cheer-leaders and fans alike.

There was also a startling development which showed upon the color set like a sore thumb but would have been lost on a black and white set.

Stadium officials had apparently dyed the grass even a greener green than normal to help the ABC-TV color cameras in the pickup. As a result, Negro players, after a few spills on the sod, picked up the dye on their skin, producing a color combination which resembled angry purple bruises.

There can be no better way to watch a football game than via the tint television route.

But while the color spectacle was oh-joy itself, a sour note was sounded by a man whom many claim to be the best sportscaster in North America.

not in this book, though. Chris Schenkel announces almost every sport televised today but he cannot be all things to all games. Despite his reputation gained when calling NFL games for CBS, he should definitely leave this sport to others.

Schenkel had an expert with him in the person of Bud Wilkinson, the great college coach from Oklahoma.

Wilkinson was allowed to play such a minor role that it was embarrassing. The great Schenkel, meanwhile, described so many other aspects of the stadium other than the play that it was irritating.

At one point, a bank of floodlights had blacked out. Wilkinson was describing a game plan of one of the teams while a camera roamed over the darkened lights.

The homebody had already been told the lights were out so the roaming camera was only out to confirm it. Of more vital interest was Wilkinson's talk. But was he allowed to complete his thoughts in his attempt to inform the viewer? Oh, no. Schenkel had to bust in to explain what the camera was showing as if the viewer couldn't see for himself.

Frankly, we could quite easily do without him. It's as simple as that.

HURT GIRL 'FAIRLY GOOD'

An eight-year-old Victoria girl is in "fairly good" condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital today with serious head injuries following a beach accident at Mayne Island on Saturday.

Catrina Cupples, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. F. B. Cupples, 2833 Dufferin, was playing on a beach of Southey Point when a log rolled and crushed her head against a rock.

Port Mellon New Target For Union

The Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada is seeking to represent 450 workers at the Canadian Forest Products mill at Port Mellon on Howe Sound.

The independent Canadian union has filed an application for certification with the Labor Relations Board for the mill, which if successful would be Local 6.

Already before the board are applications for mills at Hartmac and Elk Falls on Vancouver Island and at Prince George. This represents a potential 2,000 new members.

The 2,000-member union already has locals at Crofton, Castlegar, Prince Rupert, Woodfibre and Vancouver.

The new union broke away from the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers several years ago.

Since then, it has been involved in a bitter fight with the international in B.C. The four applications now before the Labor Relations Board are all for mills represented by the international union.

HUNTERS SLAY 1,000 A YEAR

Polar Bear Facing Extinction

By MICHAEL ANDERS
United Press International

Men and machines are threatening the great white polar bear's very existence.

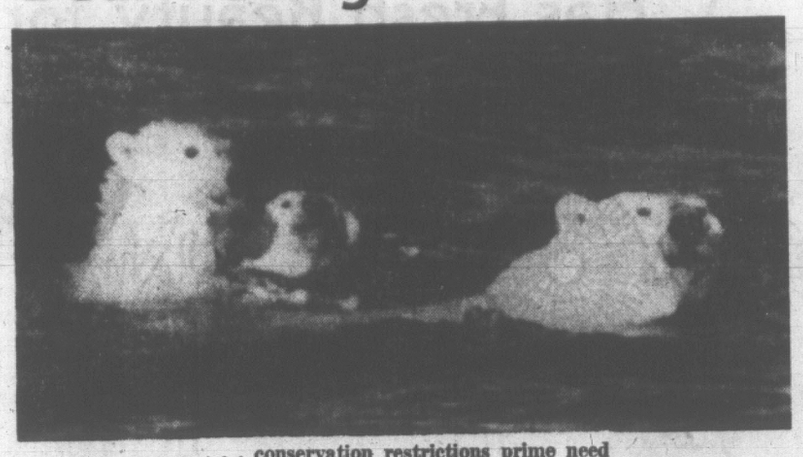
Some Russian authorities claim there are less than 8,000 left.

Man hunts him relentlessly, using traps, high-powered rifles, camouflaged lairs, two-way walkie-talkies, and even airplanes.

The gravity of the problem has been brought to public attention by steps recently taken by private organizations to salvage and rebuild the bear population.

The National Rifle Association of America, taking a cue from the Boone and Crockett Club of New York City, has eliminated its polar bear trophy from its awards programs.

The association said its move "is expected to have the needed impact on sportsmen everywhere to substantially reduce hunting of this magnificent animal."



. . . conservation restrictions prime need

Scientific Study

The Boone and Crockett Club received personal thanks from U.S. Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall for its decision to eliminate polar bears from its big-game competition.

The Conservation Foundation of Washington, D.C., another private concern, awarded a $4,500 grant to Dr. Richard A. Cooley of the University of Seattle, to "study the rapid decline" of the bear. Foundation president Russell E. Train said that "unless much more forceful international cooperation is undertaken soon, the bear may disappear from the surface of the earth."

The bear's habitat in the vast white Arctic wilderness — once accessible to only a few hardy sportsmen and Eskimos — is now within easy reach, even for novice hunters.

Airplanes, which greatly expand the search area, are being used for spotting and driving the bear to his death. In such an operation, two light planes take off from an Arctic village. When a bear is sighted, one plane lands. The other remains aloft as a precautionary measure. Hunters from the grounded plane then stalk the bear.

Hunted by Plane

An advertisement in a recent issue of a national sports magazine read in part:

"We're flying north to Alaska . . . setting our sights and yours for big game. The brown bear . . . the polar bear. You'll hunt them by ski-equipped airplane, then land to stalk them on foot across the ice. We (the sponsors) will do everything else for you except squeeze the trigger."

The U.S. federal government has no control over this method of hunting although Alaska has a regulation banning the use of aircraft in polar bear hunting in the state's territorial waters. Hunters, however, usually employ aircraft in international waters outside the three-mile limit.

Some hunters regard the use of aircraft as unsportsmanlike. Greenland prohibits motorized vehicles in bear hunting. The Boone and Crockett Club's action was based in part on the question of "fair chase" in the use of airplanes.

Last September, an international conference on polar bears was held in Fairbanks, Alaska, attended by representative from Canada, Denmark, Norway, Russia and the United States.

Out of it came grim statistics on the polar bear population. In the five participating nations alone, 1,300 bears were killed in 1965 — about their annual average kill.

Soviets Urge Care

The Soviet delegation claimed there are now less than 8,000 of the shaggy white beasts in existence and that simple arithmetic shows they could become extinct in eight years.

The conference agreed unanimously that each nation should take steps to conserve the bears; that all cubs, and females accompanied by cubs, be given protection throughout the year; that prompt exchange of research and management data should be started and that each nation should continue to study the problem.

The great majority of bears are taken either for food, entries in big game competition, for zoos or for their commercial value. The 1965 harvest of 292 bears in Alaska contributed $450,000 to that state's economy.

Russia is the only nation which prohibits the taking of polar bears except under special permit for scientific purposes.

The Soviet delegation proposed a closed hunting season of five years and a limit on the "take" thereafter. None of the delegates accepted the proposal. They did, however, recommended stringent conservation restrictions until concrete evidence indicates that a greater harvest could be sustained.

Caterpillars Vanish In Weed Control Try

OXFORD, England (Reuter) — An army of caterpillars set loose a year ago to clear a stretch of parkland of the poisonous weed ragwort has vanished, a baffled naturalist reports.

Fifteen thousand caterpillars were put in the riverside beauty spot known as Port Meadow last summer for a feast of ragwort, their favorite food.

It was hoped they would soon number 100,000 — enough to eat all the ragwort in this university city by spring.

But, Dr. Roger Clarke said Saturday night:

"I cannot find a single caterpillar left. The failure of the experiment is extraordinary."

He believes the wet winter killed them or some unkown condition in the meadow stopped them from reproducing.

Or perhaps they were eaten by hungry birds nesting in the university's famous spires.

HATS as mad as ever appear headed for North American women's shops this fall. Millinery Institute's New York show Sunday had from top left a black hat with beaded back drape, a Mercury headpiece of Guinea fathers, a gold chiffon hat with ostrich feather trim, and a metallic helmet with visor.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Sandra Krauss, age 8, of Allentown, Pa., for her question:

What is the coaxial cable?

Sometimes when we watch a live TV program, the actors are in the studio of a broadcasting station maybe a thousand miles away. A coaxial cable can carry the show to your TV set in less than a second. People in hundreds of other cities can watch the same show at the same time.

An old-fashioned cable is a long rope of wire to carry telephone and telegraph messages. A coaxial cable is newer and much better. Two cables work together to carry messages to and from place to place. An old-style cable can carry telephone conversations or TV programs, but it cannot do both at once. A two-way coaxial cable can carry TV and hundreds of telephone conversations at the same time.

The secret of the coaxial cable is in the way its wires are put together. It may be a strand of eight wires bound together in a shield of water-proof plastic. Each of the wires may be as thick as a pencil. One of these wires can carry 1,860 telephone conversations from coast to coast, and a cable of eight wires can carry 14,880 telephone conversations. It can also carry TV programs to hundreds of cities.

Waves Carry Signals

The wires in one coaxial cable carry TV and telephone signals in one direction, and the wires in the twin coaxial cable carry messages in the opposite direction. One cable can carry a TV show from Los Angles to New York. Its twin can carry a program from New York to Los Angeles. When you use the coaxial to telephone someone, your voice travels over one cable and your friend's voice comes back over the other one.

The work is done by these strands of wires in the cable. Each pencil-thin wire has a tough skin of plastic to protect the metal threads inside. Under the plastic skin there is a metal coat. This metal coat is a tube and as a rule this coat is braided from fine threads of copper. At the exact center of the tube is a metal wire. It may be a solid wire or a strand of fine wires. Plastic material is packed tightly around this wire to shield it and to keep it in the exact center of the tube of braided copper. Eight of these cable wires can carry two TV programs and also hundreds of telephone conversations from coast to coast.

TV shows travel on invisible waves of energy in almost no time at all. The magic waves carry signals and our TV sets change these signals back to sights and sounds. The coaxial cable is a wonder—but this is the age of wonders and something better already has been invented. Many of our radio and TV shows nowadays are sent by microwave radio relay. The invisible signals are relayed by tall towers placed 30 miles apart across the land.

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to Daniel Kneller, age 12, of Williamsport, Pa., for his question:

Who are the Bantu people?

The dark-eyed, dark-skinned Bantu people are natives of Africa. Some version of the Bantu language is by most of the original Africans living south of the Sahara desert. The African Pygmies, the Hottentots and the Bushmen have other languages and are thought to have different origins from the Bantus.

Experts who have studied the Bantu language and legends suspect that the Bantu people originated in northern Africa and long ago spread southward and scattered. Dialects of a basic Bantu language are spoken by Zulus and Swahilis, by Bechuanas and Kafirs, by the Congolese and the Damaras —these and others using dialects of the Bantu language are the Bantu people.

'Secret Letters Explain Arrests'

SEATTLE (AP)—The Seattle Post-Intelligencer says in a copyright story today it has learned of a packet of sealed letters that may, when opened, "shed light on the mysterious arrest in Hungary of a Seattle couple."

The story says the letters are addressed to Mr. and Mrs. Busso V. Lemme of Seattle, both of whom now are being detained in Hungary. Mr. Lemme is a Canadian.

The newspaper says the Lemmes are charged with attempting to help an unidentified person flee from behind the iron curtain.

An American legation spokesman in Budapest said Monday U.S. officials were contacting the Hungarian foreign ministry about the arrests but the U.S. still had no official information about the case.

A detailed official Hungarian announcement is expected by the end of the week, a U.S. official said in Budapest.

The Post-Intelligencer said the letters obviously were tthEteeee meant to have been read by the Lemmes before they left Seattle for a vacation trip to Germany, France and Spain.

PARENTS HAVE LETTERS

The letters now are in the hands of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Kemmis of Seattle, stepfather and mother of Mrs. Lemme.

"We feel the contents of these letters will reveal some information as to why Janet and Busso were arrested," Mrs. Kemmis said. She said the letters would be opened only if the U.S. state department requests it.

Lemme, 29, was born in what now is East Germany and became a Canadian citizen after fleeing East Germany in 1955. He migrated to the United States in 1963 and last year told the immigration service he intended to become a United States citizen.

He has a mother, a sister and younger brother, Albrecht, 25, reportedly living in East Germany.

CASE 'TOP PRIORITY'

The Post-Intelligencer quoted Sen. Warren Magnuson (D—Wash.) as saying the U.S. state department has given the Lemme case "top priority."

"Although we are well aware that the Lemmes are arrested and under detainment," Mr. Magnuson said, "we still have no knowledge of where they are being held, whether they are in jail, or how long they have been in custody."

In recent months, the Hungarian press has reported several arrests of West Germans for trying to smuggle East German relatives by way of Hungary. Sentences for the foreigners involved have ranged from seven to nine months.

China Alters University Timetable

TOKYO (AP) — The Chinese Communist party today approved a major overhaul of its university system.

Students in the liberal arts will have their academic studies shortened to two years and spend the rest of their time in practical training among farmers, laborers and soldiers, under the plan.

The Communist party newspaper Peking People's Daily gave its approval to a proposal it said was made by students of the Chinese People's University in Peking.

The proposal was in line with the current cultural purge in which several top party officials have been fired on charges of propagating ideas contrary to the teachings of Mao Tse-tung.

$100 MILLION

Heroin Smugglers Convicted

NEW YORK (AP)—Five men have been found guilty by a federal court jury of conspiring to smuggle $100,000,000 worth of heroin hidden in a freezer owned by a U.S. Army warrant officer who came home from France with his household effects.

The five include the brother and brother-in-law of Cosa Nostra figure John (Johnny Dio) Dioguardi, as well as a retired U.S. Army Major and two Frenchmen.

After their conviction Monday night at the end of a three-week trial, they were held without bail for sentencing. Each could get up to 20 years in prison and a $20,000 fine.

The 209 pounds of heroin seized in the case is believed to be the biggest haul of illicit narcotics ever made in the U.S.

The dope was found by federal agents in Columbus, Ga., last Dec. 18 in the freezer among the household effects of WO Herman Conder, 35.

Conder was among those indicted in the case. But at the start of the trial last month the charges against him were dismissed and he testified as the government's star witness.

Convicted are Frank (Frankie Dio) Dioguardi, 49, his brother-in-law, Anthony Sutera, 36, both of North Miami Beach, Fla.; retired Maj. Samuel Desist, 42, Orleans, France; Jacques Louis Douherets, alias Jean Claude Le Franc, 50, Rouen, France, and Jean Nebbia, 52, Paris restaurant manager.

Gaslight Mantle Inventor Dies at 94

NEW YORK (AP) — Samuel Cohn, 94, who accidentally discovered a new lighting source 70 years ago that became known as the gaslight mantle, died Monday after a brief illness.

At age 21, in 1893, Cohn was experimenting in his tenement apartment with the melting of thorium nitrate and accidentally spilled some of the chemical into the flame of his bunsen burner.

It flared up in a brilliant white light, some of it splashing on to his knit tie where it continued to glow brightly until extinuished.

The light was about 100 candle power brighter than anything existing, and Cohn perfected it, inventing the gas mantle—a small tube of textile impregnated with thorium nitrate.

The invention lit many a city until it was superseded by Thomas A. Edison's incadescent bulb.

Japanese Steelwork Draws Objections

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (UPI) — No direct contact will be permitted between Japanese foremen and New Zealand workmen on extensions on the Auckland Harbor bridge, the chairman of the bridge authority, Sir John Allum, said today.

The authority today approved a $10,396,400 bid from Ishikawajimaharima Heavy Industries Company of Tokyo for steel work expanding the bridge from four to eight lanes.

Allum said the Japanese plan to prefabricate huge masses of steel in Japan and then merely put them into position made theirs the lowest bid of the five received, including one from the British.

He said the total cost of the extensions, including roads, would cost about $19.6 million.

Referring to the Federation of Labor protests against importing Japanese labor for the bridge, Allum said "There will not be any direct contact between the Japanese engineers and New Zealand workmen. The Japanese will deal solely with men's employers, New Zealand subcontractors."

He said only 23 Japanese would be coming to New Zealand, mostly engineers and clerks. He added, "We know we cannot put Japanese foremen over New Zealand workmen."

The president of the Federation of Labor, Tom Skinner, told of Allum's statement, said, "I don't know about that. We still will fight entry of Japanese into New Zealand."

Youth Didn't Want to Stay A 'Nobody'

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters) —A 19-year-old youth accused of attempting to murder Arthur Calwell, Australian Labor opposition leader, allegedly told police: "I realized that unless I did something out of the ordinary I would remain a nobody all my life."

Factory worker Peter Raymond Kocan allegedly said this in a statement to a detective after the shooting of Calwell, 69, June 21 in the Sydney suburb of Mosman.

Calwell was shot in the face by a bullet from a .22-calibre rifle as he left a political meeting.

Kocan appeared in a Sydney court today charged with shooting at and wounding Calwell with intent to murder him. His trial date was set for Aug. 15.

Mrs. Gandhi in Moscow On Viet Peace Mission

Queen Pins Cross on Gurkha

LONDON (AP) — The Queen today pinned the Victoria Cross — Britain's highest award for gallantry — on the chest of L.-Cpl. Rambahadur Limbu, a Gurkha soldier.

Looking on was the corporal's five - year - old son, Bhakta, flown from Nepal to London to see his father receive the honor.

Limbu is only the third man to receive the Victoria Cross from the Queen in 20 years.

His act of heroism took place last November in Sarawak, fighting Indonesian infiltrators.

After he left the palace with his smiling son, Limbu said:

"This has been a great day and one I'll remember forever. I hope that one day, after he finishes his education, my son will join the regiment." His wife died earlier this year.

The citation, read in the grand ballroom of Buckingham Palace by the Lord Chamberlain, Lord Cobbold, said the corporal rescued two comrades while under heavy fire.

Pressing Soviet To Resume Meet

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Prime Minister Gandhi of India was given a big welcome when she arrived here today for talks in which she will urge the Soviet Union to do something about peace in Viet Nam.

Fresh from visits to Cairo and Belgrade, Mrs. Gandhi intends to make Viet Nam a key topic during her five-day visit.

The influence of non-aligned powers in international affairs faces a test in the five days of official talks arranged for Mrs. Gandhi. She has the backing of two other non-aligned countries —Yugoslavia and the United Arab Republic—for her call for reconvening the 1954 Geneva conference on Indo-China.

Russia, co - chairman with Britain of the 1954 conference which ended the war in Indochina, is reluctant to resume the Geneva meeting unless the United States withdraws its troops from South Viet Nam and stops bombing the North.

Her appeal has already been rejected by China, which labelled it an attempt to sap the fighting will of the Vietnamese.

The U.S. view is that her plan is unlikely to prove of any value because of North Viet Nam's expressed disinterest in negotiations.

WILSON MAY HELP

However, Prime Minister Wilson of Britain begins a visit to Moscow Saturday, Mrs. Gandhi's last day here, and some observers said he might be able to add weight to her case.

Mrs. Gandhi Monday night completed two days of talks with Yugoslav President Tito in the president's Adriatic island hideaway. Tito was understood to have expressed full appreciation of her peace plan.

However a joint communique issued today did not specifically mention Viet Nam.

The communique expressed India's and Yugoslavia's deep concern over persistent use of force, interference and armed intevention "in some parts of the world" and said non-alignment represented the sole alternative to war in the current nuclear age.

It said both leaders were satisfied the planned three-party summit meeting among themselves and U.A.R. President Gamal Abdel Nasser in New Delhi, the Indian capital, in October would enable them to continue their friendly exchange of opinions.

Mrs. Gandhi's trip mainly concerns relations between India and the Soviet Union and the implementation of the Indo-Pakistan agreement reached last year at Tashkent, Soviet Central Asia, under Russian chairmanship.

HALF HANOI EVACUATED SAY CZECHS

PRAGUE (AP) — Half the population of Hanoi, estimated at 844,000 in 1963, has been evacuated, the Czechoslovak news agency Ceteka reported Monday from the North Vietnamese capital. New air-raid shelters are being built on the sidewalks, old ones have recenty been reinforced with concrete, and a flood watch is being held along Hanoi waterways in case "of bombing of dams situated above Hanoi," Ceteka reported.

BY CHINA 'Munich Plot' Alleged

PEKING (Reuters)—The official New China news agency has lumped Canada with Britain, the Soviet Union, India and the U.S. in what it describes as a "new Munich plot" to bring about peace negotiations in Viet Nam.

"Working hand in glove with one another for the realization of the U.S. plot are the imperialists, the Soviet revisionist leaders and the Indian reactionaries, the agency said Monday.

It went on to list proposals for peace in Viet Nam emanating from Ottawa, Washington, New Delhi, Moscow and London.

It gave a summary of External Affairs Minister Paul Martin's announcement of discussions on peace in Viet Nam and Soviet cabinet minister Dmitri Polyansky's July 3 interview in Canada in which he urged Ottawa to take active steps to halt the Viet Nam war.

"All this shows that a new Munich plot in close co-ordination with the criminal war blackmail of the (U.S.) Johnson administration is in the making," the agency said.

It said that although the U.S. wants peace on the basis of the 1954 Geneva agreement on Viet Nam, "the Geneva agreements have long been torn to shreds by the war actions of the Johnson administration and no longer exist."

TWO MORE SEATS Liberals Win Power in P.E.I.

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP)—The voters of rural Kings 1st, voting six weeks later than Prince Edward Islanders in 15 other ridings, ended seven years of Progressive Conservative administration Monday night and swept Liberal Alex B. Campbell, 32, into power as Canada's youngest premier.

The deferred balloting in the two - member constituency, brought about by the death of a Liberal candidate May 26, snapped a two-party stalemate and toppled the government of Premier Walter R. Shaw, 78, the nation's oldest provincial chief.

The standings—	1966	1962
Liberals	17	11
Conservatives	15	19
Total	32	30

"My reaction is one of disappointment," Mr. Shaw said after Liberals Daniel J. MacDonald and Bruce L. Stewart swept to victory by large majorities.

Mr. Shaw, who led his party to power in 1959 at an age when most people contemplate the ease of retirement, broke even with his young rival in the May 30 election.

The two parties, the only ones contesting the election, wound up in a 15-seat deadlock and consequently directed the political spotlight on the 2,411 eligible voters in Kings 1st.

More than 2,200 enfranchised residents of the fishing and farming constituency responded by giving Mr. MacDonald, Liberal councillor candidate, a 207-vote majority over Conservative Peter MacAulay and Mr. Stewart, a 158-vote margin over Conservative Keith MacKenzie in the race for the assemblyman's seat.

Mr. MacKenzie was the second public works and highways minister to suffer defeat within six weeks. He was appointed to the cabinet shortly after the defeat of J. Philip Matheson in Queens 2nd in the May 30 election.

QUESTIONS RAISED

The Liberal victory raised immediate questions.

When would Mr. Campbell announce his cabinet? "Within two or three weeks," was the reply.

When would Mr. Shaw and Mr. Campbell meet to discuss takeover plans? "Well, I think

NEW VEHICLE TESTED 'Flies Like a Brick' But Spacemen Pleased

By ROBERT C. COOKE

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A wingless metal capsule with a man inside dropped from beneath a bomber's wing today, manoeuvred as it plunged earthward, then flattened out and glided to a landing on a dry lake at California's Edwards Air Force Base.

U.S. Space Agency Pilot Milton O. Thompson lifted his plastic canopy and stepped out grinning and happy after the revolutionary future space ferry's first flight.

The 2½-ton craft looks like a bullet cut in half lengthwise, and to observers on the ground seemed to fly at first like a brick.

After dropping from 45,000 feet it fell rapidly. Still, using controls and the slight aerodynamic lift provided by its shape, Thompson was able to manoeuvre the weird M-2F2 through two 90-degree turns at 450 miles an hour. Then, nearing the ground, he pulled the nose up and skimmed to a landing at nearly 200 miles an hour.

The 22- by 10-foot craft, called a lifting body, is one of several shapes under study to ferry men and equipment down from large space satellites. Its rounded bottom provides just enough lift to keep it from falling like a stone. Small rudders at the rear enable the pilot to steer to a landing site—an advantage over the bullet - like trajectory of re-entering Mercury and Gemini space craft.

On today's flight, the M-2F2 was dropped within gliding distance of the air force base. Later it will be equipped with a rocket engine to drive it to 80,000 feet and 1,200 miles an hour to simulate re-entry from space.

Thompson previously had flown a lightweight plywood version, descending from a height of 12,000 feet after being pulled aloft by a plane.

Wings have been eliminated from shapes such as the M-2F2 because they would be torn off diving into the atmosphere at 18,000 mile - an - hour orbital speeds.

An upside-down version, the HL-10—which glides on the flat, instead of the rounded side, of the half-cone design—is scheduled for testing here later this year.

The B-52 plane which carried Thompson aloft today is the same type that takes the X-15 rocket plane up for launching on record-breaking flights. Thompson has flown the X-15 to 3,700 miles an hour and 214,000 feet.

Germ War Test Isle Infected for Century

GLASGOW (Reuters)—A tiny, uninhabited island, used by Britain for germ - war experiments in the Second World War, remains dangerous for human beings, possibly until the year 2066, government scientists reported.

Four scientists in protective clothing Monday revisited the "forbidden island" of Gruinard off the remote northwest coast of Scotland.

The island, ringed with "keep off" notices, has been contaminated for 25 years after scientists experimented there with anthrax, the disease that kills all livestock and causes severe fever in humans.

Dr. C. E. Gordon Smith, director of the defence ministry's microbiological research establishment at Porton, south England, said after Monday's annual check on Gruinard: "The island may remain infected for 100 years."

He said there is no danger of the contamination spreading to the Scottish mainland.

New TV Network Set for U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — Plans for a new nationwide U.S. television network were announced Monday by millionaire industrialist Daniel H. Overmyer.

Overmyer said he expects to provide the estimated $6,000,000 to $10,000,000 needed to launch the network and that he has a verbal commitment from 35 stations.

INSURANCE COMPANIES BILKED Cheaters Crashed Cars for Profit

NEW YORK (UPI) — Too much of a good thing tripped up a ring that engineered auto accidents to fleece insurance companies out of at least $15,000 in claims, the Bronx district attorney's office said today.

Dist. Atty. Isidor Dollinger said at least eight insurance companies and 17 out-of-state trucking concerns were bilked by the group of seven men and a woman.

According to Dollinger, the group purposely set up auto accidents with their old model cars on a stretch of expressway by maneuvering their cars in front of out-of-state trucks, slowing them down to 15 miles per hour, and suddenly jamming on the brakes.

Usually, Dollinger said, the truck was too close to avoid a collision. Although the cars suffered little damage, the occupants were "shaken up" and would seek hospital treatment.

When the insurance investigator arrived, the "victim" would sign releases prohibiting court suits and accept cash settlements that ranged from $62.50 to $2,000, the district attorney said.

Dollinger explained out-of-state trucks were chosen because their insurers were more apt to offer quick cash settlements rather than become enmeshed in out-of-state lawsuits.

He said the ring was broken when insurance companies complained that an exorbitant number of accidents occured in a repetitive pattern on the same stretch of highway. At least 17 accidents were confirmed.

All eight alleged ring members were charged with grand larceny. One male member was additionally charged with impairing the morals of a minor by enticing a 5-year-old boy to take an "accident" ride and become a "victim."

Two were under arrest today and the other six, including the woman, were being sought, Dollinger said.

EVEN SKUNKS feel the heat. Mrs. Charles E. Lord braved a friend's pool at West Hartford, Conn., to rescue two baby "smellers" who found themselves out of their element. She donned plastic tablecloth and mitten to remove them. Even then she got a mild whiff of the woodland kittens. (AP Wirephoto)

Victoria Daily Times

VICTORIA, B.C., TUESDAY, JULY 12, 1966—PAGE 17

Arthur Mayse

Out along Metchosin Road just about as far as you can go stands a large, weather-tested community hall. It has a country air; it should have horses and buggies outside and perhaps a surrey with a fringe on top.

Instead, you will find trucks and cars, and if the Saturday night happens to be one on which the Wagon Wheel Round-Up is in session, parking space will be hard to find.

That's how it was last Saturday. The Round-Up was set to begin lifting the community hall roof at 8 o'clock and the deep-country folk of Metchosin and neighboring points including Victoria began to arrive well ahead of the appointed time.

What they came for and what they would get was the grass-roots music of North America. Western music, country music, it makes up in solid beat and hearty volume what it may lack in sophistication. Its humor is as broad as its bathos.

By all the rules it should have been long ago drowned out, chased off into a few lost corners of the continent.

But country music is sturdy stuff and today it probably keeps more devotees strumming, humming, singing and listening than pure folk and rock-and-roll together.

★

On the inside, Metchosin community hall is lined from floor to rooftree with knotty cedar.

Up front is an elevated stage of generous size, with 'Metchosin' in large white letters above. A red curtain is drawn across the stage and from behind it emerge promising testings and tunings . . . a lightfoot patter of chords from a fast banjo, a volley of grunts cuffed from the midriff of a bass viol and a high flight from an electric guitar.

Those who turn out for Metchosin's home-grown Wagon Wheel Round-Up range in age from grandparents who can remember when the hall was built to boys of the district's champion Little League Redwings, stuffing themselves with potato chips on two benches close under the stage.

Everybody seems to know everyone else. There is a rising hum of conversation, which continues until the twin amplifiers come to life.

The curtain parts, the music cuts loose and the applause is terrific.

The male Wagon Wheelers, like all good purveyors of Western music, are dazzlingly costumed. Their red vests or black, pearl-buttoned shirts are decked with enough silver to out-glitter a Mexican saddle. By contrast, the show's three women members are almost prim in navy shirts, white blouses and green ties. They, by the way, are the wife and two daughters of producer Keith Potts, who launched the Round-up about 11 years ago.

Except for a ten-minute intermission, the singing and the music that paces it never let up.

Some of the songs ('Tears on My Pillow', 'A Wound Time Can't Erase',) are real heart-busters; in fact Western music leans heavy on love unrequited or blasted by evil circumstances.

★

New songs in the old tradition are being written all the time. Mr. Potts, who looks forward to the day when he can become a fully professional composer and singer, contributed three to the last-Saturday show. He sang two of these with his family and one solo. His songs were well-received, especially a number called 'Echo in the Valley'.

Eventually, Mr. Potts may realize this ambition and I expect that Ken Stolz, a young man with a guitar and a better-than-average voice, will move on to larger fields.

Meanwhile, along with the other 14 members of the Round-Up bunch, they are very warmly regarded in their district.

It seems to me remarkable, It seems to me remarkable that so sound and briskly bright a show should originate in one not very heavily populated area.

You may have heard the Wagon Wheel Round-Up in Centennial Square last week.

If not—and if you like country music—Keith Potts and his Westerners will be putting on another show in Metchosin community hall next month.

Be It Ever So Crumble, It Was Home

By BOB DONAHUE

It is a dirty red brick on the outside and dirty grey brick and blackened walls on the inside of the building in the 1800 block Government Street.

The building, built as a hotel in 1909, was condemned by city council June 23.

One block from city hall you can step through a street-level doorway to the stairs leading to second and third-storey apartments and be in another world.

DARK AT TOP

From the bottom it looks a long way up and it's dark at the top of the stairs.

Halfway up the worn, narrow staircase, in the dark and the dirt of the building at 1810 Government, is the front door of the place that Wong Gee and his six children call home.

Knock on the door.

Joseph Wong, age 15, will open it. He speaks English and is the eldest son. Younger, laughing faces gather around the doorway.

"Yes, we know we have to move. But we can't. I don't know where we are going to go. We're going to ask for help," says Joseph whose face is not smiling.

He says the family has been living there for two years and the rent is $35 a month. His father "works in a kitchen."

RED BRICK

There are other long, dark stairways in the same red brick building on Government Street. And there are other doorways hidden in the shadows and in the dust on the walls.

There is some confusion as to whether anyone else is living behind these doors other than Wong Gee and his six children.

The owners and agents for the building, B.C. Land Insurance Agency, are not sure of th enumber of tenants.

"We lost about a dozen tenants because of bad publicity," said manager W. O. Cameron.

TOO BUSY

"I don't know how many people are living there right now — you don't know about these Chinese.

"I'm too busy to talk about it."

The bad publicity Mr. Cameron referred to was a city council health committee recommendation in which the building was said to be "unfit for habitation."

But the company was never informed officially because of a departmental scramble at city hall.

The matter was being resolved today.

The recommendation did not affect the business premises on the ground floor.

On June 23 a city council meeting approved the committee's recommendation.

But someone else had found all these same conditions in the building in 1961.

At the top of one of these dark, musty stairwells a religious pamphlet was jammed into a doorway marked 203, the former residence of one named Lok Wah.

He last paid his rent in September, 1961, a receipt pinned to the wall indicated.

Sometime after Lok Wah left the third floor of the building at 1800 Government someone jammed a pamphlet into the door which asked: "Live forever in happiness? Yes, God has made this possible for you."

For $33 a month Lok Wah rented the apartment and divided it into 10 cubicles. For 10 persons, or perhaps 10 families.

Urban Renewal Plan Crosses Major Hurdle

The Rose-Blanshard urban renewal scheme crossed its first major hurdle this morning when it won tacit agreement for the project from J. Everett Brown, housing commissioner for B.C.

ON MONDAY

Following a 1½-hour meeting with Mayor A. W. Toone, and officials of the Canadian Mortgage und Housing Corporation, Mr. Brown said he would take his recommendation to Premier Bennett next Monday.

He said he viewed the project and the premier's possible response "optimistically."

The $2 million project must receive provincial blessings before CMHC officially enters the three-way agreement.

OPTIMISTIC

Mayor Toone said this morning's talk went "extremely well" and added that he is optimistic that "within a month we should be able to get down to things."

If the premier gives the green light Monday it will mean the federal government will pay $793,000 towards the total cost while the province and the city pay $396,000 each.

$350,000 ALLOCATED

The city already has $350,000 allocated towards the project in the capital budget.

The scheme, second in Victoria's major urban renewal program (Bastion Square was the first) will see a complete modernization of the Rose-Blanshard area, a new North Ward School with adequate playing fields and the construction of a low-rental housing estate.

"Things are going ahead well now," Mayor Toone said. "I hope that very soon we shall be able to make real progress."

Gas Blows Out Killing Seaman

Fire Extinguisher Death Is Puzzle

RCMP today are investigating the puzzling death of a naval rating aboard a flying boat at Pat Bay Airport on Monday.

The man was instantly killed when pressure blew in a fire extinguisher he was holding close to his body.

Police said the dead man and a friend had no authority to be aboard the giant Martin Mars plane when the accident occurred.

Dead is Leading Seaman Roy John Masales, 24, of 10 Greenridge Trailer Court, Halifax. He was married and the father of one child.

●

The extinguisher was an old model that carried about 2,000 pounds pressure to release 15 pounds of carbon dioxide.

Police were called by LS Earle McDonald, who had accompanied Masales aboard the aircraft, which was bought for conversion to a water-bomber. Masales was found lying dead on the floor of the cockpit.

A navy spokesman said both sailors were attached to the naval air squadron that is based at Sheerwater, near Halifax. The squadron was moved temporarily to the Pacific Coast and has been taking part here in naval exercises.

While here, the squadron has been based at Pat Bay Airport.

Police said both men were off duty at the time of the accident at 2:30 p.m. Monday. They had left the RCN base and wandered on to DOT property.

Police said they apparently climbed aboard the Martin Mars, one of four flying boats bought for forest fire fighting by Forest Industries Flying Tankers Ltd., a subsidiary of MacMillan-Bloedel and Powell River.

●

It was while they were looking over the water-bomber that the accident occurred.

Police said the extinguisher did not explode. It was in one piece after the accident.

A spokesman for Duff-MacKay Equipment Ltd., a company which deals in fire-fighting equipment, said today if the cylinder suddenly released its pressure "it would take off like a missile and shoot all over the place."

(He said most extinguishers are equipped with a safety valve which will "blow" under extreme pressure.)

An autopsy to determine the exact cause of death was held this morning. Coroner D. G. Ashby later today was to announce when an inquest will be held.

RCMP said they have had to chase people away from the aircraft in the past. It was not locked. The plane was damaged in 1961 when blown over in a windstorm.

BASTION OPENING PUT BACK

The official opening of Bastion Square has been delayed until Monday, July 25.

Originally scheduled for Friday the 10-day delay has been ordered to enable Labor Minister Jack Nicholson to participate.

The federal government contributed roughly half the costs of the project, Victoria's first full-scale venture into urban renewal.

Mayor A. W. Toone said Monday the ceremonies will start at 2:30 p.m.

Lei Queen To Spread Goodwill

Hawaii's Narcissus Queen will receive a royal welcome on her goodwill visit to Victoria on Wednesday.

Queen Lynanne Moo arrives at 1:20 p.m. at Pat Bay airport with a tour party of 40, including her two princesses, Jacquelyn Chun and Carolyn Hong.

They will be officially greeted by Mayor A. W. Toone and by Jack Lee, president of the Chinese Consolidated Benevolent Association, at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in Centennial Square.

Princess Jacquelyn Chun, who was also named Miss Chinatown, U.S.A., will perform an Oriental dance, and other members of the tour party will present a program of music and dancing.

Victoria Chinatown Lions Drum and Bell Corps and majorettes will also perform.

A reception for guests and dignitaries at the Chinese Consolidated Benevolent Association Hall will follow.

Once-Lowly B.C. Cougars May Win Big-Game Status

Hunters may have to pay big game trophy fees in future to bag cougars and wolves, Recreation and Conservation Minister Kenneth Kiernan indicated today.

A change in philosphy that is sweeping the continent is behind the elevation of the once-lowly animals to the status of prized big game which has to be sought with the rules of "fair chase" and protected from indiscriminate slaughter.

"There are no trophy fees established for them in B.C. at the moment but it is not beyond the realm of possibility that there will be in the future," he said.

Mr. Kiernan was commenting on recent action by the Boone and Crockett Club, recognized by hunters as the arbiter of North American big game records, to upgrade the status of the much-maligned cougars from predators to big game animals.

As of last Friday, the club's records committee will not recognize any cougars entered in its big game competitions roll that are shot in a province or state which offers a bounty on the cats.

Mr. Kiernan said B.C. hunters don't have to worry about the ruling because the province withdrew its cougar bounty several years ago and the new Wildlife Act passed by this year's legislature gives cougars, wolves and coyotes big game animal status.

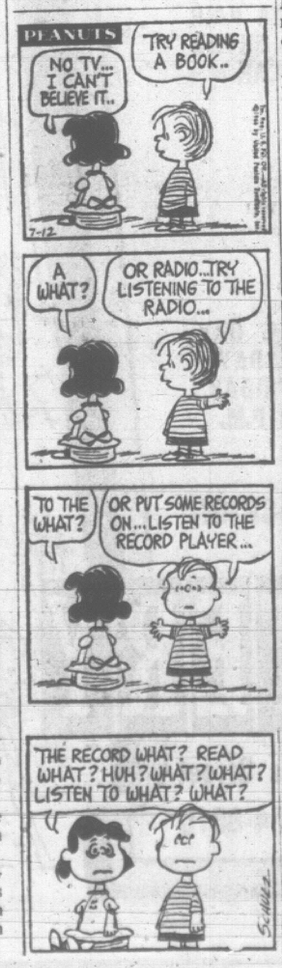
"That means they cannot be shot on sight but have to be taken in a hunt as are other game animals," he said.

The new measure resulted not so much from any decline in number of the animals but a shift in conservation philosophy.

NOT OUTLAWS

"We felt that they shouldn't be characterized as outlaws and simply exterminated just because they exist because in most cases they are off by themselves and inconveniencing no one."

He said in cases where a cougar is preying on livestock or disturbing a community, the department still can authorize its killing under the Predator Control Act but this seldom is required.



Waterfront Apartment Going Up

Construction of a controversial Oak Bay waterfront apartment by a Victoria development firm is scheduled to start by the end of this month.

Diversified Management and Development Co. president David Hummel said an announcement is expected in two or three weeks.

The tiered building on Beach Drive was planned to extend toward the water's edge adjoining Oak Bay Beach Hotel, on former Merston estate property.

Plans aroused a storm of protest by area residents objecting to concentrated apartment construction between the scenic drive and seafront.

PARK USE

The controversy dragged on three years, some persons calling for the municipality to buy the land for park use.

Re-zoning by the municipal council was challenged, reversed and upheld when the matter went to court hearings.

Meanwhile, Mr. Hummel said the firm is about to start a $1 million 74-suite Royal Arms apartment on Yates at Fewood.

Three storeys and a ground floor will be of frame-stucco construction and include an enclosed sunroom and garden on its roof.

Rents for studio, one-bedroom and two-bedroom suites will range between $70 and $145 a month, Mr. Hummel said.

Inquest Set Wednesday

An inquest into the death of traffic victim Mrs. Sarah Forryan, 2110 Windsor, will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Thompson and Irving Funeral Home, 1621 Quadra.

Mrs. Forryan, 83, was killed Saturday when the car in which she was a passenger collided with another auto on the Pat Bay Highway at Sayward Road.

Ask The Times

Q. Where could I get a list all the students in Edmonton going into Grade 11 next school year? M.M.

A. Try the Edmonton School Board.

Q. How, in gross economic terms, did the depression affect B.C.'s logging industry? A.F.

A. According to Geography of the Forest Industry of Coastal British Columbia by W. G. Hardwick the annual timber scale fell one billion feet between 1929 and 1932. The industry was cutting 2.5 billion feet in 1925.

Fire Destroys Chesterfield

A chesterfield valued at $300 was destroyed Monday by fire at the home of John Dunbar, 2849 Heath.

Firemen said the blaze also caused minor damage to the floor in the living room. A department spokesman said cause of the fire is not known.

Vandals Knock Plaster Down, Sentenced to Clean It Up

Three youngsters who damaged a house under construction at Mars and Finlayson will have to clean up the mess they left.

Police officers who investigated the vandalism after it was reported Monday said plaster had been knocked from the walls, pipes broken off and the structure left in a "general mess."

After consulting the parents of the 14-year-old, 10-year-old and nine-year-old responsible, it was agreed the three boys would be made to clean up the damage.

In another case of vandalism, police discovered two boys, aged 9 and 10, caused $168 damage to a bus and its contents over the weekend.

The pair entered a bus parked at the rear of Burns and Dutton Construction (1962) Ltd, 1321 Gladstone, let the vehicle back down a slope when it hit a pole, causing $90 damage.

The boys then threw the contents of a first aid kit about the company yard, spilled five gallons of detergent and emptied a fire extinguisher.

54% OF AMERICANS BACK VIET BOMBINGS

WASHINGTON (CP)—The latest public opinion poll here says President Johnson's decision to bomb major petroleum dumps in North Viet Nam has "sharply reversed the trend of public dissatisfaction with his handling of the war . . ."

The poll by Louis Harris in the Washington Post says 54 per cent of the American public now supports the president on Viet Nam and this contrasts to a 17-month-low of 42 per cent recorded on the eve of the attacks begun June 29 against storage facilities on the outskirts of Hanoi and Haiphong.

Says the poll: "The dominant argument advanced by Americans who go along with the bombings is the hope that it will hasten an end to the war."

VIET WAR DEBATE

Opinions Vary In Commons

OTTAWA (CP)—The United States' position on Viet Nam, and to a lesser degree Canada's, drew a mixture of support and criticism in the Commons Monday.

Social Credit Leader Thompson strongly supported both governments and criticized those who found fault with U.S. military intervention and Canada's peace-making efforts in the Asian conflict.

It was the second day of debate on the Viet Nam war that began Friday during debate on interim supply of $1,662,000,000 needed to carry the government through to Oct. 31.

It was not the Americans who were escalating the war in Viet Nam, said Mr. Thompson, but the Communists by their "constant increase in the number of enemy troops" they were pouring into the fighting.

'TOO UNRELATED'

On the recent U.S. bombing of targets near Hanoi and Haiphong he said "oil depots are legitimate enemy targets."

The argument that cessation of U.S. bombings would lead to negotiations was "too unrelated to reality to deserve discussion."

The Communists could not win the war militarily. Their only hope was that "weariness" by the U.S. from pressure of opinion would finally achieve that end.

Terry Nugent (PC—Edmonton - Strathcona) said Mr. Thompson seemed "perfectly happy with atrocities" once one side had committed some. Mr. Thompson had mentioned Communist atrocities during the 1956 Hungarian uprising.

Mr. Nugent wanted to hear MPs "stand up and explain by what right the United States has to be there." The answer seemed to be a U.S. feeling that "might is right."

There was nothing in Canada's present attitude to the war that would convince small nations that this country cared about them.

Canada was supporting the "very action that we hate and fear Communism for."

He asked what was the legality of the U.S. position in Viet Nam. The U.S. had "abandoned any pretence of using the United Nations" to settle the conflict.

The policy seemed to be to do "everything to convice everyone that democracy is hypocrisy." The U.S. was supporting a puppet government in South Viet Nam and this policy prevented the right of self determination for the South Vietnamese.

ESCALATION MUST STOP

Andrew Brewin (NDP—Toronto Greenwood) said it is time for Canada to say clearly and officially that escalation of the war must stop.

Colin Cameron (NDP — Nanaimo - Cowichan - The Islands) asked how many times "Canada must be kicked in the face" before realizing the U.S. was ignoring its role as negotiator.

He quoted an external affairs official recently returned from Viet Nam as estimating that 10 per cent of the people in South Viet Nam favored the Saigon government; another 10 per cent favored the Viet Cong. The remaining 80 per cent wanted the Americans to leave.

Canadian Uranium Interests Germans

OTTAWA (CP)—A nine-man delegation from West Germany will spend the next two days here investigating the possibility of uranium purchases from Canada.

But no immediate sales are likely, W. M. Gilchrist, president of the Crown-owned Eldorado Mining and Refining Ltd., said in an interview.

While in Canada, the Germans will meet Trade Minister Winters, officials of uranium firms and others connected with the mining industry.

"The visit is nothing new," Mr. Gilchrist said. There have been similar visits in the past and they will probably become more frequent in line with new developments in the nuclear power industry.

Persons in the nuclear industry have been predicting an increase in uranium demand for several years, he said, although the present pace is "maybe six months ahead of schedule."

The German team will discuss all phases of the uranium industry, including ore reserves, export regulations and requirements, type of materials available and the possibility of foreign - owned firms entering the uranium exploration field.

The United States and European countries will need uranium for future power sources, Mr. Gilchrist added, and will want all available information on supplies to work out long-term contracts.

While immediate needs are not great, he said, new nuclear reactors now are being planned. Reactors take about four or five years to build, but fuel supplies must be arranged two years before completion to allow time for mining and refining.

Hit-and-Run Youth Jailed For 30 Days

A youth who fled from police after an accident Sunday was jailed for 30 days when he appeared in central court today.

Besides the term for failing to remain at the scene of an accident, Garry Streeton, 20, of 415 Island Highway was sentenced to an additional seven days for driving without a licence.

The police chased Sunday began after the accused rammed the rear of a truck stopped for a red light. He and a companion bolted through the parking lot of the Empress Hotel with officers in pursuit. At one point a warning shot was fired by police but the pair kept running, police said.

Streeton was caught on Toronto Street and the other boy was found hiding in bushes at Beacon Hill Park.

Before being sentenced today, court was told the accused's criminal record included trespassing by night, obstructing police, theft and attempted theft convictions.

Dockers Renew Bargaining

Direct talks between longshoremen and employers resumed in Vancouver today.

New negotiations had been expected following the release from jail last Friday of 10 union leaders and a decision by federal Labor Minister Jack Nicholson not to appoint a conciliation board.

The three-year agreement between the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union and employers expired at the end of this month.

Heading the four-man union negotiating committee is Roy Smith, B.C. area president of the union, who was among the 10 who went to jail rather than pay fines for refusing to obey an injunction.

The union, seeking an extra 50 cents an hour in a one-year contract, represents 2,800 workers in B.C. Current base rate is $3.38 an hour.

Ladies' Wear Scattered Not Stolen

Police suspect a sex deviate might be responsible for vandalism to stores at the Mayfair shopping plaza.

In the latest break-in, reported to police Monday, someone entered the Sweet 16 ladies' wear store at 3185 Douglas over the weekend and scattered clothing, mainly undergarments, about the premises.

Clothes racks were knocked over but nothing appears to be missing, a spokesman said.

NO QUICK END FOR VIET WAR

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. Defence Secretary McNamara said Monday he saw no sign of a "lack of will" on the part of North Viet Nam to continue the war in South Viet Nam.

He told a news conference he saw nothing which would lead him to hope for an early termination of the war.

While repeating that he was "cautiously optimistic," McNamara said he did not look for a short war. Although "we are gaining militarily," he said, he saw no sign that the Communists were ready to move to the negotiation table.

Asked what the Southeast Asia military commitments are costing the United States, McNamara repeated a figure he had previously given congress — about one billion dollars a month.

"No doubt this will continue to increase" as time goes on, he added.

Boy Tumbles On to Rocks

Terry Skibo, 11, of 2758 Belmont is in good condition at St. Joseph's Hospital today after he tumbled from his bike Monday and fell to the rocks below the breakwater at Ogden Point.

The youngster and his twin brother Gary were on a fishing trip at the time of the mishap.

The boys' father, William, said Terry may have damaged some teeth in the accident but otherwise is recovering well.

we could get together the first of next week, don't you Alex? asked the ousted premier.

"Yes, I think that would be fine," replied the premier-elect.

Mr. Campbell, whose father Thane L. Campbell was Liberal premier from 1936 to 1943 and now is chief justice of the P.E.I. Supreme Court, was excited and at the same time deadly serious about his new post.

"On the one hand I am overjoyed with the results in First Kings today," he said. "On the other hand, forming a government means a tremendous responsibility."

In a television interview, the Liberal leader said it is time to get down to business of government after "a long and arduous campaign" and admonished Islanders "not to continue the election for the next four or five years."

HINTS AT RETIREMENT

Mr. Shaw said he would be in evidence in the next session of the legislature as opposition leader and "would keep an eye on the new premier." However, he hinted at eventual retirement.

"I'd like to putter around my yard. I'd like to get home among my flowers, but take an active interest in public life."

Premier Louis J. Robichaud of New Brunswick had been the youngest premier in Canadian history, taking office July 12, 1960, a little more than four months before his 35th birthday on Oct. 21.

Premier Ernest Manning of Alberta took office June 1, 1943, about 3 months before his 35th birthday.

Chinese Mass Rallies Protest Bombing Raids

By VERGIL BERGER

PEKING (Reuters) — Chinese newspapers today devoted big front page headlines to mass demonstrations Monday in five major Chinese cities against the U.S. bombing of Hanoi and Haiphong in North Viet Nam.

The largest of these was in the central Chinese industrial centre of Wuhan where 100,000 persons paraded. It was the largest rally on Viet Nam reported in China since Peking's massive demonstrations marking the first United States air raids in February, 1965.

In Canton, Mayor Tseng Sheng told demonstrators the people of Kwangtung province were "ready at any time to go into action in support of the Vietnamese people's struggle. . . ."

The People's Daily reported demonstrations under a headline across its front page declaring "Chinese people armed with Mao Tse Tung's thought will give unreserved support to Vietnamese peoples anti - United States struggle despite any danger."

But observers noted that none of the speeches at various rallies took the question of China's response to the bombing any further than the tough weekend speeches here of Premier Chou En-lai and Foreign Minister Chen Yi.

'FREE OF RESTRICTIONS'

The Chinese leaders said China now is freed from all restrictions and would take whatever action it considers necessary "in accordance with the interests and demands of the Vietnamese people."

Although Chen Yi declared "the Chinese people will under no circumstances tolerate the continued evildoing of United States imperialism" in Viet Nam, the Chinese have avoided committing themselves in advance to any specific countermoves.

Nor have they disclosed any details of Chinese aid to Vietnamese Communists.

At the same time as the Chinese press and radio was giving top publicity to the speeches of Chou En-lai and Chen Yi The People's Daily published an article repeating the Chinese Communists frequently-stated view that self-reliance is the key to success in any revolutionary people's war including that being waged in South Viet Nam and that outside aid is "only auxiliary."

(The North Vietnamese news agency, monitored in Hong Kong, today reported the reaffirmation of Chinese support but made no mention of The People's Daily self-reliance call.)

Communists Blamed

ATHENS (Reuters) — The Greek government Monday blamed Communists for organizing bloody clashes in Salonika Sunday between police and farmers, in which more than 100 persons were injured. Police knew in advance of Communist plans to exploit the peaceful demonstrations by farmers seeking an increase in government wheat prices.

SOVIET'S POLYANSKY IMPRESSED DURING VISIT

Relationships 'Improving All Along Line'

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Relationships between the U.S.S.R. and Canada are "improving all along the line," Soviet first deputy chairman of the coumcil of ministers Dmitri Polyansky said here Monday. He spoke at a government luncheon tenderd by Trade Minister Robert Winters.

Mr. Winters disclosed that his department was receiving more and more enquiries from Canadian businessmen as to how they should go about buying Russian goods and materials. He said that all of the guests at the government luncheon were anxious to strengthen Canada's relations with the Soviet Union.

There was a cross section of the business leaders of Canada at the luncheon, in addition to senior members of the Canadian civil service and representatives of the Russian embassy. It was a "goodby" luncheon for Soviet visitor who returns to Russia today convinced that there is no anti-Soviet campaign underway in this country. He came, he saw, heard and was convinced.

Mr. Polyansky said he had been impressed by what he had seen and heard during his cross-Canada tour. He had found that the majority of Canadians he talked to favored the development of trade with Russia. He said that he and Mr. Winters — who recently visited Russia — were just laying the groundwork with their speeches.

Smiling Mr. Polyansky said he would like to suggest to Canadians in respect to trade with Russia, in the words of the Duke of Edinburgh, "It is time to pull the fingers out." He spoke through an interpreter. He quipped, told jokes, poked fun at his host and at politicians in general and charmed the luncheon guests. George Hees, former trade minister, told him jokingly that if he ran for a constituency in Canada he should have no trouble winning it.

Mr. Polyansky, through Mr. Winters, said he wished to thank Canadians for their hospitality.

He singled out the members of the press for attention. He said some, he had found, wrote light pieces about how members of the Russian delegation drank soft drinks and other such inconsequential items, whereas other newspapermen in Canada wrote about the serious implications of the tour of the Russian parliamentarians. He preferred the latter type of reporting. But he laughed appreciatively when one newsman said that during such hot humid weather some readers would prefer "light" reading.

Mr. Winters said that during his visit to Russia he had found among the Russian people a genuine desire for friendship and for peace in the world.

"They mean this sincerely. They want friendship and peace. The visit of Mr. Polyansky and the Russian parliamentarians has helped emphasize their desire for friendly relations between our two countries," said Mr. Winters.

BMC, JAGUAR

Two British Car Companies Merge

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain's "mini-car" makers joined forces with the luxury Jaguar cars Monday night in a merger aimed at strengthening their bid for vital export sales.

The giant British Motor Corporation (BMC)—which makes two-fifths of Britain's cars, including the revolutionary tiny Mini Austin series and its higher-powered variants — said the merger had been decided upon "rather than fight against each other in the export market."

Jaguar—producers of luxurious sedans and the glamorous E-type 160-m.p.h. sports car—said the merger would be "a very valuable partnership."

Jaguar cars will remain a separate entity, with its present chairman, Sir William Lyons, retaining his post. The chairman of BMC—makers of Morris, Austin, Wolseley, Riley and MG—is Sir George Harriman.

The combination was expected to put the two companies on a better competitive footing against the American "big three," European alliances like Fiat and Volkswagen-Mercedes Benz, and the Japanese amalgamation of Nissan and Prinz.

Of the other major British car producers, British Ford and Vauxhall are wholly American-owned, while Rootes is affiliated with Chrysler.

After BMC, Jaguar was the biggest independent left.

The combination will handle 44 per cent of the British car market and earn nearly $380,000,000 from American car sales.

The merger closes a colorful era in the independent history of Jaguar, a firm built up by Lyons, who at 65 is the last of the great pioneers of the British motor industry. The firm began humbly in 1922 when 21-year-old Bill Lyons formed the Swallow Sidecar Co. in Blackpool. His early successes in a long line of fast, sleek sports cars came a decade later with the SS Jaguar.

The postwar era brought a big rise in the fortunes of the firm, under the name of Jaguar Car Co. Its fantastic series of engines won the 24-hour sports car classic at Le Mans, France, three years in succession beginning in 1955.

After Volkswagen, the new group will be the largest vehicle manufacturers in the world outside the United States.

Bricklayers Get Vancouver Parity

Bricklayers on southern Vancouver Island have gained parity with Vancouver workers in a new two-year contract.

Members of Local 2, Bricklayers International Union, accepted a contractors' offer Monday night. The 72-cent package includes an extra 49 cents in wages.

The old rate of $3.51 an hour rises to $3.66 immediately, $3.80 at Oct. 1 and $4 Oct. 1, 1967.

The union, representing 54 bricklayers, had served 48-hour strike notice on nine contractors. They were seeking 50 cents over two years.

Talks with Local 1093, Construction and General Laborers Union, are expected later this week. The union served strike notice last week to back its demand for parity with other union members in B.C.

$11 Million Tied Up In Hotel Adventure

TORONTO (CP)—Atlantic Acceptance Corp., which went bankrupt last year, might have stayed alive had it not been for an $11,000,000 'adventure in the Bahamas," a royal commission was told Monday.

The commission, set up to investigate the collapse of Atlantic which went into receivership in June, 19 when it couldn't meet a $5,000,000 debt, was told the finance company had more than $11,000,000 tied up in the luxurious Lucayan Beach Hotel in the Bahamas.

Albert Shepherd, commission counsel, said had the investment been more liquid Atlantic may have been able to meet the $5,000.000 debt.

The Lucayan Beach Hotel was financed largely by Atlantic Acceptance funds and run by Canadians.

John M. Burn, a chartered accountant who investigated Atlantic's Bahamian investments for the royal commission, said the Lucayan Beach Hotel sold 10,000,000 shares to the public beginning in 1963.

Mr. Burn said Atlantic had put up about 80 per cent of the money to buy these shares, but ended up with only 33 per cent.

Investigation of the Bahamian deals was hampered by the fact that the commission was dealing with companies dealing in foreign jurisdictions.

A company which owed Atlantic more than $7,000,000 at one time had apparently kept no books after the first three months of its 21-month existence, Mr. Snepherd said.

Coronation Profit Down

VANCOUVER (CP) — Net income of Coronation Credit Corp. fell to $429,676 in the nine months ended April 30 compared with $668,392 in the same period a year ago.

Share earnings were 16 cents compared with 33 cents.

Preferred dividends paid in the period totalled $221,474 compared with $231,419.

Shipments Of Grain Show Gain

VANCOUVER (CP) — Grain shipments in June from Vancouver were almost double those of the same month in 1965, the merchant's exchange has reported.

Shipping in June, 1966, totalled 19,800,000 bushels. The 1965 figure was 10,800,000.

An exchange spokesman said shipments for last month were above average and the 1965 figure was low because of a grain handlers' strike.

Total shipments for B.C. ports from Aug. 1, 1965, to the end of June were 221,200,000 bushels against the previous season's figure of 184,600,000.

Prairie Winery Planned

Growers' Wine Ltd. is looking for Saskatchewan farmers to raise raspberries for a new prairie winery.

Its subsidiary company, Growers' Wine (Saskatchewan) Ltd., has notified the Saskatchwan department of industry and commerce that a pilot project at Moose Jaw would be successful.

Additional land is being acquired for further development as work proceeds at a crash pace to have the first winery unit built by September.

Meanwhile, the company is investigating a $100,000 a year raspberry growing business.

LONG AGREEMENT

Field manager Herbert Bickford said he is looking for 10-year agreements with five or six farmers interested in planting about 30 acres with raspberry canes.

He said the minimum price they could expect to receive would be 22 cents a pound on a harvesting cost of three cents a pound.

The Saskatchewan subsidiary was formed in October 1964. Its first stage of construction is valued at $750,000, including an administration block that is expected to be finished in October.

Recognition By Aircraft Industry

The aircraft industry will recognize graduates of B.C. vocational programs with pay and time benefits, Education Minister Leslie Peterson said Monday.

"The plan has been endorsed by most of the larger aircraft firms which have a learner training program," he said in a press release.

Learners spend four years, during which they receive eight pay increments, to qualify for an aircraft maintenance engineer's licence.

Graduates of the one-year aircraft maintenance course at the provincial vocational school in Burnaby will be given 1½ years credit toward the licence and will start at the appropriate pay increment scale when enrolled in an industrial learner program.

High school graduates who complete either the mechanical or electrical specialty in the school industrial program will be given a six-months credit toward the licence.

Mr. Peterson said the aircraft industry's move is a concrete example of the value of the new vocationally-oriented programs in grades 11 and 12 which will produce their first graduates in 1967.

"It is a most encouraging move on the part of the industry," he said.

"The secondary schools also have programs in commerce and service industries and I am confident that as they become better known employers in those fields will recognize their value too."

Industrial Employment Shows Gain

OTTAWA (CP) — Industrial employment rose in February with gains in manufacturing, construction, transportation and the utilities.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics said today a composite index of employment based on 1961 levels as 100, rose from January. The index was 6.8 per cent higher than in February of 1964.

Calculated as a seasonal adjustment, the month's index was 119.8, higher by .8 per cent than January.

Employment rose in all larger manufacturing industries except tobacco and food and beverages. Hiring of engineers led the construction improvement.

All regions of Canada contributed to the gains, although in the Atlantic provinces a major improvement in Newfoundland was needed to offset declines in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

Railways Revenue Boosted

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's railways showed an 11.6 per cent improvement in revenues during March, 1966, over the previous March, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

Total revenues for the month were $129,731,335 for 23 reporting railways. Of this total the Canadian National Railways accounted for $68,242,652 and the Canadian Pacific Railway for $48,709,131.

Operating expenses for all the lines rose 9.2 per cent to $118,364,845 for the same month, resulting in a net operating income of $11,355,845. The net income for March, 1964, was about $7,900,000.

CNR net income for the month was $4,498,974, CPR $5,692,557.

February's figures, latest available on passenger totals, showed an 18 per cent increase in commuter travel over the same month of 1964. Non-commuter traffic was down 11.7 per cent and the total number of passengers during the month was 2,000,000, an increase over the previous year of 73,000.

EMERGENCY SERVICE SET UP IN QUEBEC

Hospitals Strike 'Certain'

MONTREAL (CP) —Marcel Pepin, president of the Quebec-based Confederation of National Trade Unions (CNTU), said Monday a committee to help provide medical treatment for sick persons at home will be set up by the CNTU should 32,000 non-medical employees go on strike Thursday.

The union service would be free of charge, he added.

Mr. Pepin told a press conference that a strike against 139 hospitals in Quebec seems "practically inevitable."

Union officials have said they would postpone the strike on a day-to-day basis if negotiations were going well but a union spokesman declined to say Monday night whether this was still the position.

Mr. Pepin said the unions, who "made every effort to continue negotiations, would take every possible measure to ensure that the population does not suffer from the irresponsibility of those to whom the well-being of the public is entrusted."

Hospitals across the province have been bracing for the probable strike by gradually reducing the number of patients.

ASK PATIENTS TO LEAVE

Patients able to leave hospital ing asked to do so and those having had an operation are being discharged as quickly as medical men feel it is safe.

It was reported Monday that at some hospitals, wards are only half filled.

Dr. J. Gilbert Turner, vice-chairman of the Quebec Hospital Association's labor relations committee, said Monday night admissions are being rigorously controlled.

He said only those requiring urgent treatment are being given beds, maternity cases included. Persons able to postpone operations were being asked to do so.

Paul Dalpe, president of the National Federation of Services (CNTU), said officials of his union, which represents the workers, have been meeting with management but that these meetings did not constitute negotiations.

SEEK $8 INCREASE

The hospitals have been reported by union officials to be offering the employees pay increases ranging from $1.50 to $3.30 on their weekly salaries while the union was asking for $8. Management spokesmen have mentioned an offer of "up to $6 weekly" as having been made to the union.

The union is seeking a two-year agreement, which would be its first province-wide agreement with hospitals.

Weekly pay for the workers concerned is in the $60-$65 range with higher rates for tradesmen and those with special qualifications.

Mr. Pepin said a study of his union shows a family's wage earner needs $90.40 a week for essentials.

The union leader said the CNTU would meet with the Quebec cabinet in a final effort to avoid a walkout, if the cabinet agreed.

There are more than 4,000 nurses among the employees represented by the CNTU affiliate.

Many hospital nurses in Quebec negotiate separately.

National Leaguers Win Thriller, 2-1

Wills' Single Breaks Up Game

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Maury Wills' line single into right field in the 10th inning scored Tim McCarver from second to give the National ... a 2-1 victory over the American League toda... e 49,936 fans in 100-plus degree weather at Busch ...orial Stadium.

The Los Angeles Dodgers' shortstop, who entered the game in the eighth inning as a replacement for Cincinnati's Leo Cardenas, lashed a pitch by Washington's Pete Richert into right field and McCarver, the St. Louis catcher, dug for home.

Tony Oliva of Minnesota made the long throw to the plate, but it was late and wide as McCarver scored to the cheers of the home town fans.

The victory was the fourth straight for the Nationals, who now hold a 19-17-1 edge over the American League which used to dominate this mid-summer fixture. It also was the fourth straight time the Nationals had won in extra innings.

Pitching and fine defensive play, especially by third baseman Brooks Robinson of the Baltimore Orioles, dominated the contest.

It was 100 degrees on the nose when the game started and the thermometer popped up to 102 officially. However, it must have been at least 10 degrees warmer on the field even in this circular stadium. About 100 spectators were treated for heat exhaustion and several deaths in the St. Louis area were attributed to the heat.

PERFECT INNINGS

Denny McLain, Detroit's ace right-hander and top winner in the American, had outpitched the Dodgers' Sandy Koufax with three perfect innings to start the game.

Koufax had yielded a run in the second on a wild pitch following a triple by Brooks Robinson on a ball that got away from left-fielder Hank Aaron of Atlanta as he tried for a shoestring catch.

Koufax made Boston's George Scott foul out, following Brooks' triple, but his first pitch to catcher Bill Freehan of Detroit sailed past catcher Joe Torre of Atlanta for a wild pitch. Robinson scored easily for a run that stood up until the fourth.

The Nationals pulled even in the fourth with the help of Willie Mays of San Francisco. The star of many all-star contests singled off Minnesota's Jim Kaat and took second on a single by Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh.

SLOW ROLLER

Aaron fouled out, but Mays took third when Willie McCovey of San Francisco forced Clemente at second. Ron Santo of the Chicago Cubs then beat out a single off the glove of Brooks Robinson, scoring Mays. It was a slow-hit ball, charged by Brooks, who was unable to prevent it from trickling off his glove.

Gaylord Perry of the San Fracisco Giants, who pitched the ninth and 10th innings for the Nationals, was the winning pitcher.

Mrs. Gandhi Continues Peace Bid

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Prime Minister Gandhi of India was given a big welcome when she arrived here today for talks in which she will urge the Soviet Union to do something about peace in Viet Nam.

Fresh from visits to Cairo and Belgrade, Mrs. Gandhi intends to make Viet Nam a key topic during her five-day visit.

The influence of non-aligned powers in international affairs faces a test in the five days of official talks arranged for Mrs. Gandhi. She has the backing of two other non-aligned countries —Yugoslavia and the United Arab Republic—for her call for reconvening the 1954 Geneva conference on Indo-China.

Russia, co - chairman with Britain of the 1954 conference which ended the war in Indo-china, is reluctant to resume the Geneva meeting unless the United States withdraws its troops from South Viet Nam and stops bombing the North.

Her appeal has already been rejected by China, which labelled it an attempt to sap the fighting will of the Vietnamese.

The U.S. view is that her plan is unlikely to prove of any value because of North Viet Nam's expressed disinterest in negotiations.

WILSON MAY HELP

However, Prime Minister Wilson of Britain begins a visit to Moscow Saturday, Mrs. Gandhi's last day here, and some observers said he might be able to add weight to her case.

Mrs. Gandhi Monday night completed two days of talks with Yugoslav President Tito in the president's Adriatic island hideaway. Tito was understood to have expressed full appreciation of her peace plan.

However a joint communique issued today did not specifically mention Viet Nam.

The communique expressed India's and Yugoslavia's deep concern over persistent use of force, interference and armed intevention "in some parts of the world" and said non-alignment represented the sole alternative to war in the current nuclear age.

It said both leaders were satisfied the planned three-party summit meeting among themselves and U.A.R. President Gamal Abdel Nasser in New Delhi, the Indian capital, in October would enable them to continue their friendly exchange of opinions.

Mrs. Gandhi's trip mainly concerns relations between India and the Soviet Union and the implementation of the Indo-Pakistan agreement reached last year at Tashkent, Soviet Central Asia, under Russian chairmanship.

Atlantic Crossed in 12-Foot Boat

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI)—Adventurer William Verity arrived safely in Ireland today, completing a record 65-day crosing of the Atlantic in a homemade 12-foot sailboat, it was reported here.

The feat topped the efforts of Cleveland newsman, Robert Manry, who crossed the ocean last year in a 13½-foot sailboat, the Tinkerbelle.

Fouls on Pele Give Brazil Win

LIVERPOOL, England (CP)—Brazil, world soccer champions, opened their campaign to win the World Cup by beating Bulgaria 2-0 tonight in a bruising and sometimes brilliant match. Halftime score was 1-0. Both goals came from free kicks for fouls on Pele, Brazil's inside forward star. Pele himself scored in the 16th minute and Garrincha in the 63rd minute.

A fireman and another man were killed when a fire truck was in collision with a passenger car.

Dief Queries Jet Contract Loss

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition leader Diefenbaker asked today whether a Toronto aircraft plant has lost a $62,800,000 contract for the United States for DC-9 jetliner parts.

Industry Minister Drury said he was not aware that such a large contract had been cancelled and promised to investigate.

TWO MORE SEATS

Liberals Win Power in P.E.I.

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP)—The voters of rural Kings 1st, voting six weeks later than Prince Edward Islanders in 15 other ridings, ended seven years of Progressive Conservative administration Monday night and swept Liberal Alex B. Campbell, 32, into power as Canada's youngest premier.

The deferred balloting in the two - member constituency, brought about by the death of a Liberal candidate May 26, snapped a two-party stalemate and toppled the government of Premier Walter R. Shaw, 78, the nation's oldest provincial chief.

The standings—	1966	1962
Liberals	17	11
Conservatives	15	19
Total	32	30

"My reaction is one of disappointment," Mr. Shaw said after Liberals Daniel J. MacDonald and Bruce L. Stewart swept to victory by large majorities.

Mr. Shaw, who led his party to power in 1959 at an age when most people contemplate the ease of retirement, broke even with his young rival in the May 30 election.

The two parties, the only ones contesting the election, wound up in a 15-seat deadlock and consequently directed the political spotlight on the 2,411 eligible voters in Kings 1st.

More than 2,200 enfranchised residents of the fishing and farming constituency responded by giving Mr. MacDonald, Liberal councillor candidate, a 207-vote majority over Conservative Peter MacAulay and Mr. Stewart, a 158-vote margin over Conservative Keith MacKenzie in the race for the assemblyman's seat.

Mr. MacKenzie was the second public works and highways minister to suffer defeat within six weeks. He was appointed to the cabinet shortly after the defeat of J. Philip Matheson in Queens 2nd in the May 30 election.

QUESTIONS RAISED

The Liberal victory raised immediate questions.

When would Mr. Campbell announce his cabinet? "Within two or three weeks," was the reply.

When would Mr. Shaw and Mr. Campbell meet to discuss takeover plans? "Well, I think

New TV Network Set for U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — Plans for a new nationwide U.S. television network were announced Monday by millionaire industrialist Daniel H. Overmyer.

Overmyer told a press conference the network, to be called the Overmyer Network, or "ON," will begin broadcasting with about 100 stations Sept. 11, 1967.

It would be the first major TV network since the American Broadcasting Company in 1948. One of ABC's former TV network presidents, Oliver Treyz, will be president of ON, Overmyer said.

Overmyer said he expects to provide the estimated $6,000,000 to $10,000,000 needed to launch the network and that he has a verbal commitment from 35 stations.

NEW VEHICLE TESTED

'Flies Like a Brick' But Spacemen Pleased

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A wingless metal capsule with a man inside dropped from beneath a bomber's wing today, manoeuvred as it plunged earthward, then flattened out and glided to a landing on a dry lake at California's Edwards Air Force Base.

U.S. Space Agency Pilot Milton O. Thompson lifted his plastic canopy and stepped out grinning and happy after the revolutionary future space ferry's first flight.

The 2½-ton craft looks like a bullet cut in half lengthwise, and to observers on the ground seemed to fly at first like a brick.

After dropping from 45,000 feet it fell rapidly. Still, using controls and the slight aerodynamic lift provided by its shape, Thompson was able to manoeuvre the weird M-2F2 through two 90-degree turns at 450 miles an hour. Then, nearing the ground, he pulled the nose up and skimmed to a landing at nearly 200 miles an hour.

The 22- by 10-foot craft, called a lifting body, is one of several shapes under study to ferry men and equipment down from large space satellites. Its rounded bottom provides just enough lift to keep it from falling like a stone. Small rudders at the rear enable the pilot to steer to a landing site—an advantage over the bullet - like trajectory of re-entering Mercury and Gemini space craft.

On today's flight, the M-2F2 was dropped within gliding distance of the air force base. Later it will be equipped with a rocket engine to drive it to 80,000 feet and 1,200 miles an hour to simulate re-entry from space.

Thompson previously had flown a lightweight plywood version, descending from a height of 12,000 feet after being pulled aloft by a plane.

Wings have been eliminated from shapes such as the M-2F2 because they would be torn off diving into the atmosphere at 18,000 mile - an - hour orbital speeds.

An upside-down version, the HL-10—which glides on the flat, instead of the rounded side, of the half-cone design—is scheduled for testing here later this year.

The B-52 plane which carried Thompson aloft today is the same type that takes the X-15 rocket plane up for launching on record-breaking flights. Thompson has flown the X-15 to 3,700 miles an hour and 214,000 feet.

INSURANCE COMPANIES BILKED

Cheaters Crashed Cars for Profit

NEW YORK (UPI) — Too much of a good thing tripped up a ring that engineered auto accidents to fleece insurance companies out of at least $15,000 in claims, the Bronx district attorney's office said today.

Dist. Atty. Isidor Dollinger said at least eight insurance companies and 17 out-of-state trucking concerns were bilked by the group of seven men and-a woman.

According to Dollinger, the group purposely set up auto accidents with their old model cars on a stretch of expressway by maneuvering their cars in front of out-of-state trucks, slowing them down to 15 miles per hour, and suddenly jamming on the brakes.

Usually, Dollinger said, the truck was too close to avoid a collision. Although the cars suffered little damage, the occupants were "shaken up" and would seek hospital treatment.

When the insurance investigator arrived, the "victim" would sign releases prohibiting court suits and accept cash settlements that ranged from $62.50 to $2,000, the district attorney said.

Dollinger explained out-of-state trucks were chosen because their insurers were more apt to offer quick cash settlements rather than become enmeshed in out-of-state lawsuits.

He said the ring was broken when insurance companies complained that an exorbitant number of accidents occurred in a repetitive pattern on the same stretch of highway. At least 17 accidents were confirmed.

All eight alleged ring members were charged with grand larceny. One male member was additionally charged with impairing the morals of a minor by enticing a 5-year-old boy to take an "accident" ride and become a "victim."

Two were under arrest today and the other six, including the woman, were being sought, Dollinger said.

'Munich Plot' Alleged

PEKING (Reuters)—The official New China news agency has lumped Canada with Britain, the Soviet Union, India and the U.S. in what it describes as a "new Munich plot" to bring about peace negotiations in Viet Nam.

"Working hand in glove with one another for the realization of the U.S. plot are the imperialists, the Soviet revisionist leaders and the Indian reactionaries," the agency said Monday.

It went on to list proposals for peace in Viet Nam emanating from Ottawa, Washington, New Delhi, Moscow and London.

It gave a summary of External Affairs Minister Paul Martin's announcement of discussions on peace in Viet Nam and Soviet cabinet minister Dmitri Polyansky's July 3 interview in Canada in which he urged Ottawa to take active steps to halt the Viet Nam war.

"All this shows that a new Munich plot in close co-ordination with the criminal war blackmail of the (U.S.) Johnson administration is in the making," the agency said.

It said that although the U.S. wants peace on the basis of the 1954 Geneva agreement on Viet Nam, "the Geneva agreements have long been torn to shreds by the war actions of the Johnson administration and no longer exist."

Rockets Miss U.S. Raiders

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. flyers tangled with two MIG 21s and eluded a barrage of missiles over North Viet Nam during bombing raids on missile, radar and fuel sites, the U.S. command reported today.

In a day of furious air activity Monday, one missile site was destroyed and two oil installations and a radar site bombed, a spokesman said.

Carrier planes pounced on some 200 barges and junks and pilots reported destroying or damaging 59 of them.

The U.S. command announced the loss of an F-105 Thunderchief to Communist groundfire Monday. The pilot bailed out but could not be rescued because of heavy anti - aircraft fire.

ONE BEST: LET'S HURRY

10-Hour Deluge

SANDUSKY, Ohio (UPI) — A state of emergency was declared today when nearly 10 inches of rain pounded this Lake Erie city in a 10-hour deluge, sending streams as deep as five feet coursing through city streets.

LOGGER DIES IN ACCIDENT

UCLUELET—A logger was killed Monday at the Kennedy Lake operation of MacMillan Bloedel Ltd.

The man, a faller, was believed crushed between two logs.

He was taken to Tofino Hospital but was dead on arrival.

The man's name was not released.

Nurserymen Still Await Nematode Aid

Most southern Vancouver Island nurserymen have not yet been compensated by the federal government for losses resulting from an outbreak of golden nematode in Saanich.

G. M. Owen, president of the Vancouver Island Nurserymen's and Allied Trades, said Monday only two members of the association's 40 members have received payment.

He said the organization is pressing the government to make good its promise of compensation for nursery operators who could not export plants during last year's ban.

The plant ban was imposed to prevent the spread of nematodes — a microscopic worm which attacks the roots of potatoes and tomatoes. The ban applied to the mainland and the United States.

CLAIM DELAY

Mr. Owen said nurserymen are suffering financial hardships over the delay in settling claims.

"In addition to not getting the payments we expected, we have to contend with the tight money problem," he said. "This is a very real hardship because growers often rely on their credit to tide themselves over the unproductive seasons."

Amateur Logger Gets Chance

There's gold at the PNE for amateur loggers.

The Pacific National Exhibition's first-ever festival of logging will offer $15,000 in prize money for loggers from throughout British Columbia.

The competitions and the prize money are for amateurs only.

Daily top competitors in the various logging events will win prizes of $100, $50 or $20. Second place daily winners will pocket $50, $25 and $10.

Loggers from Ladysmith, Squamish, Kamloops, Mission and other centres have already signified they will enter the competitions.

TAX FUNDS INVESTED

PORT ALBERNI—City council Monday approved a 30-day investment of $1,000,000 in tax funds.

"We made the investment to bring in a few extra dollars for the benefit of our citizens," said clerk-comptroller Dennis Thain.

"Almost everyone pays taxes at the end of June. As a result we have funds we will not be using for a few weeks," he explained.

Woman Studies Water Supply

DUNCAN—A study is being made of the Cowichan Valley's water resources.

The work is being done on behalf of the provincial water rights branch by Miss Susan Arnell, a geography graduate working toward her Masters degree.

The report she will make to the water rights branch will also be her thesis to be presented to the University of Alberta.

Miss Arnell is an Ottawa native spending the summer working for the water rights branch in Victoria.

DUNCAN — Jack Hindmarch told city council Monday night it is ridiculous local launderettes pay less for water than the eight-unit Kiwanis Village.

He said: "Let's give the old people a break."

Mr. Hindmarch, secretary of the Duncan Kiwanis Village Society, was asking council to relieve the village from water taxes.

At present the society pays $27 a month for the village water supply.

Mr. Hindmarch said launderettes are operating 24 hours a day for $17.60 a month.

RENT INCREASE

He said Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation stated a rent increase is inevitable unless there is a tax concession from the city.

Tenants are limited to an annual income of $2,480 a couple.

Duncan tenants pay $36.75 a month rent, including water, but pay for their own light and heat.

Mr. Hindmarch said the society would have to raise the rents in order to pay the city's sewer and garbage rates.

Cities like Victoria, Nanaimo and Penticton do not charge Kiwanis Villages any sewer rate.

Mr. Hindmarch said if the society had not held back last year's tax payment of $144 it would have been in the red.

Even with 100 per cent occupancy the society is not putting money in the maintenance fund.

The Village Society is subsidised to the extent of $500 a year by the Kiwanis Club.

Ald. James Saunders said there is a danger in starting such a tax concession.

If council remitted the village water rates every old age pensioner in the city would want the same.

"And why not?" he said.

Mr. Saunders added: "Everything else is going up and you would not be in financial trouble if you increased the rents to $40 a month. I'm sure the villagers wouldn't object."

Mr. Hindmarch said: "It is us who are objecting. Why can we not help the old people. I don't think anyone in town would squawk one little bit if the village water rate was cut."

Mayor Jack Dobson referred the matter to committee.

But said: "My recommendation is that we try to give some relief."

PORT ALBERNI — The twin Vancouver Island cities of Port Alberni and Alberni have taken another step toward amalgamation. Port Alberni city council appointed H. D. Thain city manager and S. J. Sawyer, Alberni city manager, will become assistant city manager when amalgamation takes place in October, 1967.

POLL PLANNED

Holiday Asked During Carnival

DUNCAN — Ald. Tommy Kilpatrick undertook Monday to find out how local merchants react to closing the city for a public holiday Saturday, Aug. 13.

It is the date of the Cowichan Timber Carnival being planned by the Centennial Celebrations Committee.

Ald. Kilpatrick said in council Monday: "I think it would be a wonderful gesture and the merchants would not suffer too much.

"People intend to overbuy when there is a public holiday."

Mayor Jack Dobson suggested closing down for the period of the parade.

He said: "Otherwise local people might not stay around for the rest of the celebrations."

Ald. Kilpatrick will discuss the idea today with Bob Berry and Hugh Jackson, Jaycee co-chairmen of the Celebrations Committee.

The Timber Carnival Committee visited the All-Sooke Day events Saturday to get ideas.

Jubiel Wickheim, champion log birler from Sooke, has agreed to take part in the Duncan events.

Duncan Local 1-80 of the IWA is to make a cash donation to the carnival and donate a trophy for the "best all-round logger."

Spanking by Mayor Disturbs Alderman

DUNCAN—City aldermen were "ticked off" by Mayor Jack Dobson Monday for non-attendance at public events.

He said at a council meeting: "Public relations is one of our chief functions."

Mayor Dobson criticized the fact no member of council turned out to support the city's July 1 celebrations.

He said: "I was committed to attend Dominion Day celebrations at Chemainus but put in as much time here as I could."

Mayor Dobson said: "Council should support these efforts but some aldermen are making no effort."

Ald. Barney Cocks said he did not appreciate the "public spanking" and said council members' attendance at public events should be discussed beforehand in committee.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids...and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that the improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).
